HITCHHIKING LITTLE GREEN MEN?

Flying saucer fans in Stockholm, Sweden must have thought their claims had all come true, seeing this object over the city yesterday. But, in unfanciful reality, it's just an ultramodern summer cabin, finished with its stint on display, being helicopter-lifted to a new site south of the Swedish capital. (AP Wisephoto via cable)

Speaker Office 'Fix' Charged

NEW YORK (AP) — Life Magazine charges that a Washington lobbyist received $5,000 in cash to wield influence in a tax evasion case while sitting in House Speaker John W. McCormack's chair in the speaker's private office. McCormack was not present at the time, Life says.

The Life article also describes several other alleged fixes and fix attempts involving both the lobbyist and McCormack's suspended chief aide and claims "the evidence is that McCormack was more than naively involved in whatever took place in his office."

LOBBYIST NAMED

Life, in the article written by William Lambert to appear in the Oct. 31 edition, identifies the lobbyist and alleged fixer as Nathan Voloshen, a 71-year-old "purported lawyer in Maryland who is a close friend of the speaker."

Both Voloshen and Dr. Martin Sweig, whom McCormack suspended last week as his administrative assistant, are currently targets of a Securities and Exchange Commission complaint.

The article said that Dr. Irving Helfert, a Dayton, Ohio, urologist accused of evading more than $300,000 in federal taxes, counted out the $5,000 in cash in McCormack's office and handed it to Voloshen.

DOCTOR JAILED

"Voloshen said he would mail Helfert a receipt, and the doctor would be hearing from him," Lambert wrote. "But he never did. The doctor was convicted, fined $15,000 and given a suspended jail sentence."

McCormack declined to comment on the article this morning but said he would have a statement later in day.

Voloshen was not immediately available for comment.

"Life's inquiries have uncovered literally dozens of fixed cases, near-fixes and plain shakedown emanating from Voloshen's power base in the speaker's office. All have been turned over to the Justice Department and the Internal Revenue Service which in turn have conducted investigations leading to more cases," the article said.

BRIBE TRY CLAIMED

Life said that while Lambert was working on the article, a friend of Voloshen approached an investigator and said $50,000 would be paid Lambert to drop the story—$25,000 down and the remainder in six months if the article did not appear.

The article said Life began its investigation last March. It said that when the SEC mentioned Sweig and Voloshen in a civil

Turned-Off Youth Held Key To Drugs

Linkletter Testifies On His Closeness To Problem

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Television personality Art Linkletter said today kids who've tried the drug scene and "turned off" are the best weapon in curbing the use of hard drugs.

"Teen-agers will listen especially to kids who have tried dangerous drugs and turned off. They are the best authorities — those who tried it and found it was no good," he told the House Select Committee on Crime.

Linkletter, who blamed his daughter's suicide three weeks ago on LSD, called for a compulsory drug education program starting in the fourth or fifth grade.

"It should explain the danger of putting chemicals into the body. It should study the cultures which have been turned on in the past and lost," he said.

Linkletter told the committee he plans to produce a film on drugs for educators with a grant from the University of California Medical School.

"Our educators do not know how to talk to children on this matter. Our children know more than the educators, not only in conning them, but about what drugs do," he said.

"We should also try to reach the parents through news media and the youth through rock groups and disc jockeys."

He said he felt such people as Timothy Leary, an LSD advocate and former Harvard instructor, were responsible for his daughter's death because they were looked up to by youth.

Linkletter's daughter, Diane, leaped to her death from her Hollywood apartment Oct. 4 in what the performer said was "a depressed state from bad LSD trips."

At the committee's first session Thursday, a self-admitted distributor of dangerous drugs told how he could net more than $60,000 a year by working

Battles In Lebanon; Yemen Ousts U.S.

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The always volcanic Middle East continued on the verge of eruption today, with bloodletting in Lebanon. Yemen severing diplomatic ties with the U.S. and Israel and the Soviet Union sounding grave warnings from the sidelines.

Lebanese troops fougr running battles with armed civilians and Arab guerrillas in the northern port of Tripoli today following a clash between demonstrators and security forces in which at least seven people were killed.

In Beirut, Palestinians sealed off the teeming Sabra quarter with sandbag barricades. A police post in guerrilla-populated area was evacuated.

Al Fatah guerrillas were seen openly handing out Russian-made machine guns to their supporters, many of whom have received some military training. Other Palestinians prepared a store of gasoline bombs.

Defying an indefinite curfew clamped on Lebanon's major cities following bloody clashes yesterday between the army Palestinian guerrillas, demonstrators in Tripoli were reported to have battled with troops and police in two areas of town.

South Yemen broke diplomatic relations with the United States today, barred entry by U.S. nationals and served a 24-hour order in Aden to Charge d'Affaires Charles Eagleton and some 37 embassy personnel to leave the country.

The decisions were announced by the South Yemen chairman of the presidential council, 35-year-old Salem Ali Rabyee, in a speech to a massive rally following a demonstration stagtd by the ruling National Liberation Front to support Palestinian guerrillas against recent attacks by the Lebanese army.

Rabyee claimed that campaigns against Palestinians were planned in Washington and aimed at liquidating the resistance movement.

Israeli Deputy Premier Yigal Allon said in Tel Aviv that Israel will not stand idly by if the Lebanese government is overthrown by foreign forces.

Allon did not elaborate, but the Hebrew daily Yed Ot Ahar not said overthrow of the Lebanese government would end existing cease-fire agreements and would force Israel to take "all necessary actions" to ensure its northern frontier.

In Moscow the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda sounded a note for an easing of tensions in Lebanon. It charged that intrigues by what it called Western and Israeli agents in Lebanon had heightened tension between the Lebanese government and the Palestinian guerrillas. But at the same time it voiced approval of moves in Lebanon to avoid steps that might be used as an excuse for "provocations of imperialism" such as U.S. Marines' entry into Lebanon in 1958.

Reports from Amman, Jordan, said Nasser and King Hussein of

VIETNAM PROBE NEXT

Sergeants Silent In GI Graft Quiz

WASHINGTON (AP) — Phase One of a Senate conspiracy probe that shook the Army from GI to general has ended in a wave of Fifth Amendment responses from witnesses who refused to answer questions about an alleged multimillion-dollar graft operation.

Phase Two, a public airing of large-scale black market and currency manipulation rackets in South Vietnam, is next on the agenda.

The Fifth Amendment was invoked 114 times yesterday, 23 times by William O. Wooldridge, a sad-faced, 47-year old sergeant major who used to be the Army's top-ranking enlisted man.

As television lights reflected from the five rows of decorations on his green uniform, Wooldridge refused repeatedly to defend himself from allegations he profited from funds stolen from noncommissioned officers clubs, took kickbacks and payoffs, and received checks from a secret Swiss bank account bearing the code name "FISHHEAD."

Three other men—all former club custodians—followed his lead and, on the advice of their attorneys, refused to give any information other than their names and addresses.

Meanwhile, the Army struck Wooldridge's name from its list of command sergeants major. Although he will be removed from his current assignment at the White Sands Proving Ground, he will remain at the facility in New Mexico in a different capacity, retaining his rank and pay.

A Pentagon spokesman said it was too early to tell if Wooldridge would be court-martialed.

Military investigators are following a web of allegations against Wooldridge and others in a worldwide probe leading from Augsburg, Germany, to Fort Benning, Ga., to Vietnam to the Pentagon itself.

"These hearings have produced testimony which indicates a serious betrayal of public trust by a small number of men," said Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., acting chairman of the Senate's investigations subcommittee.

He said senior sergeants took

SEN. STEPHEN M. YOUNG
'Reality of age'

Senate Dean Not Running Again In 70

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, at 80 the oldest member of the Senate, said today he will not be a candidate for a third term in 1970.

"The reality of age I shall not ignore," Young told news conference.

Young was elected to the Senate in 1958 when he upset the Republican incumbent, John W. Bricker. He won reelection in 1964 by defeating the GOP nominee, Robert Taft Jr.

Young said that while he could not ignore his age he noted: "My health is excellent. My vigor, eyesight and hearing have not diminished in the least during recent years."

In his second successful run for the Senate in 1964, Young was pitted against astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., in the Democratic primary. But Glenn was forced to withdraw from the primary because of an ear injury he suffered in a fall.

In defeating Taft—the son of a senator and the grandson of a president—Young went to bed election night thinking he had lost and left town the next morning without checking the returns. He learned of his election while driving to Washington.

Young entered politics in 1912—the year he came out of law school—by winning a seat in the Ohio General Asssembly. He was elected to the House in 1932, 1934, 1940 and 1948.

Doubts Arise To Zodiac Voice; Dick Tracy Clue Hunt Dropped

COMBINED AP & UPI

SAN FRANCISCO—That voice on a television talk show may not have been that of Zodiac, the man who boasts of five killings in the San Francisco Bay Area.

Tapes of the Wednesday broadcast were played yesterday to three persons who have heard the man who calls himself Zodiac and they don't think the voice on television matched the one they had heard earlier.

One listener was Bryan Hartnell, 20, a student who was stabbed by the hooded Zodiac Sept. 27 at the time Cecilia Ann Shepard, 22, was killed at Lake Berryessa.

Hartnell told Napa County detectives he did not think it was the same voice. Zodiac had talked with him and Miss Shepard for 30 minutes before stabbing them.

Others who didn't think it was the same voice are Napa policeman David Slaight and Vallejo police clerk Nancy Slover. Zodiac telephoned both to boast of his slayings.

The tapes also were heard by an unnamed Oakland policeman who took a call demanding a chance to talk on a KOG-TV television talk show with attorney Melvin Belli. The officer said the voice on television did not seem to be the one that had made the demand.

Belli said yesterday that Zodiac made repeated attempts to set up a secret meeting with him after their dramatic conversation.

"He called my home twice and told my housekeeper he wanted to meet me there Wednesday night. Later he called my answering service and said he knows where we can meet if it's prearranged. But he hasn't called back. There's no question it's the same man."

The killer has been sending notes and cryptograms to newspapers and police departments bragging of his killings. Most nost notes start "This is Zodiac speaking."

Police believe the same man committed all five crimes because the notes contain information not made public, because all the notes are in the identical handwriting and because a piece of bloody shirt torn from the body of one victim was enclosed in one letter.

Meanwhile today, state crime sleuths folded up their comic pages and gave up hope of finding clues to the Zodiac killer in the Dick Tracy cartoon series.

Agents of the state Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation in Sacramento began checking two months worth of Tracy comics on the theory that they might find some link between the Scorpio, leader of the Zodiac Gang, being hunted down by Tracy.

"We gave the whole thing up," Earl Bauer, senior analyst in the crime laboratory, said today. "We didn't find anything that tied it up at all. We gave it up.

U.N. Marks 24th Date Of Founding

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United Nations marked its 24th birthday today with a show of U.S.-Soviet accord and a warning from Secretary-General U Thant that peace is still an remote goal.

In a U.N. Day message, Thant told delegates of the 126 member nations that "we have not done nearly enough to reach the goals solemnly proclaimed" in San Francisco in 1945.

"The scourge of war is still with us," he said. "The armaments race continues under its own mad momentum. Human rights are being flagrantly violated in southern Africa and in many other parts of the world."

General Assembly President Angie Brooks of Liberia also decried the existence of war, poverty and oppression but noted that "the last 24 years have been survived without a major holocaust."

This U.N. Day was a curtain raiser for the 25th anniversary which next year will be climaxed by the most elaborate ceremonies in the history of the United Nations.

The United States and the Soviet Union joined in supporting a proposal for a world summit meeting at U.N. headquarters to commemorate the quarter-century milestone.

Both super powers told the as-

Span Bond Maneuver To Preserve Reserves

Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors made preparations today to have their cake and eat it, too.

By 6-0 vote, the district board's finance and auditing committee called for plans to create a nonprofit corporation to finance a commuter transit system, thus leaving intact the district reserves.

The vote came after north-of-the-bridge directors beat back a concerted effort by directors from San Francisco to order the corporation created immediately. Such a motion by Stephan C. Leonoudakis was tabled by 3-3 vote.

The winning motion — calling for preparation of plans to be presented at next Friday's meeting of the full board — was labeled typical of the "do nothing" character of the board of Director William C. Blake of San Francisco.

The nonprofit corporation, as described to the committee by attorney Jack K. Dooling, would float revenue bonds to buy equipment to create the short term transit system.

The committee also authorized Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Leuhring to spend up to $100,000 to hire transit personnel.

Miner's Body Found

FARMINGTON, W. VA. (AP) — The charred body of another coal miner, the second found in 24 hours, was discovered early today deep inside fire-ravaged Consolidation Coal Co. No. 9 where 78 miners were killed last November.

The miner was identified by specially trained State Police identification teams as Charles Hardman, 43, of Shinnston, the second motorman on a 35-car coal train spotted under water and rock yesterday.

He and the others were killed when fires and explosions swept through the sprawling 88-mile-long mine on Nov. 29, 1968.

Hardman's body was found about 900 feet west of the body of Lester Willard, 49, Farmington, which rescue teams spotted deep in water at the other end of the train yesterday.

Agnew Silent About Daughter's Non March

PALM SPRINGS (AP)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, vacationing at this Southern California desert spa, is declining to comment on a report he stopped his daughter from participating in the antiwar Moratorium Day demonstrations last week.

Agnew and his wife arrived last night and secluded themselves. The Secret Service said the vice president would have no comment on the report.

In a copyright interview with the vice president, columnist Nick Thimmesch of Newsday, of Garden City, N.Y., quoted Agnew as saying: "My 14-year-old daughter Kim wanted to show her support for the moratorium by marching and wearing a black arm band. I wouldn't let her.

"She was unhappy for about a day but she got over it. Parental-type power must be exercised. Some parents have just forgotten how," the newspaper columnist quoted the vice president as saying.

"People in the establishment don't want to say 'no' to young people even if they are wrong," the interview went on. "Some self-serving politicians see our huge youth population as a volatile political commodity available for plucking.

He commented in a visit to La Jolla yesterday about a Sunday night speech in New Orleans where he discussed Moratorium Day participants, saying: "A spirit of national masochism prevails, encouraged by an effete corps of impudent snobs who characterized themselves as intellectuals."

Yesterday he said he "was not talking about the young people" when he spoke of "impudent snobs" but "was referring to people who are in the leadership of some of the movements today."

There are "dissidents who have been in trouble in this country since I can remember —the wrong kind of leadership for the wrong purpose," he said.

"I think nearly every responsible person in the country realizes that President Nixon cannot just simply withdraw from Vietnam, give up and leave the sacrifice of 40,000 American lives there to no purpose."

Senate Defies Nixon On GI Bill Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate approved a 46 per cent hike in veterans' educational benefits yesterday—an increase President Richard M. Nixon has called "excessive" and "inflationary."

The bill won a 77-0 victory and was sent to conferees who will attempt to reach a compromise between the Senate version and the 27 per cent hike in benefits approved earlier by the House.

In the meantime speculation is mounting that the President will exercise his veto power for the first time since taking office if the 46 per cent figure isn't lowered. He has said he favors a 15 per cent hike.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., said if conferees don't cut benefits below those in the Senate bill "the President will have no choice but to veto it and I think that veto would be sustained."

Earlier in the week Nixon argued against the House bill in a letter to Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., saying the effect would be "inflationary."

The Senate bill would be retroactive to Sept. 1 and would raise the monthly payment for a single veteran attending college fulltime from $130 to $190. The House version would raise benefits to $165.

Under the Senate version benefits for a veteran with two dependents would go from $175 to $240.

U.S. Viet Aircraft Losses Reach $6 Billion; GI Prisoner Freed

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced today that American aircraft losses in Vietnam have reached 6,000, representing an estimated $6 billion.

Aircraft losses listed 3,114 helicopters of half a dozen types and 2,886 fixed-wing aircraft including fighter-bombers and transports lost in North and South Vietnam since Jan. 1,1961.

Military spokesmen said there are now about 3,500 U.S. helicopters and more than 1,000 fixed-wing planes operating from bases in South Vietnam.

The U.S. Command also announced that the American soldier who returned Monday after being a captive of North Vietnamese troops for four and one-half months was freed by his captors. A spokesman said Pfc. Jesse B. Harris Jr., 20, of Port Chester, N.Y., told officers at the Long Binh hospital he was released and did not escape.

The spokesman said he had no information on why the enemy freed Harris.

The lull in the Vietnam war completed its seventh week today, but the U.S. Command reported slightly increased enemy activity along the Cambodian and Laotian borders.

Senate Panel Votes Lower Oil Depletion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee, after a surprise vote to cut the oil depletion allowance to 23 per cent, moved on today to proposals for a minimum tax on the wealthy.

Committee members agreed on a new depletion allowance figure yesterday after narrowly rejecting efforts to retain the current 27.5 per cent exemption but refused to go as far as the House tax reform bill which would slash it to 20 per cent.

The committee action would raise taxes on the oil industry by an estimated $155 million. The House figure would bring in more than $500 million.

Up for consideration before the Senate committee during today were provisions to make certain that all wealthy people pay at least some federal income tax.

Sens. John J. Williams, R-Del., and Vance Hartke, D-Ind., said they would try to see that oil income excluded under the minimum tax provisions in the House bill will be included in the Senate version.

They referred particularly to intangible drilling costs, the expenses of drilling oil and gas wells, which producers now are permitted to write off on their taxes entirely in the year incurred.

The Senate committee's decision to cut the oil and gas depletion allowance reversed an old policy and came as a shock to members from oil states. A move to retain the current 27½ per cent allowance lost on an 8-8 tie before the 23 per cent was approved.

Although the reduction was not as great as that voted by the House, it was hailed as a big victory by tax reform advocates.

But Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who long has advocated a reduction to as low as 15 per cent, said the fight to achieve the lower figure undoubtedly would be renewed on the Senate floor.

Board Will Eye One-Campus Plan

The problem of combining the Stinson Beach-Bolinas School District into a one-campus operation will be discussed at an 8 p.m. meeting Tuesday of the district's trustees at Bolinas School.

Supt. Clarence B. Larison said the board will discuss a five-point plan which would provide a single campus — closing the Stinson School — at a "fraction of the cost of a new plant."

This would include rehabilitation of the old Bolinas School for classroom use, the transfer of the portables now at Stinson Beach to Bolinas for office space or a teacher workroom, the rearrangement of the Bolinas campus, acquisition of more land at Bolinas and landscaping.

DRUGS

one week out of every five.

Donald Rice, 25, of San Francisco, accompanied by a plainclothes policeman as a safety precaution, testified yesterday about trips to Mexico where he obtained U.S.-made benzedrine for his network of 14 leaders in the Bay Area.

Rice, who has golden, shoulder-length hair, told the congressmen at the first day of a four-day hearing that he took $3,000 to a small Tijuana, Mexico, drug store and purchased 300,000 benzedrine tablets.

A runner hired for $1,000 brought them across the border —75,000 at a time in a specially fitted gas tank which held only three gallons of fuel, he said. Then the load was taken to the Bay Area and sold for $12,000.

"We figured $1,450 in expenses including the runner, plane trips and auto expense. That left almost $9,000," he said. "But we didn't reinvest. We took a week to make the pickup and delivery, then vacationed four or five weeks."

Rice said he had been charged 14 times with drug violations but never convicted.

He told the committee, headed by Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla,, that he bought as many as 40,000 mild stimulant tablets from an employee of the Sharpe Army Depot at Tracy. He said the man later was discharged, arrested and then released. Rice also told of how drugs frequently were sent east because of better prices.

"We used 18-to21-year-old girls wanting to get back east as runners," he said. "We'd provide them their plane ticket and expenses and when they arrived they would deliver the baggage check and never touch the contraband."

In answer to a question, Rice said the best way to combat the dangerous drug problem would be to prevent the pills—manufactured in the United States—from being sent to Mexico.

Three other witnesses were Richard Bennetto of San Francisco and James King of Sacramento, who both admitted involvement in illegal drug activity, and James Allen Timmons, who invoked the Fifth Amendment and refused to testify on grounds of self-incrimination.

Bennetto, 30, told of setting up a laboratory to make methamphetamine speed — after learning about the process from a fellow prisoner while in jail on a charge of receiving stolen property.

He created two nonexistent firms with letterheads to obtain equipment and needed chemicals, he said.

"It cost me about $200 to open shop and produce 16 to 24 ounces of methadrine liquid. That goes for $100 an ounce and would bring $1,600 to $2,400. One run would take about 12 hours and my monthly overhead, employees and rent, ran to about $18,000. Net profit could run to $30,000 a month."

Czech Olympic Gold Medalist Given Boot

PRAGUE (AP) — Emile Zatopek, the former Olympic gold medal runner, has been expelled from the Czechoslovak Communist Party and hardliners today seemed to be preparing the ground for putting him on trial for treason.

Expulsion from the party had been widely expected following frequent attacks on the 47-year-old ex-colonel of the Czechoslovak army who had given vociferous support to last year's liberalization movement under Alexander Dubcek.

Have Nixon, Thieu Made Troop Pact?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Asian diplomatic sources say there are strong indications a private understanding has been reached between President Richard M. Nixon and South Vietnam President Nguyen Van Thieu on a timetable for withdrawing American troops from Vietnam.

These sources say Thieu has given assurances his troops will do their best to replace the bulk of the 500,000-man American force by the end of 1970—with two major sets of circumstances influencing the pace of the program to switching the battle burden to the South Vietnamese.

According to this schedule:

If the enemy maintains the present combat lull and if the Vietnamese forces get quicker training, it may be possible for the United States to withdraw men at the rate of 20,000 a month.

—If the enemy steps up attacks or if there is a slowdown in the training of Vietnamese forces, the withdrawal pace would be slowed.

Given the continued lull and the swift training of South Vietnamese fighting men, Nixon could pull out a total 300,000 Americans by the end of 1970—including the 60,000 already ordered home.

The Asian sources say it would be difficult for South Vietnam to stick to the schedule—but the South Vietnamese are determined to do their best to meet the target.

The sources report the problem is not of figures but one of good will to go along with the replacement policy. Assurances have been given here to the Nixon administration of the good will of the Vietnamese government in the present program.

It is believed North Vietnam is waiting until perhaps the end of November to assess the strength of the antiwar movement in the United States.

Three Bicycles Reported Stolen

Three bicycles were stolen from two San Rafael high schools this week, police reported yesterday.

A three-speed black bicycle valued at $25, owned by Donna M. Peterson of 28 Octavia Street was stolen from the Third Street side of San Rafael High School Friday between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Kate P. Castle of 140 San Marin Drive reported her $25 bicycle missing from the San Rafael High parking area Tuesday between 2 and 4 p.m. Frederick S. advantage of lax supervision and accounting and a tradition that GIs themselves should run their own clubs to conspire to "profit from the pockets of their fellow soldiers."

"They also realized they had a good thing going," Ribicoff said, citing the formation by the sergeants of a corporation through which they sold goods to clubs which they themselves ran.

"The implication is very strong you have been a discredit to the uniform you wear," Wooldridge was told by Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill. "Don't you realize what this investigation has done to the morale of the armed services? Isn't there anything you wish to say in your own defense?"

David L. Thomas, attorney for Wooldridge and two other witnesses, explained that one cannot invoke the Fifth Amendment selectively. Once the decision has been made to rely on the constitutional protection, a witness can answer no questions, even harmless ones, he said.

Alongside Wooldridge at the witness table were M/Sgt. William E. Higdon, and two retired sergeants, Narvaez Hatcher and Seymour Lazar. All refused to answer questions.

At the end of yesterday's long morning session—it was the hearing's 11th day—Ribicoff adjourned the subcommittee until further notice.

Committee investigators are preparing to open the second phase of the probe as soon as time can be found on the cluttered Senate calendar. Staff aides said those hearings will involve a new cast of characters and testimony of lucrative, widespread black market deals by military and civilian personnel in South Vietnam and elsewhere.

Suspect Jailed On Check Count

A San Rafael man, said by police to have a record of 28 arrests was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of possessing three forged checks, totaling $323, which he allegedly passed at two San Rafael taverns earlier this month.

Robert Wayne Kitzmiller, 33, was arrested at his residence at 1501 Fifth Avenue and held in lieu of $6,250 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

San Rafael Police Inspector Gerald Souza said Kilzmiller passed the checks, allegedly stolen from a Lafayette pipe organ installer, at George's and the 881 Club.

Town's Sign Law Debated, Not Changed

The Corte Madera Planning Commission last night hashed over again the town's sign ordinance but postponed any decisions until the Nov. 10 meeting, Elizabeth Long, secretary said.

Included in the discussion was the town's ban on searchlights, banners and flags for grand openings, such as the arrival of new cars at auto agencies.

Mrs. Long said that the commissioners considered the possibility of allowing some kind of extra advertising for such events.

The commissioners also discussed reducing the height of freestanding signs from the 39 feet allowed now under a variance to 30 feet, she said.

The commission had earlier decided to allow higher and bigger signs for freeway-oriented businesses, and last night the commissioners indicated they want the area to be definitely designated on a map where such signs will be allowed.

Jordan might mediate between the guerrilla leaders and the Lebanese authorities. The guerrillas refuse to meet with the Lebanese unless Beirut announces in advance it will let them operate unhindered against Israel.

The guerrilla organization Al Fatah returned the 24 Lebanese frontier guards it kidnaped early yesterday in a demonstration of its strength, and the Lebanese government handed over the body of a slain guerrilla in exchange. The raiders had come from Syria.

Hickel Wants Delay On Alcatraz Future

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel has requested that the disposition of Alcatraz be postponed till Dec. 1, it was reported today by the office of Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District.

Hickel reportedly requested the deferment in order to review the situation, in which San Francisco citizens and officials find themselves embroiled in controversy as to plans for the island's development.

sembly yesterday that they supported a resolution inviting heads of state to a special commemorative session and convening a world youth assembly here.

U.S. Ambassador Charles W. Yost said the 25th anniversary should be a time for candid assessment of how far the world organization has fallen short of its proclaimed goals.

"In setting our goals," he continued, "we must of course be realistic. Yet I believe there is greater danger from the kind of realism that makes for excessive caution and timidity than in a bold approach which offers the only hope of meeting the challenges that face us."

Soviet delegate V. L. Issraelyan said the 25th anniversary would be significant because it marks the emergence of a community of Socialist states and the eclipse of colonialism. He added that the United Nations had been successful in warding off a third world war which could have been disastrous.

Special events today included the ringing of the Japanese peace bell, cast from coins given by children all over the world, and the annual U.N. Day concert, with London's Royal Philharmonic and pianist Rudolf Serkin performing.

SPEAKER

suit this month, "Speaker McCormack responded immediately by suspending Sweig and disclaiming any knowledge of or connection with misdeeds which Sweig or Voloshen might have been involved.

"The fact is that Speaker McCormack knew at least as far back as midsummer that not only Life but two federal grand juries were looking into Voloshen's affairs, and that since then he has held a series of urgent conferences with Sweig and Voloshen. For the evidence is that McCormack was more than naively involved in whatever took place in his office."

PHONE CALL?

"In one instance," Life said, "the speaker himself phoned the New York commissioner of parole on behalf of a convicted corporate larcenist who had paid Voloshen at least $75,000, first to try to keep him out of jail, then to shorten his sentence."

Life said the call was made to Russell G. Oswald, chairman of the New York State Board of Parole, on behalf of Edward M. Gilbert, who pleaded guilty to a $2 million securities theft.

Berkeley War Game Is Planned

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — A new underground organization calling itself the Strategic Anarchy Command (SAC) has announced plans for war game manuevers Halloween night.

The war game, expected to draw from several hundred to a few thousand participants, will be based loosely on the popular camp and Boy Scout game, Capture the Flag, and will carry the theme "Free the Chicago Eight and Jail the Judge."

"A "guerilla theater" group, possible the San Francisco Mime Troupe, is expected to stage a satire of the trial of eight defendants charged with conspiracy in last year's Chicago demonstrations.

"Any engagement with actual members of local paramilitary organizations will be discouraged, however," a SAC communique said, urging noninvolvment with Berkeley police patrols that night.

According to the announcement, there will be two teams assembling in Berkeley that evening: The People's Army, with black armbands, will meet at 7 p.m. at Willard Park, to be renamed by the group as Ho Chi Minh Memorial Park;" and "police force," in homemade costumes or red armbands will mobilize on campus an hour earlier.

Membership on either side will be open to the public, according to SAC.

Alioto Demands Book Tossed At Pie Tossers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—If the young Sausalito filmmakers and their friends wanted to anger the establishment by throwing pies at first-nighters at the San Francisco Film Festival, they succeeded in their goal.

The mayor could get his wish, since felony charges of conspiring to commit a misdemeanor, which could result in state prison sentences, have been brought against the pie-throwers by the district attorney's office. The 13 also are charged with disturbing the peace.

The seven Marinites arrested in the melee are all out on bail ranging from $1,250 to $3,100. They are: Robert S. Schiff, 25, Neal Warner, 22, Thomas Howell, 23, Suzette Hershman, 23, Jacqueline McKee, 32, and Ronald Breaux, 29, all of Sausalito, and Charles Huff, 19, of Mill Valley.

Alioto also demanded a full police investigation, early trial of the culprits, and a possible civil suit for damages to the city.

Meanwhile, the film group Grand Central Station defended its action.

Spokesman Peter Adair said that the group had planned to throw pies only at one another, but conceded that things got a bit out of hand and that a few policemen and formally dressed festival goers got splattered.

They said that there were two goals in their activities — first, to protest the procedures of the festival and secondly, to make a 15-minute film of their own.

Novato Service Alliance Elects

Officers and board members of the newly organized Novato Service Alliance were elected last night, according to chairman Jack Whitcomb.

The alliance was proposed and set up by the Novato Junior Chamber of Commerce which now becomes one of 30 member organizations, Whitcomb said.

Purpose of the alliance is to coordinate activities and prevent duplication of volunteer work. The next meeting will be sometime in January, he said.

Tasty MSG Is Linked To Brain Damage

That's the formula for monosodium glutamate, MSG, a food additive prevalent in baby food and Chinese food. One researcher reported Thursday it causes brain lesions in test animals.

Sometimes called sodium glutamate, MSG is a white, or nearly white powder which is very soluble in water and possesses a meatlike taste. It is widely used to enhance natural food flavor and impart meat flavor to foods.

Just five days after the sugar substitute cyclamate was ordered off shelves by Jan. 1 by the federal government, Dr. John Olney of St. Louis reported the same dosage of MSG used in baby food produced brain damage in a test mouse.

The Washington University researcher, who is studying under a National Institute of Mental Health grant, revealed his findings on NBC's Huntley-Brinkley report.

Dr. Olney said baby food companies would be using "bad judgment" if they continued putting MSG in their products without further research.

"I've treated a number of species of experimental animals in the period of infancy and I've found that every species I have studied is susceptible to brain damage for monosodium glutamate," Olney said.

In Washington Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., has said MSG should be taken off the market until more is known about it, including the "Chinese syndrome."

According to Washington studies people who eat too much Chinese style food where MSK is used liberally as an additive, have been known to develop a sense of pressure in the head, warmth and possible chest pain, and a headache.

Surprise Catch

DURBAN, South Africa (AP) — Angler Cecil Podmore caught a crocodile when he cast his line into the surf from a local beach. The baby croc, about three months old, was apparently washed into the sea by the nearby Umgeni River.

NOV. 4 ELECTION

Four Vie For Marin Water District Posts

GEORGE A. AMAROLI
Second attempt

FRANK V. BACCAGLIO
20-year member

ALAN L. HOPKINS
Teacher

WILLIAM M. JONAS
Ex-chamber president

(Fourth in a series of eight)

Voters in the sprawling North Marin County Water District will go to the polls Nov. 4 to decide a four-man race for the board of directors.

Incumbents William M. Jonas, who has served on the board nine years, and Frank Baccaglio, a 20-year member, are being challenged by George A. Amaroli, making his second bid for a board seat, and Alan L. Hopkins, a 30-year-old teacher at San Rafael High School.

The district, which in recent years has absorbed areas of West Marin and Southern Sonoma to meet growing demands for better water service, now has 9,000 customers.

In 1964, it agreed to conduct a study of bringing additional Russian River water to Marin with the Marin Municipal Water District and the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors. Sonoma County recently approved start of construction of the Warm Springs Dam, a part of the project.

In April, climaxing an active campaign, a proposal by the water district to absorb the Novato Sanitary District was rejected by voters. Proponents of the merger had argued that the water district could easily assume the sanitary district's functions, thus eliminating a taxing agency, but City of Novato officials said they hoped the city could someday absorb the sanitary district.

Also in April, the water district board went on record in favor of the plan at that time for the Dos Rios Dam, opposed by conservationists. Jonas was the lone dissenter in the vote.

In alphabetical order, the candidates are:

GEORGE A. AMAROLI, 36, a utilities engineer for the California Public Utilities Commission. He urged the year-long study which led to the April merger election.

He was born in Santa Rosa and attended Geyserville schools, Santa Rosa Junior College and the University of California at Berkeley, where he majored in electrical engineering.

He and his wife, Marilan, have two children, Thomas, 11, and Elizabeth, 7. The family lives at 11 Rebecca Way, Novato.

FRANK V. BACCAGLIO, 63, of 1526 South Novato Boulevard. He said no further action to absorb the sanitary district would be appropriate as a result of the merger defeat in April.

Born in Novato, Baccaglio graduated from San Rafael High School and the University of California at Davis. He is a rancher.

He and his wife, Josephine, have three daughters, Mrs. George Nunes of Santa Rosa, Mrs. John Andersen of Davis and Marian Baccaglio of Novato, and a son, Martin H. Baccaglio, who plays professional football with the Cincinnati Bengals.

He belongs to the Novato Grove of Druids.

ALAN L. HOPKINS, 30, who teaches social studies and business at San Rafael High School. He said district operation should not be expanded through bonding because of the uncertainty of the market, but rather through a tax rate increase or a hike in water rates.

Hopkins was born in San Francisco and graduated from San Rafael High School, College of Marin and San Francisco State College. He belongs to the San Rafael Teachers Association and the California Teachers Association.

He lives at 994 Simmons Lane, Novato, with his wife, Karen.

WILLIAM M. JONAS, 54, owns Roger Wilco Markets. He said that "citizens of North Marin want a dependable water system, not a growing bureaucracy."

Jonas is a native of Oakland and graduated from the University of California at Berkeley. An Army veteran of World War II, he served in England, North Africa and Italy and was discharged with the rank of major.

He is past president of the Novato Chamber of Commerce and a member of the Rotary Club and Novato Grove of Druids.

Jonas and his wife, Adele, have two daughters, Mrs. Barbara Clement of Lafayette and Beverly Jonas.

Two Autos Looted In City Parking Lot

A thief entered two autos in a municipal parking lot at Third Street and Lootens Place, San Rafael, yesterday, taking a stereophonic system and tapes worth $145 from one and a raincoat valued at $100 from the other.

The stereo equipment was in a car belonging to Terrance M. Merlo of 41 Coleman Drive, San Rafael, while the raincoat was missing from an auto owned by Joseph Brenner of 19 Circle Drive, Tiburon.

Light, Rolling Quake Shakes Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A light, rolling earthquake briefly shook the Los Angeles area at 1:30 a.m. today. No damage was reported.

A San Pedro resident said, "It felt like four very soft little bumps."

Dr. James M. Brune, director of the seismology laboratory at the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena, said that his home instruments showed the tremor could have been "a fairly strong one."

Brune said the quake had a Richter scale magnitude of 5.25 and was not strong enough to do serious damage. He said it was centered in the Pacific Ocean about 90 miles west of Los Angeles.

"I've been in the Hollywood area for 15 years," said one telephone caller, "and this is the first time I've ever seen my floor lamp and television set move—actually move like by gremlins."

The quake was felt as far as Ventura, 60 miles northwest of Los Angeles.

OTTAWA, Canada (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II and her husband, Prince Philip, will tour Canada in July 1970.

'Permissiveness' Hit In Hair Uproar Probe

"Permissiveness" at Redwood High School emerged last night as a major culprit in the Tamalpais High School District hair controversy during a meeting called to determine the underlying causes of the blowup.

However, few of the 300 persons attending the hearing by the 25-member district discipline study committee, were able to pinpoint exactly what that "permissiveness" included.

One speaker said Supt. Robert D. Torrey's suspension of grooming rules laid down by coaches and athletic departments was "the straw that broke the camel's back," according to Administrative Asst. Edward J. Neumeier.

She said Redwood's elimination of such things as tardy bells and dress rules were examples of the permissiveness and wondered where it would all lead, Neumeier said.

Another speaker commented on "the things that go on in the back parking lot," but did not elaborate.

Neumeier said that despite the rules set up for the meeting, limiting it to the investigation of the underlying problems, many members of the audience still wanted to talk about hair.

He said the audience seemed evenly divided on the subject, contrasting with an Oct. 6 meeting of the district board when a large majority of 700 persons attending were against Torrey's ruling.

Last night, persons who wished to speak had been asked to reserve time and 22 had signed up before the meeting. They were limited to three minutes each and then members of the discipline committee questioned them.

The committee passed out cards and asked members of the audience to write their chief concern about the hair controversy.

Neumeier said about 100 cards were returned and they and the oral presentation last night will be considered at 4 p.m. Tuesday at the Redwood faculty lounge to draw up a report to be presented to the district board Nov. 3.

Augur Accident Hurts Workman

Workmen said Ronald Orr of Santa Rosa, an employee of Petty and Mapes Electrical Contractors of Santa Rosa, was injured about 10 a.m. when his trousers were caught in an auger drill.

Cotati Interviews For An Engineer

A decision is expected at the next regular meeting of the council at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 6 at the Cotati Fire Station.

Two Men Leap To Death Same Day From Gate Bridge

While camera crews from two television stations worked at each end of the Golden Gate Bridge yesterday filming documentaries on bridge suicides, two men leaped to their death from midspan on the bridge and a third was restrained.

The two deaths and the attempt occurred within a three-and-a-half-hour period, the fourth time in the history of the bridge that two suicides were recorded on the same day, according to bridge Capt. Edwin Moore.

Dead were Karl E. Bybee, 48, of Sacramento and George Lawton Hagemann, 68, of San Francisco, both of whom jumped from the same spot on the east sidewalk, midspan, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Bybee was reported to have climbed over the bridge railing at 11:40 a.m. and Hagemann at 1:58 p.m. Both bodies were recovered by the Coast Guard.

At 3:10 p.m. Harold Edwin Hanson, San Jose, was removed from the east sidewalk, again at midspan, after bridge Lt. Roderick O'Malley noticed he had been pacing and peering over the rail for nearly an hour.

Hanson was committed to San Francisco General Hospital for 72 hours observation.

Highway patrol officers said Hanson was removed from the bridge last month as a potential suicide and was released last week from a San Jose hospital following treatment.

According to Moore, double suicide days were recorded in July 1964 and in July and October 1967.

Despite yesterday's day of death, bridge authorities credited its innovative roving patrol with having reduced bridge suicides from an average of 16 a year for the past five years to five in the first six months of this year.

The death of another man, Dennis Donahue of San Francisco, whose body was found at 2:15 a.m. at the base of the 400 foot cliff near Lands End, San Francisco, was not considered a bridge suicide, Moore said.

Ex-Convict Is Held As Suspect In Burglary

A 40-year-old ex-convict was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of burglarizing a San Rafael business last May.

Robert John Fleeks of 109½ Shaver Street, San Rafael, who, police said, has a record of 29 arrests for various offenses, was held in lieu of $3,125 bail to appear today in Municipal Court.

Fleeks was arrested Wednesday night in a San Rafael tavern by officers who recognized him. He was originally booked into jail that evening, but released over an evidence question. He was rearrested yesterday.

Police said Fleeks had stored about $1,700 in cash and loot taken from the Tone-Tex Specialties Co. at 65 Jacoby Street last May 19 in his residence. The stolen items also included business supplies and checks.

Goldwater Hits Scott On Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater has acidly criticized the Vietnam cease-fire proposal of Sen. Hugh Scott, adding the Republican leader does not necessarily speak for his GOP colleagues.

It was the first flicker of conservative Republican restiveness since Scott, a self-described progressive, became GOP leader last month.

Goldwater noted Scott had said he was not in the habit of clearing his ideas in advance with the White House.

"I think it would be helpful if he would also state that he is not in the habit of clearing such statements with all members of his own political party in the Senate," Goldwater said.

In advancing the plan for a unilateral U.S. cease-fire, to remain effective unless the Communists violate it, Scott said he was offering a personal hope.

The Pentagon promptly rejected the idea, and so did Goldwater.

"I for one wish to make it very plain that while I recognize the senator from Pennsylvania has been duly selected minority leader of my party, I do not accept his personal recommendations on any and all subjects," Goldwater told the Senate.

Goldwater said unilateral action will merely convince the Communists we are afraid of them.

Scott, in Sharon, Pa., renewed the cease-fire call last night.

"I hope that a cease-fire will be announced just as soon as it can be safely arranged," he said.

That speech was the latest in a series of almost nightly appearances at Republican fund raising dinners in Pennsylvania where Scott will seek re-election next year.

Scott won reelection in 1964 despite the crushing defeat of Goldwater, who was the Republican presidential nominee. He has a record of attracting Democratic and independent voters.

"In that regard, the minority leader's job is a mixed blessing," said another Pennsylvania GOP politician. "He's trying to accommodate the President, he's trying to accommodate his colleagues in the Senate, and he has to consider his constituency."

A crucial test in all three departments could be the confirmation vote on Clement F. Haynsworth Jr., President Richard M. Nixon's choice for the Supreme Court.

Mrs. Nixon Has A New Staff 'Chief'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The First Lady has a new $30,000 a year press secretary-staff director and as a result the Richard M. Nixons have the first husband-wife team in their official family.

While Constance Cornell Stuart, 31, is guiding Mrs. Nixon's public relations in the East Wing of the White House, her husband Charles, 32, is at work in the West Wing as a staff assistant to presidential counsel, John Ehrlichmann.

Mrs. Nixon announced yesterday that Mrs. Stuart, an attractive redhead, would be her new "chief of staff."

She replaces Gerry Van der Heuvel who after 11 months as Mrs. Nixon's press aide is taking a job as special assistant to U.S. Ambassador Graham Martin at Rome.

CONSTANCE STUART
White House addition

Mrs. Stuart, a native of Wheeling, W. Va., came to the White House from a job as public relations supervisor for the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. where she specialized in TV film projects. The 1960 University of Maryland graduate also has been a New York public relations account executive.

Saying she has always voted Republican, Mrs. Stuart said she first met Mrs. Nixon last year during the presidential election campaign when her husband was working as a Nixon advance man.

Stuart, who has a degree in economics from New York University, was an advance man on Mrs. Nixon's trip to Oregon and California last June and on her round-the-world journey with the President.

Although the announcement wasn't made until yesterday, Mrs. Stuart already has two weeks on the job.

Soviet Spy Team Freed In Britain

LONDON (AP) — Morris and Lola Cohen, the American-born Communist spies who radioed NATO naval secrets to the Russians, were released from prison today and took a British jetliner to Poland.

Champagne and smoked salmon were on the menu for their first meal in freedom.

The couple, who was once members of the Rosenberg spy ring in the United States, had served eight years of a 20-year sentence. They were freed in exchange for three Britons: Gerald Brooke, a teacher who spent four years in a Soviet labor camp for delivering anti-Communist propaganda to Moscow, and two others who tried to smuggle drugs from Afghanistan through the Soviet Union.

Cohen, born in New York, is 59, while his wife, a native of Massachusetts, is 56 and ailing. They claim they claim they are Polish citizens, but American officials say they never formally renounced their U.S. citizenship.

Separate police trucks took Cohen from Brixton jail and his wife from Holloway Women's Prison to Heathrow Airport. They claim they are Polish citizens, but American officials say they never formally renounced their U.S. citizenship.

The couple walked slowly up the steps to the plane, smiling and waving. Eight minutes after taking her first-class seat, Mrs. Cohen came to the door to wave to photographers, and her husband joined her.

At the Cohens' request, newsmen were not allowed to interview them. But as she entered the plane, she said: "It feels fine to be free."

The Cohens worked for Konon Molodny, a Russian who posed as Gordon Lonsdale of Canada. He set up a spy ring at Britain's Portland Naval Base and two British employees there, Henry Houghton and Ethel Gee, fed him the information which the Cohens transmitted to Moscow.

Quentin Sells Off Its Textile Mill

Usable machinery in the cotton textile mill at San Quentin has been sold to an East Coast equipment dealer for $44,000, Associate Warden James W. L. Park reported today.

Other equipment from the mill will be sold for scrap, he said, with all expected to be gone by the end of the year.

The mill was phased out because it had become economically unfeasible, Park said. Changes in the industry such as new high speed equipment and the use of synthetics contributed to the decision to end the operation.

In its place, Park said, officials are investigating installing a large modern laundry to serve San Quentin and nearby state institutions. The prison currently has a smaller laundry for its own needs.

HOOVER WOULD BE PROUD

"A chicken in every pot!" "Two cars in every garage!" But a helicopter on the roof? Well, that's how it is on the garage of the Buckeye Restaurant on Shoreline Highway. Robert E. Hallbeck said he perches the $30,000 machine at the restaurant in Manzanita, because the craft has been vandalized at heliport where it used to stay. It's a temporary arrangement said the operator of the Hallbeck Helicopter Service. (Independent-Journal photo by Bob Hax)

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Hideway Location Not Always Desirable Feature For Dining

A convenient and easily located address is a great asset to any restaurant.

There is a certain novelty and satisfaction in searching out those little establishments in the byways which are reported to be known only to a few people. But it's just as easy to "discover" a good restaurant in a central location. And there are times in the life of almost any diner-out when he relishes not having to play guessing games to find a place to eat. This feeling is probably strongest among those who habitually dine away from home two or more times a week.

Romulus at 1242 Fourth Street in downtown San Rafael is ready made for such occasions. Businessmen patronize it daily for lunch, and since most of them are already in the area they don't have to worry about parking. Families and those in search of a quiet evening are its dinner patrons, and evening parking worries here are minimal.

The fare is varied but leans toward Italian specialities such as the popular veal dishes — scallopini, parmigiana and saltimboca — and pasta and the chicken dishes. The chef here now is Giovanni Sansone who was formerly at the Chateau, and owner Salvatore Iachino often steps into the kitchen to lend a hand or twirl a pizza (although this is no pizzeria).

Sal recognizes that not all Americans go for a steady Italian diet; the menu also offers steaks and seafoods, I heard him say he intends to expand even more in this direction.

If you have passed by Romulus because it was right under your nose, you might stop in and give it a try.

A NEW FRENCH RESTAURANT called Normandie will open at 2114 Fourth Street on the San Rafael Miracle Mile next month — probably about Nov. 7.

It replaces L'Europe Restaurant which is now closed, having been sold by Frits Verburg to Michel Braud of San Mateo and Andre Marquer of Redwood City. They are remodeling the kitchen and have applied for a transfer of the wine and beer license.

Both partners are in their 30s and full of youthful enthusiasm. They have been in restaurant work since their early teens. Andre had his own restaurant in Hong Kong for five years before coming to California.

They plan on a menu essentially French, and they will be open for both lunches and dinners.

ANOTHER NEW RESTAURANT scheduled to open at Northgate about Dec. 1 will be Zanze's a removal from San Francisco.

It is a father-and-son operation of Louis and Samuel Zanze, who have been in business for the past eight years on downtown Grant Avenue in the city. They sold out last August and are now having the former Parsons Optical Labs at 2450 Northgate Fashion Mall remodeled.

Menu will be very much the same as they had in San Francisco they'll stress light continental food: Omelets, casseroles, salads; and ravioli and homemade pastries and cheesecake prepared by the senior Zanze. Pastries will also be sold to take home. A wine and beer license is planned.

Hours will probably be from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays, with possibly one or two evening openings during the week.

The Zanzes intend to settle in the San Rafael area.

THAT ILLUSTRIOUS CHEF Jack Cardini has brought his talents into Marin County and now will be found at Black Point Inn.

For many years he operated Chef Cardini's restaurant at Glenn Ellen in the Valley of the Moon, then retired. Recently he came out of retirement to work at Uncle Lou's in Petaluma (formerly Diamond Lil's).

Art Allison is still featured at the piano bar.

LUNCHES are being scheduled again, starting next month, at Taberna's in San Rafael.

Meanwhile, this nightspot's second anniversary will be celebrated next Sunday evening. Co-owner Bob Czyz, who had to miss last year's celebration due to an automobile accident, vows he's going to make this one a memorable occasion.

There will be an enormous buffet. Entertainment for dancing will be by the Dick Whittington Trio with Tony Masters. Activity will start at 8 p.m.

ENTERTAINMENT at Holiday Inn in Terra Linda is now provided Wednesdays through Saturdays in the Alta Loma cocktail lounge by the Darrell Hutchinson Trio.

HALLOWEEN is only another week away; the first to report any special observance is Senor Alfredo's Mexican Restaurant in San Anselmo. That night a glass of wine will be included in the price of the dinner and free posters of Alfredo's "little man" theme will be handed out to the youngsters.

THAT PLAQUE behind the bar at Rubini's is a "Silver Jigger Award," presented for having poured more than 100,000 shots of Canadian Club whiskey.

THE GRIDDLE at Fourth and Lincoln, San Rafael remains closed — but I understand there is a new transaction in progress. Something on it should come to light in another week or so.

THE FRANCISCAN OF SONOMA now serves dinners starting at 4:30 p.m. until 10 p.m. Sundays through Thursays and to 11 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays. The lounge is open from 4 p.m. to 2 a.m. Closed Mondays. Continental dinners are served.

CAZANOMA LODGE at Cazadero is now in its "in between months," serving only Friday, Saturday and Sunday until the end of November. Then it will close for the season, opening again in March.

Mark West Lodge in Santa Rosa dnh the Golden Bear Lodge in Kenwood also close Dec. 1 for three months of winter.

LOU GAVIATI reports that Orange Julius at the hub intersection in San Anselmo has introduced a new drink called Pineapple Julius, made with Hawaiian pineapple and a Polynesian tang.

RESTAURANT MENU RECALLS PREWAR DAYS

PASADENA (UPI) — Picture a posh restaurant menu featuring soup, seafood cocktail, salad, and a choice of six entrees, including filet mignon, New York cut sirloin and broiled baby lobster for only $1.75.

Norman Goss, owner of a restaurant here celebrated the restaurant's 20th anniversary last night by serving the same menu he served Oct. 23, 1941, at the price he charged in 1941 — $1.75.

Iron Foundry Heir Is Killed

OAKLAND (UPI) — The grandson of the late founder of the Herrick Iron Works of Oakland was killed yesterday when his speeding sports car overturned in the east Oakland hills.

He had apparently failed to fasten the safety belt.

Three-Car Collision Injures One Driver

Antone Basil Jean, 44, of 38 Ash Avenue, Corte Madera, received minor back injuries in a three-car collision yesterday on Highway 101 near the north end of the Richardson Bay Bridge, California Highway Patrol officers reported.

Officers said that at 7:40 p.m., Joel Kenneth Wolfson, 31, of 105 Belvedere Drive, Strawberry, failed to notice traffic slowing as he pulled onto the highway off the Seminary Drive onramp and hit Jean's car which, in turn, hit a car driven by Cyril Tyson Hofmeister Jr., 42, of 50 Bryn Mawr Drive, San Rafael.

Conservers Pressing Coast Access Fight

Sonoma County conservationists have vowed to continue fighting for public access to the coast despite the negative reaction of the board of supervisors to a proposed access ordinance.

Dr. William M. Kortum of Cotati, president of Californians Organized to Acquire Access to State Tideland (COAAST), said he doubted that the board would adopt a stringent ordinance requiring access before the Nov. 6 deadline, thereby exempting the Sea Ranch second-home development from any regulations.

Kortum asked the supervisors this week to approve an access ordinance. "All we have now is a lossely worded policy," Kortum told the board.

The supervisors said that the policy of coastal growth along with some access will be continued. In June, the board adopted a resolution that said instead of public access corridors through Sea Ranch's 10.5 mile ocean frontage, the county would accept a donation of park lands at the mouth of the Gualala River at the north end of the property.

In a letter to the board, the conservation organization charged that three of the supervisors had reached a secret agreement with developers in a clandestine meeting in mid-June at the Black Forest Inn, Calistoga.

The supervisors did not deny the allegation, but all said they could not recall such a meeting with Sea Ranch developers.

"Even if we don't get an ordinance, COAAST will continue to be a watchdog and keep up the pressure," Kortum said. The organization recently opened an office in the Rosenberg building in Santa Rosa staffed three days a week by Executive Director Allan Chambliss.

San Francisco Faces Pollution Slap

SAN MATEO (AP)—The City of San Francisco was warned officially yesterday that new construction in the city could be halted if the city doesn't comply with antipollution orders.

The San Francisco Bay Water Quality Control Board gave the warning in two cease and desist orders against the city for bay pollution.

The orders gave San Francisco until the board's next monthly meeting to firm up plans for the proposed new North Point and Southeast treatment plants.

Included in the orders was a paragraph noting that the Porter-Cologne Water Quality Control Improvement Act passed by the 1969 state Legislature gives the water board authority to seek injunctions to prevent any new connection to inadequate sewage systems.

The act also allows fines up to $6,000 per violation of the water quality act with each day of operation a new offense.

The board also ordered its staff to prepare cease and desist orders against San Francisco "as soon as possible" for discharging raw sewage during and following heavy rains.

The water quality board has previously asserted that San Francisco's combined sewage and storm drain system causes overloads during storms which allow raw sewage to be discharged at 40 points around the city.

San Francisco Supervisor Robert Mendelson said the city is prepared to commit itself to completion of the pilot Baker Street demonstration project, opposed by Marina residents, prior to the winter of 1971-72.

The situation at Ghilardi's Resort in Sonoma County, where the county health department reports no improvements have been made, was referred by the board to the Sonoma County district attorney's office for possible issue of citation.

Is McCarthy Eyeing Post?

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., says he may establish residence in New York State and run for senator in 1970.

The seat now is held by Charles E. Goodell, a Republican appointed to the post after the assassination of Robert F. Kennedy.

"I'm not saying I wouldn't run," McCarthy said on a television program Wednesday. "I've said that several times before, it's just that I don't have anyone promoting me here."

List In Drawn For Vacancies

A list of 15 possible persons for four vacancies on the Marin County Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission was drawn up Wednesday at a meeting of the commission.

A special meeting to talk with them and anyone else interested in serving on the commission was set for 5 p.m. Nov. 5 at the Civic Center, according to Gary T. Giacommini. A list of names will then go to the board of supervisors to let them know who is interested.

The commission also changed its regular meeting time from the fourth Wednesday of each month to the third Wednesday at 4 p.m. at the Civic Center.

Gem Goes For $1.05 Million; Will It Be Jackie's Or Liz's?

NEW YORK (AP)—A 69.42-carat diamond ring with a sparkle that stretches from knuckle to knuckle has been sold to a buyer with a bank account that stretches to at least $1.05 million.

The official purchaser of the gem, sold at auction yesterday at Parke-Bernet Galleries, was Robert Kenmore, chairman of the board of the Kenmore Corp., owner of Cartier's, a New York jewelry firm.

No one would say however where the ring, a flawless, pear-shaped diamond surrounded by two half-moon diamonds totaling another 2.92 carats, would wind up. Parke-Bernet wouldn't even say who was selling the gem.

Kenmore said he was not a free agent—indicating he had a customer. But he refused to say whom. "The diamond is the Cartier diamond now for the moment," he said, referring to the fact it was one of the few large stones without a name.

FLAWLESS DIAMOND
Knuckle to knuckle

Both Mrs. Richard Burton—actress Elizabeth Taylor—and Mrs. Aristotle Onassis—widow of President John F. Kennedy—were among the women reputed to be interested.

There was a rumor that the stone was flown to Switzerland last month so Miss Taylor could inspect it.

She already owns the 33-carat Krupp diamond, bought for her last year by Burton for $305,000.

And Al Yugler, the man who bought the Krupp stone on behalf of Burton, was on hand as the bidding before a packed house of 800 began at $200,000 and jumped in $50,000 steps.

But Yugler stopped at $1 million and when Kenmore bid again, he calmly walked out.

Was Yugler bidding for the Burtons? "It would be reasonable to assume so," said a Parke-Bernet spokesman.

There was no specific indication that Onassis had an agent at the auction. The Greek shipping magnate reportedly gave his bride $1.2 million worth of jewelry when they were married last year and added a 40-carat diamond to the collection this year.

The 69.42-carat stone was the third largest ever sold at auction. A Parke-Bernet spokesman said it brought the highest price ever for a piece of jewelry at an auction.

Presley Booked To Play The Astrodome

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Entertainer Elvis Presley has been booked into the Astrodome in Houston for a run of appearances from Feb. 27-March 1, a Memphis newspaper reported in today's edition.

The Memphis Commercial Appeal, in an article by reporter Jim Kingsley, said Presley will make the Texas appearance after a return engagement of four weeks at a Las Vegas hotel. Kingsley, a friend of Presley, said the entertainer will be paid $750,000 for the Las Vegas run that starts Jan. 26.

They Are Not 'Pigs' When You Need Them

A few years ago, it was popular for youngsters to refer to police as "the fuzz."

Now, aping college-age agitators who pretend to knowledge, the small fry are likely to call officers "pigs."

But this week, to school children throughout Marin, the police were what they have been all along in fact — protectors.

As fear spread throughout the Bay Area that a maniac killer who calls himself Zodiac would make good his threat to "wipe out" a bus load of school children, police began providing police car escort for school buses, and in other ways patrolling against any sniper who might try to carry out Zodiac's threat to "shoot out the front tire and then pick off the kiddies as they come bouncing out."

ZODIAC IS SUSPECTED of killings in the Bay Area, in all of which there have been bizarre notes to newspapers like that in which he made his threat to "wipe out a school bus some morning." There was an eerie sequence Wednesday when a man who said he was Zodiac telephoned a San Francisco television "talk show" and tried to arrange a meeting with attorney Melvin Belli to save himself from the gas chamber — then never showed up for the appointment.

With a killer like that at large, the importance of the police becomes well recognized. They are not "pigs" when you need them.

SOONER OR LATER, the police will get Zodiac (we hope it is sooner). They will caution him of his right not to incriminate himself, advise him of his right to an attorney, and lock him up.

The children then can feel safer as they ride the bus to school — for awhile, anyway.

The public prosecutor and the court will take over then.

The prosecutor may find that the police failed to give Zodiac the proper warnings, or that they somehow violated his civil rights in making the arrest. He may refuse to prosecute. And Zodiac may go free again, to plan new atrocities.

More likely, Zodiac will be charged and put to trial. Defense attorneys will argue that his rights have somehow been violated. They will insist that he is mentally deranged — which no doutb he is — and therefore should not be punished for his crimes.

THE COURT LIKELY will appoint one or more psychiatrists to probe Zodiac's mind and give their learned opinions as to whether he is sane enough to stand trial. The defense probably will come up with psychiatrists of its own, who will undoubtedly claim Zodiac is not sane enough for trial. The psychiatrists' opinions will be weighed by the judge, who will make no mention of the fact that prosecution psychiatrists generally find the victim legally sane while defense psychiatrists invariably say he is legally insane.

Probably, Zodiac will wind up in a mental institution.

THROUGHOUT THE PROCESS from his arrest until the eventual disposition of the case, the resources of the state will be directed to protecting him against an unfair trial.

As the Zodiac scare melts away, some of the children — who have short memories — may be calling the police "pigs" again.

But the police will be doing what they regularly do — protecting the public. They will go on doing it even though they know that the courts, by over-emphasizing the rights of the accused, may be weakening that protection.

Parents Of Drug Users Offered 'Half-Way House' By New Law

By JAMES K. WOODWORTH

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) — One new law which will go into effect on Nov. 10 is AB-1339, authored by Assemblymen Harvey Johnson, D-El Monte, and Gordon Duffy, R-Hanford, to permit parents to seek involuntary commitment of their children for treatment if they find they are drug users or addicts.

While the law is primarily aimed at providing parents with an alternative to possible arrest and imprisonment for their delinquent children, it poses problems which demand recognition.

THE LAW ASSUMES many parents know their children are drug and marijuana users or addicts, but have failed in their parental responsibilities in keeping the youngsters on the straight and narrow path.

It also assumes that these parents, having failed before, now will decide it is time to accept their responsibilities by seeking a commitment order from the superior court so that child can be observed for three days under the Short-Doyle community mental health program, and if found still to be a danger to themselves or others, can be retained in the program for an additional 14 days.

IT WOULD BE difficult for any parent to make such a decision, but according to recent reports on drug addiction in California, many parents shortly will be faced with deciding whether to let their youngsters destroy themselves, mentally and physically, through the use of drugs, or accept the possible widening of the generation gap by seeking help for their children.

Assemblyman Duffy, in explaining to the press how the law will work, cited one family in his district who knew that their youngsters were using drugs but had no place to turn for help. While on a "trip," one of the children jumped into a river and drowned. Within a month, the second boy stopped his car on the freeway, also while on a "trip," and walked in front of a truck.

Neither of these deaths, he said, will be recorded as drug abuse fatalities, but both were results of the use of drugs.

PARENTS WHO wish to make use of the new law can feel secure in the fact that application to the superior court will not open their lives, or the lives of their children to public scrutiny, and will not result in harassment by police, since the program contains the doctor-patient relationship, making all interviews and resulting determinations secret.

The law offers a sort of "half-way house" for the parents.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Rebuttal From A Butcher's Wife

CURRENTLY read a JUICY article in your paper (Sept. 25) about a Mrs. DiLorenzo, wife of an ELECTRICIAN, and am still STEWING because of it.

She led a boycott to bring the price of MEAT down. Why PICK ON OUR BONES? Why not lay it on the LAMB and blame everyone not just the BUTCHER. Isn't everyone living HIGH ON THE HOG nowadays? Why even cigarettes are $6.40 a lb. Why not STEAK out the salary of an ELECTRICIAN? How would she like her husband's LIGHTS PUT OUT. CIRCUIT it out! and have a HEART. You get SKINNED even buying clothing.

HOT DOG, those HOT LINES in that article made me SIZZLE — what TRIPE. She is certainly giving the BUTCHER a BUM STEER.

HOLY COW, my husband works six days a week to bring home the BACON. What's her BEEF anyway? Why, if she couldn't serve her husband a nice steak at dinner I'm sure he'd BLOW HIS FUSE.

I hope you deLIVER my message to her home GROUND as I am really FRIED. The BUTCHER should not SHOULDER all the blame and be after his CARCASS.

Deep Compassion For Gen. Hershey

My heart bleeds for Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey who has been working for peanuts all these years. At last, this arm chair military man, thanks to Rep. Mendell Rivers and you know who, will come into his own and retire as a full general.

At 76, he must really be tired from exerting teriffic effort during the past 59 years of arm chair work.

Now, after all this time General Hershey can afford three squares a day, as I understand full generals' compensation is fairly conducive to good living.

One wonders how he existed on such a miserly stipend for over half a century.

Move Factories Where Need Exists

India, Southeast Asia, Africa, as well as South America are vastly underdeveloped areas. They are undernourished, overpopulated and underdeveloped as Aldous Huxley pointed out in his novel, "Island," and in his posthumously published collection of essays, "Tomorrow, Tomorrow and Tomorrow."

These facts have been a topic of concern to the western world for 20 years to my knowledge.

There is little incentive to try birth control I think because there is little hope of any future as the world stands currently. But — the Chinese in fleeing the Japanese invasion of their mainland during World War II literally dismantled their factories and transported them hundreds of miles, much of it by hand, and set them in production again.

The world's ability fo formulate capital is impaired by its past ability to wage war. But — again but — we could undertake dismantling our total capital along with any other industralized nation and crate and ship it to the underdeveloped world, using our combined merchant marine and leaving us with the experience of past success to rebuild our countries and our self-esteem.

Student Speaks In Defense Of Hair

Apparel doesn't make the man. Or in this case, length of hair doesn't make the athlete.

I have a great deal of respect for Coach (Robert J.) Troppmann, but I strongly disagree with his stand on "the issue." In his letter which made hair Satan in disguise, the coach repeatedly referred to the right of a coach to make team policy. This is a clear cut contradiction, and one which should not be bypassed. A man cannot say that and in the next breath say he, the athletic director wants to make the policy.

Forcing an athlete to cut his hair a certain way is risking having those who like longer hair take a negative attitude towards athletics. Don't forget that some of the "long hairs" are very fine athletes. They're not competing against our school, but for it.

Let us not forget that in the ancient Greek society, freedom of the individual was stressed. Yet, so also was athletics. The two did not clash then; there is no reason why they should now.

I say it is a sad day if "hippie" had become what "nigger" was.

Doctors, Lawyers Don't Know Strategy

Regarding the 110 or so doctors and lawyers wiring the President urging him to announce withdrawal from Vietname, I'm sure the President is going to take heed to these learned men when he reads, "further engagement is strategically unsound."

My experience with doctors and lawyers has been that they know little or nothing about strategy. Furthermore, if I'm in need of a doctor or lawyer, thanks for publishing an elimination list.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

It was Mrs. Gruber's evening for feeling sorry for herself. "Look at me," she demanded of her husband. "My clothes are so shabby and threadbare that if a stranger came to the door, he'd think I was the cook."

Mr. Gruber, to whom this song was too, too familiar, never even looked up from his newspaper. He just chuckled diabolically, and retorted, "Not if he stayed for dinner!"

THE DRUMMONDS

Nixon Won't Pull Out; Here Are Reasons Why

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — The real question is not whether President Nixon is taking bold, riskful actions to get out of Vietnam. He is.

The real question is whether President Nixon can succeed, whether his course will bring serious negotiations, whether serious negotiations will bring peace, and whether the present rate of U.S. disengagement will enable South Vietnam to defend itself.

These are the questions which need to be examined more soberly and more realistically.

PERHAPS the "Nixon plan" will work. He believes it will. He says it will. But there is a very considerable possibility that it won't, and we must be aware of what may be in the making. We believe that these conclusions are supported by what has been happening:

1 — There is little prospect that there will be any serious peace negotiations in Paris. It is evident by now that nothing will come of them. It is evident that Hanoi never intended them as anything but a forum for nonnegotiation. This view has already been reached by those closest to the talks in Paris and is now being reluctantly accepted in Washington.

2 — It is at least an even chance — perhaps better than even — that nothing the President does or can do will bring any serious negotiations at all. He says that congressional and public pressure to pull out too fast keeps Hanoi from negotiating. That is true only to a very limited extent. The controlling fact which persuades Hanoi not to negotiate is the certainty of U.S. combat withdrawal, and Mr. Nixon has left no doubt about the certainty of U.S. combat withdrawal.

3 — The chance of any decent peace — the chance of any peace which would preserve the right of the people of South Vietnam to choose their own government — will depend on the ability of South Vietnamese forces to defend themselves against the attacks which must be expected after U.S. combat withdrawal is complete.

There will be no knowing whether Mr. Nixon is failing or succeeding in getting the United States out under decent circumstances until this point is reached. This is the gamble the President is taking. It may pay off in success. It may pay off in calamity.

CAN THE NORTH Vietnamese be brought to meaningful negotiations in Paris? The talks have been in motion — at least words have been in motion — for nearly a year, and there hasn't been a split second of serious negotiation. When he ended the bombing of North Vietnam, President Johnson was given to understand by Hanoi that there would be "prompt, productive and serious negotiations." There have been none. It must now be realistically seen that Hanoi wanted the Paris forum as a means of ending the bombing, not as a means of negotiating anything.

Will Hanoi and the Viet Cong respond to any inducement the President can offer to get them to negotiate seriously any time, anywhere. You can't say no for sure, but the only prudent answer is, why should they? Mr. Nixon proposed mutual withdrawal. Hanoi refused. Mr. Nixon has begun unilateral U.S. withdrawal. Hanoi can wait until U.S. combat withdrawal is complete and then decide whether it needs to negotiate or whether then would be a good time to resume major fighting. Is there any reason to expect otherwise?

AFTER THE PRESIDENT has removed U.S combat troops on a rapid timetable — he expects we'll exceed that proposed by former Secretary of Defense Clark Clifford — can South Vietnam bear the nearly total brunt of the fighting? That is the real imponderable, that is the soft underbelly of the "Nixon plan" for disengagement.

Mr. Nixon hopes the South Vietnamese can do it. He expects they can. But his success or failure depends upon a large unknown quantity.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Nixon Gambling U.S. Pull-Out May Lead To Vietnam Peace

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — President Nixon has carefully explored the consequences of a rapid and complete withdrawal of U.S. forces from Vietnam and finds them quite unacceptable on a number of counts.

Recent White House visitors report that it is not the plight of the abandoned South Vietnamese, or even the international implication of a "bug out" which is of most concern to the President. He makes it clear that he is most concerned about the effects of such a withdrawal within the United States.

MR. NIXON is said to believe that a total and precipitate pull-back of all U.S. troops from Vietnam would produce only a short hiatus in the domestic unrest which has had its roots in the Vietnam commitment.

Very quickly, the President tells his associates, there would be a renewal of bitter and destructive criticism but of a different sort. Critics would assert, he is convinced, that the United States had dishonored a commitment and deserted an ally.

The President is said to have stated, acidly, on at least one recent occasion, that some of the critics who would be in the forefront of such a drive would be the same individuals who have been loudly demanding a disengagement in South Vietnam.

WHILE THE DOMESTIC repercussions of such a hasty withdrawal are reported to weigh most heavily on the President, he has assured his friends that he has explored the whole spectrum of results the United States were to follow such a course.

He is said to believe that one result of a hasty withdrawal of all U.S. forces would be a bloodbath — with Viet Cong and North Vietnamese liquidating all the leaders and the officials, however minor, who have worked with the United States or with the government of President Thieu.

That was the implication of the short Communist occupation of the city of Hue during the 1968 Tet offensive. It is estimated that some 2,000 residents of Hue were murdered before the city was retaken.

THIS CONCERN about the consequences of a hasty pullout within South Vietnam is not unrelated to the conern for domestic reverberations. It would, in Mr. Nixon's view, be charged not only that the United States had abandoned its allies but that it had left them to be slaughtered by the Communists.

The President has also indicated that he is concerned about the effects of an abrupt and total withdrawal from Vietnam on the credibility of the word of the United States elsewhere in the world.

The willingness of the United States to carry out its mutual defense commitments would not be the only question. Also involved would be the other overseas interests of the United States, including commercial interests.

Such an erosion in world respect for the U.S. would become, in the President's view, a part of the emotional criticism in the United States. It could, in turn, be a prelude for events leading to another confrontation with the Communist world with further loss of American lives.

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Planner Finally Has A Dialogue And Few Things Come To Light

Fusselman

In the I-J, Monday before last, "County Planning Director Paul C. Zucker and most of his staff met the county planning commissioners en masse this morning for the first time since 1966."

This time lag can be laid at Zucker's door stop. He has brazenly and rudely told off the commissioners and the board of supervisors on numerous occasions. He has asserted that the county didn't need a commission, indicating that with him there all the bases were covered.

There has been a noticeable quietness since he was saved by Bill Gnoss' change of position. No though, "Here we are folks, just let me explain."

THE ARTICLE quoted him as saying the budget this year ($477,531) included such things as the overall transportation study. (this while Seymour Kashin, manager of the phantom transit district, was insisting that his crew and they only must be the ones to do this type of study. You pay for them both. Ask Bruce about this overlapping.)

Zucker explained to the commissioners that his outfit was making a study on enviromental quality (?) and tourism potential. The frosting on this was, "An attempt is being made to move away from the subjective and toward the objective by studies on ecology." Oh you hoo-malli-malli man, you, don't do that to us!

THIS TUESDAY he appeared before the board of supervisors in a workshop meeting. Many who have attended these meetings claim "jawshop" would be more precise.

He graciously told them, "Obviously we have to have a dialogue" — an admission that has taken him four budgets to admit. The remarks of two supervisors were right on the button.

Bud Barr: "If you make plans too precise in the western areas you're going to have people forming their own cities and they'll throw out your plans anyway." I told that same thing to a planning director some years ago and it happened — Novato and Tiburon.

Michael Wornum: declared that "general plans . . . should not be tied down to too many specifics . . . The whole point of a general plan is to set a general guideline for the future. We need room to maneuver . . . in the end it is a political decision for elected officials to decide." Bully boy!

He further told Zucker that the planning staff should not get involved with local plans, but should stick to county planning.

NOW READ THIS and see if you think you have had your money's worth. This guy has (including this current year) budgeted and spent $1,648,672. The transit duplication accounts for $124,628 of this.

This brings up a cockeyed situation involved in this planning deal, that I have wanted to comment on for some time. Believe it or not, the taxpayers in the cities of the county pay two-thirds of the tax levied to support this department, but the commission, Zucker and his staff have no authority whatever in the city areas.

The joker is that if the Zucker types should be legally authorized to work in such municipalities of the county, they would want even larger staffs and bigger budgets. And who would pay for this? That's right. You guessed it.

You've had it, my friends, you've had it.

Humane Society's Unhappy Problems

By ALAN JONES

Half the dogs and puppies turned in to the Marin County animal shelter have to be destroyed because they simply cannot be placed with families.

"We are the dumping ground," said Mel L. Morse, executive director of the county humane society. "We have to take everything, regardless of disease or age or anything."

With an inflow of 100 dogs a month, fewer than half can be placed with homes. The rest must be destroyed.

That, Morse said, is why a puppy brought to the shelter Wednesday by Mrs. Paula Potts of San Rafael was killed even before she left the building. Mrs. Potts changed her mind and tried to get the dog back, but her plea was too late even though "we weren't there 10 minutes," she said.

When dogs are brought in, Morse said, someone has to make "the monumental decision" which ones are to live. Some animals present little choice, he said — puppies too young to survive, with their eyes not yet open, disease or malformed dogs, dogs with behavior problems or dogs that simply don't look appealing to potential masters.

Mrs. Potts' puppy, kennel superintendent Jack Faulkner said, was not housebroken, and was being turned in as unsuitable for their child. It added up to too many black marks.

"We know nearly everyone here is here with an emotional animal situation," Morse said. "Utopia would be to place everything into a nice lovely warm home.

". . . How do you get a county to take a solid look at the fact it is creating a problem within itself . . . a surplus of dogs and cats?"

When a family gets tired of its new litter of puppies or kittens, he said, they end up at the shelter. Adults, he said, will bring a litter in to be destroyed, then go home and tell the children all the puppies got good homes.

"The people who want us to find homes . . . are the same people who bring them in in buckets and in sacks.

"They leave them and leave their conscience with it."

What answer is there besides destruction? Education is one, Morse said. The new shelter was built with education as a focus, and some 5,000 children have been through it, he said, learning what overpopulation means for the animals.

The answer could be spaying and neutering, but that has drawbacks as well. The cost of spaying is too high for some families to pay, and "a lot of people just don't give a damn," Morse said.

A mass spaying clinic would help but has never been tried, although some city officials in Marin have been exploring the animal problem.

The shelter might give out only spayed animals for adoption, but that isn't feasible now. "That's my dream," Morse said. "That we have the facilities only to place back into the community altered and spayed animals."

"There has to be a better way" than killing, he said, "Because every community from coast to coast has the same problem."

In addition to the steady flow of dogs, there is a fallout of some 100 cats a week during the cat season each spring. The season ran a month longer than usual this year, Faulkner said.

The new shelter has four main areas for dogs. Dogs for adoption, separated into male and female areas, are in a row of indoor runs to one side the building while strays are kept separate. All but a few of the runs were full yesterday, some with two and three dogs.

Owners usually claim dogs wearing license tags within a day after the shelter calls them, Faulkner said. Untagged strays are kept a week, then either placed with the adoptive dogs or destroyed.

Marin veterinarians make daily visits to the shelter on a rotating schedule to give shots, examine new arrivals and diagnose diseases.

But until something is done to stem the flow of unwanted dogs and cats, scenes like Wednesday's will inevitably be repeated.

Conclave Housing Set At Dominican

Civic leaders, public officials and private citizens will meet in an all-day workshop at Dominican College tomorrow to explore Marin's growing housing problems.

The session, entitled "People in Wonderland," will be held from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., with speakers and a slide and audio-visual presentation in the morning at Angelico Hall and seminars in the afternoon at Guzman and Bertrand halls.

The speakers will be Edward P. Eichler, author of "The Community Builders;" planning consultant Lawrence Livingston Jr.; community catalyst Emma McFarlin; Robert B. Pitts, western regional administrator of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, and Marin County Planning Director Paul C. Zucker.

Organizers of the conference said it will examine increasing property taxes and cost of homes, whether a community increasingly geared to the wealthy is desirable and the housing hardships of low income persons and the elderly.

Workshop planners are the City-County Planning Council, Leagues of Women Voters of Southern and Central Marin, Marin Council for Civic Affairs, Ecumenical Association for Housing and the Marin County Housing Authority. All Marin cities except Ross have made donations to the program.

Red Cross Calls For Volunteers

The Marin County Red Cross needs volunteers to work with in training, recruitment, public relations and to staff community programs, it was announced today.

Drivers are also needed to transport patients to doctor's appointments and to take visitors to Napa or Sonoma State hospitals. Volunteers are needed to work with local shut-ins and to assist in office work,

Information may be obtained at the office of the Marin County chapter, 712 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael.

Hearing Slated In Grand Theft Case

A preliminary hearing has been set for Nov. 17 in Marin Municipal Court for Carl Joel Teissler, 29, of San Rafael, who is accused of grand theft.

Teissler was arrested Nov. 8 after police found him in a truck containing neon light fixtures, apparently stolen from the construction site of the new Pacific Telephone Co. building on Las Gallinas Avenue in San Rafael.

Hub Changes Garbage Rules For Bonfire Ban

Faced with the rapidly approaching backyard burning ban, San Anselmo city councilmen last night made their city the first in Marin County to approve unlimited garbage collection.

Just what this expanded service is going to cost San Anselmo residents remains to be seen, however.

The council voted 3-1, with Mayor Woodrow V. Capurro dissenting, to require San Anselmo Garbage Disposal Co. to pick up all containerized garbage effective Jan. 1, when the burning ban goes into effect.

The council acted despite assertion by attorney Wallace S. Myers, who represents the garbage compnay, that the firm cannot make unlimited pickup without greatly increasing rates.

Myers and the council, sparred briefly about specific rates, were unable to reach agreement but did set Nov. 20 at 8 p.m. as the date of a special meeting to determine rates.

Myers said he felt the garbage company would be swamped once residents were able to get rid of as much garbage as they wished, but councilman Kenneth L. Anderson disagreed, pointing out that only 16 per cent of San Anselmo residents now have a burning permit.

"We now know that the workload isn't going to double, it can be handled," Anderson said in supporting the unlimited pickup.

Councilman James F. Reed said he didn't believe ". . . people will generate garbage just because it's now a bargain."

The council agreed that the unlimited pickup be set for a one year trial with a thorough examination to be held after that period.

Councilman Duane C. Ragan, who joined Reed and Anderson in supporting the unlimited pickup, told Myers that he forsaw the city's creeks and canyons being filled with trash and the possibility of serious house-fires caused by people burning in fireplaces if the unlimited service wasn't offered.

The council told Myers to return to the Nov. 20 meeting with a suggested rate for the unlimited service. San Anselmo residents now pay $2.30 a month for one can on flat ground and $2.60 for a can on a hill. Cost for two cans is double.

Reed last night also suggested that rather than using the flatland and hill criteria the city should adopt separate rates for garbage picked up at the curb and garbage picked up in yards more than 15 feet from the curb.

Reed, who drafted the proposal along with Anderson, suggested that the city's garbage be picked up free by the franchise holder. He said that this was the case in many other cities in the area. He also proposed a 10 per cent discount for anyone paying a year in advance.

"That would cost us about $13,000," Myers protested. Myers said that the company, owned by Victor Vallerga, already had a $6,000 deficit, mainly due to skyrocketing labor costs.

Anderson questioned why Fairfax's garbage rate is lower than San Anselmo's even though it had less users. Myers countered by saying that the collectors are not union members in Fairfax and they are in San Anselmo.

Myers said that the council was asking his client to accept a "pig in a poke" by authorizing unlimited pickup without a substantial increase in rates.

"You are asking us to gamble," he said. He said he was sure the additional load was going to force the company to buy more equipment and make many more trips to the dump, which is 20 miles away.

He agreed to appear at the Nov. 20 meeting with some rate proposals however.

The city council also: purchased a loader-backhoe from the Empire Tractor Co. of Santa Rosa for $13,445.25. The council had budgeted $14,000 for the equipment.

The council awarded a contract for the demolition of a home and garage at 210 Red Hill Avenue owned by Harry Heifetz to the Maggiora and Ghilotti Construction Co. for $1,636.

Jury Verdict Is Guilty In Hashish Case

Clayton Blackmore, 37-year-old Corte Madera carpenter, yesterday was convicted by a jury in Marin Superior Court of selling a small quantity of hashish to a narcotics agent in February 1968.

It took the jury of 10 women and two men about two hours to find Blackmore guilty after two days of testimony.

Blackmore had maintained during the trial that he sold the hashish from his personal supply to a friend — who was accompanied by the agent — after being pursuaded to do so by the friend.

He said he became, suspicious when the agent paid for the hashish.

The agent testified that when he met Blackmore in the yellow camper belonging to Steven Elvin, now serving a jail term for narcotics violations, near Sausalito, that Blackmore offered to sell him the hashish.

Deputy Dist. Atty. J. Michael Anthony prosecuted the case, and Blackmore was defended by Carl B. Shapiro.

Judge E. Warren McGuire set sentencing for Nov. 10.

Cut-Outs Contribute To See-Through Look In New California Swim Suits

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—New York couture designer Jacques Tiffeau presented his first collection of swimwear with a showing Wednesday of six of 16 outfits he created especially for Catalina.

The presentation was made during the California fashion creators 19th annual Press Week showing at the Century Plaza in Los Angeles.

In the Tiffeau collection print bikinis were demurely covered up by matching maxi coats which Catalina prefers to call dusters.

Of two one-piece suits shown a purple and white maillot was made braless. The other California swimwear manufacturers preferred some type of control at the bosom. Although there was very little under wearings and bone stays, designers were making some attempts at controlling the bosom with a softer more natural bra.

NECKLINES PLUNGE, round off, square up and sometimes have collars. Maillots in clinging fabric are still in the picture and cutouts, crochet knits and cotton laces along with sheer organza jackets contribute to a see-through look. Metal rings linked top and bottom and sides. All colors imaginable are visible in either bright or tone down views.

In addition to Catalina, other manufacturers presenting swimwear collections were Alexa, Cole of California, Deweese designs, Sand Castle, Sirena, Elisabeth Stewart and Sea Fashions.

Swimsuit makers have long designed little coverups known as beach coats to wear over suits. Now the beach jacket department includes maxi coats, hip length tunics with pants and mini length dresses.

Fringe, the latest rage, became practical on a Deweese terry triangle scarf that could double as a beach towel.

Elisabeth Stewart doesn't like a cling bikini, she likes the look of wrapped effect often working a scarf motif or draping the fabric.

Marin Women

Contraceptives Urged For Sexually Active Teen-Agers

NEW YORK (UPI)—Even in the absence of parental consent doctors should prescribe contraceptives for sexually involved teen-agers who consult them, according to four faculty members of the University of Washington Medical School in Seattle.

They urged this course on the profession in the new issue of the influential journal, "Postgraduate Medicine," which was reaching its subscribers today.

"WHEN A YOUNG patient has need for a contraceptive, the physician should not refuse this service simply because the patient is young or does not have parental consent," they said.

"Although the teen-ager should be encouraged to seek parental consent, the physician should try to manage the situation so that the patient's suffering are minimal.

"We feel that unwanted pregnancy is a disease—a disease with consequences that affect every level of society."

The urgers were Dr. Nathaniel N. Wagner, associate professor of psychology and psychiatry; Dr. Ronald J. Pion, director of family planning and education in the school's department of obstetrics and gynecology; and Pion's research assistants, Nina Perthou and Byron Fujita.

THERE ARE NO grounds for fearing law suits by parents who have not consented to their teen-agers getting contraceptives, in their view.

"If such a case is brought to court, a logical argument can be made for a legal finding that a teen-ager old enough to be sexually involved and to seek medical assistance is old enough to be considered responsible."

They were alarmed by statistics showing that one of evey 12 children "is born out of wedlock, one of every six women gives birth within eight months after her first marriage and an estimated 50 to 75 per cent of teen-age brides are pregnant at the time of marriage."

More than 40 per cent of mothers of illegitimate babies are teen-agers, they said, and all indications show adults can no longer prevent sexual activity among teen-agers by instilling fear, by close supervision or by other means.

"WE HAVE BEEN impressed by the frequency with which teen-involvement or, sometimes, abstained from it after they have received contraceptives and some supportive counseling.

"It seems that as long as adult society says, 'you can't,' they feel that they must. But when the teen-ager is asked, 'is that what you want?' the responsibility for his behavior is returned to him, which is as it should be."

Fred Grahams Are Married 50 Years

Celebrating 50 years of marriage are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Graham of Terra Linda.

The Grahams who were married Oct. 20, 1919, in Pawnee City, Neb., have lived with their son, Lt. Col. (ret) Roland Graham and his family since coming to Marin County two years ago.

A carpenter, Mr. Graham, is building a two room addition over the garage and he received much help from Mrs. Graham who sat on the roof and handed shingles to him.

They came to Marin from Pueblo, Colo, where they lived for 40 years, operating and owning an apartment house there for 26 years. Mr. Graham was born 71 years ago in Boone, Colo. and met Mrs. Graham near Burn, Kansas where she was born 74 years ago.

Gardening is Mrs. Graham's favorite hobby and she is enjoying the wide variety of California flowers and plants. The Graham's also enjoy their granddaughter, Tayna, 12, and Junko Takeuchi an 18 year old student from Japan who is living at the Graham house while attending Brandon Language School in San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Graham who have traveled from coast-to-coast visiting their son when he was in the service, have 5 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren. A second son, Kenneth, is decreased.

Mr. Graham's advice to young couples is to get an education because "they are more able to see what the world's all about." Without one, he says, "First they have money troubles, then they fight."

The secret of 50 years of marriage is "share and share alike," according to Mrs. Graham.

At a cocktail-dinner party honoring the Grahams Saturday were Mrs. Graham's sister, Mrs. Roy Linsea, of Ely, Nev., and two of her nieces.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Can Husband Who Spanks Wife Trust Her To Raise The Kids?

DEAR HELEN:

Eight of us young suburban housewives have formed a club, to help our neighborhood and work in civic affairs. Last night we had a purely social meeting, with relaxed talk.

One of the girls who had received a traffic ticket remarked "That will cost my husband $15 and me a spanking!"

That started a discussion on whether husbands have the right, duty, or privilege of spanking wives who deserve it.

Three of the group said they had never had a hand laid on them and never would. (I don't consider these the happiest marriages in the club.)

Five of us had been paddled by our husbands — varying from once or twice a year to several times a month. Most of the spankings were administered at the end of an argument for such reasons as excessive nagging, spending money foolishly, being consistently late with dinner or temper tantrums.

In my own case, I tend to get cantankerous if allowed to have my way all the time. My husband is firm but not cruel in applying open palm to appropriate place. I'd rather have him clear the air with a spanking then to pout and quit talking.

I've heard that in some countries the father of the bride delivers a paddle, a slipper or some other symbol of authority to the prospective husband as soon as the engagement is announced. Perhaps we Americans would have more lasting marriages if this custom were started over here. — MRS. C.L.

DEAR MRS. L:

Who am I to condemn what seems to work for you? But I doubt this father-child relationship would catch on with most American marriages, despite the five-to-three majority in your club.

If a wife isn't considered an equal half of an adult team, how could she be trusted to raise the children? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

We've been married over a year. But even yet — if we don't visit my parents every Saturday and Sunday, we receive a call from them on Monday, asking us why, and then we are accused of being shut-ins. The implication is of course, that we're trying to shut them out.

Would you please say something in your column about how often a married couple should be expected to visit family? — A BIT MUCH?

DEAR A.B.M.

When visits become obligations, they're overdone! Spending every weekend with parents or in-laws is definitely "a bit much" and if they don't agree, then they're too dependent on their married children.

How about substituting friendly telephone calls for several of these duty visits. Informal get-togethers are often better than demanded weekends. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I agree with your answer to "Should We Or Shouldn't We Change" whose neighbors looked askance at her family's shenanigans. We could all use a little of the good natured exhuberant fun. You wouldn't believe the number of depressed, under-achieving boys and girls whose every move is made into a chore at home. Three cheers for parents who enjoy their kids. I'm sure you and your husband do too, Helen. — L.K.

DEAT L:

We do, we do! — H.

Longtime Marin Pair Celebrate

The Walter J. Meyers, who will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary tomorrow at an open house at their home in Tamalpais Valley, are among the real oldtimers in Marin County.

Born in Oakland, Evelyn Meyer was brought as a child to Marin, where she lived with her family in the first house in Tamalpais Valley. She has continued to live in the valley for 60 years, though not in the same house.

"Our house, which father remodeled, was the original ranch house on the Coyote Ranch of the Throckmorton Estate," she says. "It is still in Tamalpais Valley but looks much different now.

"We were so far from the only school in Mill Valley that my mother taught me at home. Later I used to drive to Mill Valley in a surrey with the fringe on top and watered my horse at the trough that used to be where the Ralston White Memorial Grove is now located."

Born in Port Washington, Wis., Walter Meyer came to San Francisco in 1907 and to Marin in 1919. On Oct. 25 of that year he and Evelyn were married in Judge Frank T. Deasy's chambers at the San Francisco City Hall.

Mr. Meyer, who retired as foreman of a paper box factory 10 years ago, built the house they have lived in since 1920. It is near Mrs. Meyer's old family home.

The Meyers have four children: Mrs. James Rideout of Nanaimo, Canada; Mrs. William Gosser of San Rafael, who is sheriff's matron in San Rafael; Walter J. Meyer Jr., a retired lieutenant colonel of the Air Force, who lives in Highland; and William Meyer of San Francisco. They have 15 grandchildren and seven great grandchildren.

Evelyn Meyer is active in many lodges. More than 30 years ago she was co-founder with Mrs. Norman G. Boyd of San Anselmo of the Mill Valley Unit 284 of the American Legion Auxiliary and has served as president three times. She is the current president — her second term in this office — of the Mill Valley Tamelpa Parlor 281, Native Daughters of the Golden West. She is also a past noble grand of Blythedale Rebekah Lodge 305 and a past conductress of the Tamalpais Circle 188 of the United Ancient Order of Druids.

Her hobbies are collecting salt and pepper shakers from all over the world — she has more than 260 — earrings for pierced ears, cup and saucer sets and perfume bottles.

Her husband's only organization is the Mill Valley Post 284 of the American Legion. Since his retirement he says he keeps busy raising vegetables in their garden.

As for how to get along without too much friction for 50 years, Mrs. Meyer says, "These people who say they have never had a fight either have had a very dull life or they are liars, but most of the time we just talked things over instead of arguing. One of the most important things was not allowing the children to get us to contradict each other."

Mr. Meyers added, "We were happy because we always did everything together as a family."

MR. AND MRS. Walter J. Meyer display their wedding picture taken when they were married on Oct. 25, 1919, in San Francisco. They will receive congratulations from 34 relatives and more than 100 friends at an open house to be held tomorrow at their home in Tamalpais Valley. (Independent-Journal photo)

Aga Khan Says His Marriage Will Last

PARIS (UPI)—Three generations of the Aga Khan's family have found love and divorce in the fashion world—but the present Aga, Prince Karim, is determined that his marriage to ex-mannequin Sarah Crichton-Stuart Monday will be the one that lasts.

The 49th Imam of the Ismaili sect of Mohammedanism—followed by some 15 to 20 million people in Africa and eastward as far as the borders of China married in a civil ceremony in Paris.

"I DON'T WANT to make a mistake in the choice of my wife," Prince Karim has told friends in the past. "There have been too many divorces in my family."

His grandfather, Mohammed Aly, who was once weighed in diamonds by his followers, was married to a former "Miss France" — fashion designer Yvonne Labrousse—at the time of his death in 1957.

Prince Aly Khan, once the husband of Rita Hayworth and father of the present Aga Khan, was accompanied everywhere by famed model Bettina before he died in a car crash near Paris in the spring of 1961.

Prince Karim was the son of Aly Khan and his first wife, Prince Joan Aly Khan. Born on Dec. 13, 1936, he was educated in Switzerland and was also graduated with honors as a bachelor of arts from Harvard University.

His wife is the daughter of a Bengal Lancer, Lt. Col. Arthur E. Croker Poole, and was born in India before her father retired from army service. She spent her first six years there.

Sarah, a tall five-foot-eight blonde once listed among the world's 10 best-dressed women by Harper's Bazaar magazine, was married previously to Lord James Charles Crichton-Stuart, a brother of the sixth Marquess of Bute, a member of one of Britain's oldest and richest families with large estates in Scotland.

THE EIGHT-YEAR-old childless marriage was dissolved in 1967. She is 29.

The 32-year-old Aga Khan, known as the "Living God" to the followers of the Ismaili sect, was one of the world's most sought after bachelors when he first met Lady Sarah at St. Moritz on a skiing vacation in Switzerland last December.

Knits In News

Knit leisurewear, according to the October issue of Gentlemen's Quarterly, is more in the fashion news than ever before. Knit shirts, many belted, with contrasting stripes, zig-zags and saddle-stiching are featured. The classic argyle sweater also has been revived—for the females, as well. The same for sleeveless sweaters with V and scoop necks. For men and women they are paired with colorful and contrasting shirts.

Prince Karim says he is not, as often stated, among the world's 100 richest men, but his business interests are extensive and profitable.

He maintains homes in London's fashionable Eaton Square and a magnificent $2 million mansion on the Ile St. Louis in Paris, a few blocks from President Georges Pompidou's private residence.

But his travels around the world mean he is seldom in one place for very long. He has been known to attend Ismaili religious ceremonies in the East one week, turn up the next to catch the latest shows in New York and then pop up at a resort sunning himself or skiing in the company of the prettiest girls on the scene.

FOR THE LAST 10 months, however, there has been only one companion, Sarah.

The always smiling Prince—balding slightly now but strikingly like his handsome father — said his wife had taken it upon herself to convert to her fiance's religion. She studied the Koran alone and then attended ceremonies at a Mosque in Paris.

At his mother's residence at Versoix, Switzerland, at his own resort development in Sardinia —everywhere the Prince has gone he has been accompanied by the attractive ex-model.

In June, model agency chief Peter Lumley was informed that Lady Sarah wished to give up the modeling world, which had paid her around $12,000 a year. She privately took back all her photos and newspaper and magazine clippings.

"Lady Sarah told me that her bookings interfered with her private life," Lumley said. He regretted her departure because he considered her one of the most professional models on his books.

"I HAD HEARD of her being escorted by the Aga Khan, but I had no idea of the real reason behind her not wanting to work any more," Lumley said.

Lady Sarah took the Ismaili name, Salima, on her marriage becoming the Begum Aga Khan.

The wedding was held in France explained the Prince "because what would my followers in Syria have said if I had married in Pakistan, or vice-versa?"

The Islamic world was informed only 24 hours in advance of the recent public announcement of the pending marriage. The Prince's spokesman said the news was accompanied by "demonstrations of joy" in many areas. Religious ceremonies were held in Tanzania to allow the 40,000 Ismailis there to celebrate the occasion.

The Prince takes his religious duties seriously and every year presides at Ismaili ceremonies wearing the "Nehru-style" tunic, embroidered coat, astrakhan hat, necklace and ring that signify his rank. The Ismailis are the richest sect within the Moslem religion. They are descendants of the fierce Hashashin Tribe which is, by legend, credited with bequething to the Western world the knowledge of Hashish smoking and the word "assassin."

THEY ARE SPREAD all over the world and usually form the merchant section of the local Moslem population.

Prince Karim himself is of dual Iranian-British nationality and has represented both countries in skiing competitions, with varying degrees of success. He represented Iran in the Innsbruck Winter Olympic Games in 1964.

Lady Sarah's name began cropping up in connection with Prince Karim some months ago. Although hindsight shows there were reasons why she should not have been considered just another girl friend, not even society observers guessed the secret—which the Aga Khan says he confided only to other Ismailis knowing his confidence would be respected.

Sarah learned Urdu, one of the major Indian tongues, as a child and has always been interested in Indian clothing and food. This was an immediate bond of interest when they were introduced. Sarah said she will apply herself to charitable work and to raising a family — and for recreation she might enter horse racing as an owner.

Girl Scout Blitz Against Prejudice On Troop Basis

SEATTLE (AP) — A Girl Scout blitz campaign to blot out racial prejudice will depend on "personal commitment" and be strictly voluntary, the new president of Girl Scouts of the USA says.

But if some Scout troops decide they don't want to go along with the "Action 70" campaign, "that's their decision," Mrs. Douglas H. MacNeil said Wednesday. "We believe there'll be very few of those."

The Seattle women, on the closing day of the convention, demanded "active, obvious and open participation in all phases of Girl Scout activities by black Girl Scouts."

The dispute developed after an all-white Girl Scout choir performed at Sunday's opening ceremonies. The women said in a prepared statement later they were "appalled, shocked and extremely embarrassed" at what they saw as lack of minority group representation in that and other aspects of the convention.

They called for development of an effective, relevant and innovative national campaign to recruit girls from minority groups.

Grand Theft Swine Style

INDUSTRY (UPI)—Pigs are protected in California. To swipe one is to break a 97-year-old statute — "grand theft, swine."

In a post-midnight foray, the students went to the animal husbnadry building at Cal Poly and hustled a 45-pound porker into their car.

But a school employee saw the boys in the pignaping attempt and after a short chase halted their car.

Later in the day, after the men were booked, the district attorney refused to file a criminal complaint on the advice of the sheriff's department and the youths were released.

A spokesman for the fraternity said the youths were supposed to live with the pig for three days and then have their pictures taken with the animal in various public places.

Youth's Case To Juvenile Division

The case of Gregory Alan Pack, 18, of Santa Venetia, has been referred to juvenile probation officers for possible transferral to Marin Juvenile Court.

Pack, who is accused of burglarizing a Novato residence Oct. 15, was told to return to municipal court Nov. 6 to see if his case will be accepted by juvenile authorities.

FAMILY

"My side of the Mountain"—The adventures and experiences of a 13 year-old boy who tries to prove he can live alone in the wilderness of Quebec. Excellent script, artistically and sensitively directed.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Bandolero"—Well-made and well-cast, very violent western has a fitting background of fine desert scenery.

"Barefoot in the Park"—Spicy; well directed situation comedy about a pair of newlyweds. Dialogue is clever and cast delightful.

"Bullitt"—Melodrama involves gansters, police and an ambitious politician. Violence goes all out in blood and gore for its shock effect.

"Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid"—True story of two bank and train robbers in the late 1900's that were popularized by the news media is treated as comedy. Robbers move to Bolivia to continue their trade with mixed results. Delightful scenery, imaginative camera work, clever score and memorable performances from cast.

"Popi"—A Puerto Rican widower dreams up a fantastic scheme to take his two little sons out of the New York ghetto in this unusual tragi-comedy. Ghetto scenes frightening realism very authentic.

"Romeo and Juliet"—The great tragedy is made vividly new and immediate in a superlative production.

"True Grit"—Amusing satiric western about a determined 14-year old girl's attempt to track down her father's murderer. Violence and rough language an integral part of story. Grandeur of scenery is memorable.

BORDERLINE

(Most sources says Adults Only)

"Bonnie and Clyde"—Young man teams with pretty waitress on a grand crime spree. Treating armed robbery and cold-blooded murder as comedy will offend wome viewers. Sadistic violence and explicit sex shown.

"Devil's Bride"—Hodgepodge of black magic and "meller drama" complete with long distance hypnosis, orgiastic blood drinking, etc. Sheer claptrap in elegant settings.

"Place for Lovers"—A time-worn tale (of an intimate affair between a dying woman and an Italian engineer) in a glamorous new wrapping. Film is made modern by including a wild party and pornographic film slides.

ADULTS ONLY

"Barbarella"—Mediocre production goes so far beyond mere vulgarity in sex, nudity and perverted brutality that it is close to pornography.

"Castle Keep"—The eve of Battle of the Bulge eight walking wounded American occupy an ancient treasure-filled Belgian castle directly in the path of the offensive. War satire fraught with symbolism, dark humor and graphically bawdy talk.

"I Am Curious Yello"—Complex movie within a movie structure is somewhat confusing and laborious. A Swedish social expose which received undue publicity when seized by customs because of explicit treatment of sex, depicting intercourse and oral-genital contact full view-full length and minus stratigic shadows or cut-aways. (Parents Magazine).

"Justine"—Decadent, wealthy Egyptians scheme to buy and ship arms to Palestine during 1918 when Jewish underground was fighting the British. Debauchery, adultery, homosexuality, incest are casually present as acceptable.

"Last Summer"—A thought-provoking drama about growing up, stuns as it moves from youthful activity to depravity with a frightening combination of innocence, thwarted sex drives and destructive impulses in the skillful interplay of these groping growing personalities.

"Midnight Cowboy"—An off beat film peopled with the dregs of society is somber and hard hitting. A crippled small time chiseler first exploits and then befriends a vain Texan who comes to New York to be a male prostitute. Sordid story told in an uncompromising way and tempered by directors technical skill gives meaning to the term "adult movie". (Parents Magazine).

"Valley of the Dolls"—Word "dolls" in the title refers not to girls but to the pills to which they are addicted. A corny soap opera.

Slight Error

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Thirty-five years after they were married, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ross asked the courts to declare their marriage valid. It seems that somebody forgot to record their marriage when the ceremony was performed in 1934.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1969 21

Larkspur Schools Set Transfer Tab

A county plan to charge costs of educating transfer students to the students' home districts was ratified last night by the Larkspur School District board.

Under the proposal from the Marin County Board of Education, the costs to be billed will be those above what the Larkspur School District receives from the state for the child, according to Supt. Milton Cohen.

"If it costs us $700 to educate a child from another district and the state pays us $400, we will bill the district the youngster came from for $300," Cohen explained.

According to the plan, the county board has the final say in approval or denial of transfers, according to the superintendent..

The Larkspur Schools District Board Also:

APPOINTMENT — Noted the appointment of Superintendent Cohen to the executive board of the North Bay PACE Center, a federally-funded agency for the improvment of classroom instruction.

MEETING — Agreed to attend the Marin County School Boards Association meeting Oct. 30 at the Holiday Inn, Terra Linda.

COURSE OF STUDY — Adopted the Marin County basic course of study, requirements for instruction approved by the county board of education.

NEGOTIATORS — Received letters from the Larkspur Teachers Association naming the association's negotiating panel for future salary negotiations.

CONFERENCE — Authorized Cohen to attend the Governor's Statehouse Conference on Education in Sacramento Nov. 10 and 11.

REPORTS — Heard reports from Jan Ferris, district speech and hearing consultant and Wilmuth Fitch, curriculum director. Mrs. Ferris discussed the speech and hearing program and Mrs. Fitch spoke on testing.

Youth To Answer Pair Of Charges

James Robert Chrisler, 20, of Mill Valley, yesterday was bound over to Marin Superior Court on charges of possessing marijuana Sept. 10 and stealing a motorcycle in 1965.

He is to appear in court Nov. 3 for arraignment.

Chrisler was stopped by Mill Valley police for fraudulent registration of his motorcycle, and a check showed that the cycle's number matched that of a machine stolen in 1965. Officers also reported that Chrisler had a bag of marijuana with him.

WANTED: HOME SANS PSYCHIATRIST

The Spotty Saga Of A Now-Fat Cat

By ANNE BARDWELL

WANTED: Home for fat cat, once three-pound weakling. Needs tender loving care. Desperate.

What do you do when you need to find a home for a cat? Why, you advertise or place notices in local stores. And failing success, you write a letter to the editor.

That's what good samaritan Virginia Howard of 36 Thomas Drive, Mill Valley, did last week after vainly seeking to find a home for a black and orange year-old female cat she saved from starvation on the streets of Mill Valley three months ago.

It's not that Miss Howard doesn't like Noname. It's just that "my own animals are very unhappy and I can't afford the care and feeding of an extra pet. And I just quit my job to boot," Miss Howard wrote the Independent-Journal last week.

It all started three months ago when Miss Howard was walking her dog near Fern Street and Sycamore Avenue in Mill Valley.

"Out of the bushes approached a crying cat," Miss Howard explained. "I thought it rather odd that it ignored the dog and bent down to stroke it. Well! I was utterly shocked! I was petting a skeleton. The cat was a wobbly full-grown female about an inch wide. I did not have the heart to leave her so brought her home. She weighed three pounds.

"She couldn't eat — so I called the emergency vet number. He advised I call the humane society and have her put to sleep. I demurred, saying she had come to me for help — not annihilation," Miss Howard continued.

After Noname had spent four days at the veterinarian's taking intraskin feeding and antibiotics for a throat infection, Miss Howard brought her home.

"As my two cats and dog were furious and as Noname still was too delicate, I loaned her to a friend who was housesitting four days. He put her outdoors for fresh air but the wind blew her over.

"Noname then spent the next month locked in my bedroom while I advertised ..... there were serious ads, happy ads, sad ones and soul-bearing ones. Once a girl phoned that she was interested but was going camping that weekend. Monday she changed her mind.

"Another time a woman took her on trial. Three days later she returned Noname saying her psychiatrist said she wasn't ready for a cat.

"I thought of returning her to Sycamore and Fern but she needs her teeth cleaned every six months or year — otherwise she'll have a problem. She has a loose tooth now and a lump on her leg from a battle.

Agency Backs Annexing Land

Dillon's Beach subdivision and Oceana Marin Unit One, totaling some 35 acres, should be annexed to the North Marin County Water District, the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission decided unanimously last night at the Civic Center.

Developer Benjamin P. Bonelli asked for annexation so that existing homes, totaling 165, can get sewer service. Bonelli proposed the annexation of 43 acres, but commissioners deleted the area to the south and west of Cypress Avenue, as recommended by executive officer John F. Barrows.

The commissioners also asked Barrows to draft a proposal for legislative changes to lower some of the hurdles in the present city annexation laws.

Teen To Higher Court On Drugs

Paul Martin Washburn, 19, of Gate 6, near Sausalito, and Dennis Joseph George Ross, 26, of no known address, were bound over to Marin Superior Court yesterday on narcotics charges.

They are to appear in court Monday for arraignment.

The men were arrested Sept. 19 in Sausalito by a drug agent who said one of them threw evidence into Bay waters, forcing him to dive in after it.

Washburn is accused of possessing marijuana and possessing the weed for sale, and Ross is charged with possession of LSD and possession of the same drug for sale.

Delaplane Gets Press Club Gavel

Delaplane, a San Francisco Chronicle columnist, won a Pulitzer Prize in 1942 and the National Headliners Award in 1946 and 1959. He has been a member of the 82-year-old club for 30 years.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Jupiter and Saturn. The evening star is Mars.

On this day in history:

In 1861, the first telegram was sent across the United States from California Chief Justice Stephen Field to President Lincoln.

In 1939, women's hosiery made of nylon went on sale for the first time in Wilmington, Del.

In 1945, Secretary of State James Byrnes announced the United Nations Charter was in force following Russian ratification.

In 1952, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican nominee for President, said if elected he would go to Korea and seek to end the war there.

A thought for the day: Greek poet Minnermus said, "We are all clever at envying a famous man while he is yet alive, and at praising him when he is dead."

More Wealth Not Children

JAIPUR, India (AP) — Rajasthan state Chief Minister M. L. Sukhadia has appealed to Indian women to adopt the Gandhian technique of nonviolent noncooperation — against their husbands to prevent overpopulation.

"Tell your husbands to produce more wealth and NOT more children," he told a conference of tribal women.

Try To Find The Right Key When The Door Tightly Shut

During World War II, I spent some of my time opening safes and locked doors, a nefarious practice that came naturally to me because of my bridge background. An experienced bridge player gets quite a bit of practice unlocking doors to get to the dummy, as today's hand indicates.

SCOWLS AT WEST

South won the first trick with the ace of spades and scowled at West for the fiendish opening lead. With any other lead it would have been a cinch to get to dummy by ruffing a heart.

South could surely win six trumps, two hearts and the ace of diamonds. His game would be safe if he could get to dummy in order to cash the ace of clubs. But how could he unlock the door to dummy?

Declarer made an attempt by leading a low heart to dummy's jack. This would land him in the dummy if West had the king of hearts.

WRONG KEY

The attempt was better than nothing, but not much better. East won with the king of hearts and returned a trump to take the last spade out of dummy. Now South had to lead everything out of his own hand and wound up losing two diamonds and one more heart. Down one.

Give the defenders credit for suspecting the club situation, but don't give South any credit as a locksmith. At the second trick South should lead the queen of hearts to open the door to dummy.

COULD BE ENTRY

If East wins the trick, dummy's jack of hearts is an entry. If East declines the trick, South cashes the ace of hearts and ruffs a heart. Either way, declarer is sure of the game and rubber.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♥ J 4
♦ 7 4 3 2
♣ A 7 6 5 2.

ANSWER: Pass.

Do not respond with only five points in high cards, particularly when one of those points is a doubleton jack in an unbid suit. You might be tempted to respond to one heart btcause then the jack of hearts would have some value; but there should be little temptation to respond to one spadt. If partner opened with one club or one diamond, you would raise, since then your doubletons would give you some ruffing value.

Key Club To Be Feted By Sponsors

Members of the Key Club at San Rafael High School will be guests of its sponsoring organization, the San Rafael Kiwanis Club, on Thursday in observance of "Key Club Week."

The club's 15 members will be feted by the Kiwanians at their weekly luncheon at Fleur de France in downtown San Rafael.

"Key Club Week" has been proclaimed locally by Mayor C. Paul Bettini and statewide by Gov. Ronald Reagan to honor the Kiwanis-sponsored organization of high school youth, which began in 1925 at Sacramento High School and now includes 3,500 clubs.

The Key Clubs promote high standards in scholarship, sportsmanship and social service. The San Rafael High School club has included many student leaders, and the present student body president, Lee Harris, is a lieutenant governor of Key Club.

Cars Recalled By Chevrolet

DETROIT (UPI)—Chevrolet has recalled 500 early production 1969 Blazers to correct outside mirrors, fuel line seals and a possible misleading decal on the gear shift that would indicate the car was in neutral when it was actually in gear.

Chevrolet said the vehicles involved will have rectangular outside mirrors substituted for incorrect round outside rear view mirros. Seals between the fuel filler neck and the body panel may have been omitted during production, the company said, which could admit dust, water and exhaust fumes, into the body.

The company said a few of the Blazers may have the incorrect decal which will be replaced "to preclude the possibility of unexpected movement when the clutch is released or the automatic transmission is engaged."

Three Drinking Drivers Fined

Three persons have been sentenced in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

Thomas Keith Flynn, 36, of the Wilkins Hotel, San Rafael, was placed on three years probation and given a six-months suspended jail sentence. He was also ordered to spend five days in jail. Flynn was arrested July 6 on Highway 101.

William Francis Garrow, 41, of 246 Beach Road, Belvedere, who was arrested Oct. 4 on Highway 101, was placed on six months probation and fined $150.

Howard Miller, 34, of 116 Wimbledon Way, San Rafael, who was arrested last Saturday on Highway 101, was placed on six months probation and fined $400.

Cash Theft Reported

Lowell P. Vincent, proprietor of a service station at 108 Bellam Boulevard, San Rafael, told police yesterday that an envelope containing $158 was stolen Wednesday from a drawer in the station office.

Slayer Of Tot May Have Been A Pack Of Dogs

SAN JOSE (UPI) — A 2-year-old Los Gatos girl, who was believed to have died at the hands of a knife-wielding slayer five days ago, apparently was killed by a pack of wild dogs.

Santa Clara County Coroner John Hauser said yesterday reexamination of the body of Shelly Holmboe, and comparison with pictures of other dog attack victims, clearly indicated the child was killed by animals.

Shelley's body, which contained nearly 200 pounds, was found less than three miles from a spot where two San Jose teen-age girls were killed last Aug. 4. They were stabbed a total of 350 times.

Santa Clara County Sheriff Charles Prelsnik said the dog theory was "as good as any we have, probably better."

Golfers Bringing Harding Course To Its Knees

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — George Archer said his elbow hurts, Jack Montgomery said he was still weak from a recent appendectomy and Dick Mayer said he just came along "to see who all these names belong to."

But the three ambled and scrambled through the cold and damp, with an occasional side trip to the woods, in to the top three places in the $100,000 San Francisco Open Golf Tournament yesterday.

Archer, the 6-foot-6 Masters champion who has been sidelined with tendonitis in the left elbow for six weeks, had 10 birdies en route to an eight-under-par 63. Non-winner Montgomery and the veteran Mayer, each had 64s in the first round.

And Arnold Palmer, who said "the course could not be playing easier," had to settle for a 70, far back in the 144 man field.

The tight, 6,677-yard Lakeside layout took a terrible beating. In all, 59 players broke par and another matched par 71, with the prospect that it may take a subpar total to make the cut when the field is trimmed to the low 70 shooters and ties for the final two rounds tomorrow and Sunday.

Jerry Heard, a 22-year-old who has just completed his first year on the tour, and big Bob Lunn trailed Mayer and Montgomery with 65s. Lee Elder and Mike Hill each had a 66.

Seven more, including Dave Hill, Bob Goalby and Dale Douglass, had 67s. Billy Casper, who won the event a year ago when it was called the Lucky International, had a 70 and PGA champ Ray Floyd took a 71.

Archer, who withdrew from last week's Sahara Invitational and was a questionable starter until the last minute said "It was just my day. It is like shooting dice. Everything I shot came up a seven. Everything I got close to the hole went in."

Big George said the pain in his elbow has reduced "from being like a knife in you to a dull throbbing, something you can stand."

He had a scrambling round, despite his 10 birdies. Three shots went into the woods or caromed off trees. On two of them he got birds. One was on a par five, where he hooked his second shot back to the fairway, put his third six inches from the pin and tapped in. Another bounced off a tree and back to the fairway, he reached in regulation and ran in a 35 foot putt.

Mayer, a 46-year-old who won the U.S. Open in 1957, scored his last tour victory in 1965. He said he doesn't know half the players on the tour since he has been off for about a year.

JIM GILMARTIN

The following classified ad appeared in Wednesday's I-J under Personals:

"JIM TODT, please come home. Brodie's arm has been sore 13 years. Love, Judy."

No, James S. Todt of San Rafael didn't really run away from home, nor was the ad placed by his loving wife, Judy. It was just a friend's way of needling Todt about the latest episode in the trials and tribulations of John Riley Brodie who has pitched too many curves, screwballs and drops for the 49ers and developed a case of Little League elbow.

Todt, you see, is founder, president and one-third the membership of the John Brodie Fan Club. The other two-thirds of the club is composed of his wife and aunt (Todt's, not Brodie's).

Don't Be Misled, Friends

You can't find a more loyal fan than Todt, so don't be misled by that classified ad. He didn't run away from home in grief over Brodie's ailment. He just went to Lourdes to put in a good word for his idol. Watch for Brodie — and Todt — to make the comeback of the year.

WHEN THE NINERS battle the Colts on the tube in Baltimore Sunday, pay particular attention to the individual battle between 49er offensive tackle Cas Banasek and Colt defensive end Bubba Smith — it should be a doozy.

When asked about his opposite number in Baltimore, Cas quipped, "Bubba Who?" But, he quickly retracted that by saying: "It's not a good idea to get him mad or insult him because he can get awfully mean. In fact, to his face I call him Charles."

GOOD NEWS from Hanover, N.H., where Mill Valleyan Barry Brink, probably the largest pre-med student (6-3, 235) at Dartmouth, is one of the key reasons the Indians football team is undefeated in five games and favored to win the Ivy League championship.

Doing Fine Job At Dartmouth

The Tam High grad has won a starting defensive tackle job with a consistently fine showing, including No. 1 defensive grading in Dartmouth's recent rout of Penn. Dartmouth ranks among the national collegiate leaders in total defense.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Brink, recently visited the east and saw Dartmouth add Penn and Holy Cross to its list of conquests. A junior pre-med student, Barry will transfer to the warmer climes at U.C. Berkeley just for the winter quarter so he can sharpen up his tennis skills, returning to Dartmouth for his senior year.

ROSS VALLEY Kiwanis Club has presented a plaque to Charles Monte of San Anselmo for his chairmanship of the club's annual North-South Marin High School football game.

CENTER FORREST BLUE and middle linebacker Frank Nunley will be guests of the Marin 49er Boosters Club at its noon luncheon Monday at Dominic's Restaurant, San Rafael. Also on the guest list are Terra Linda High quarterback Tom Jackson and San Marin linebacker John Burnam, the I-J's preps of the week.

Amateurism In Sports On Agenda

DUBROVNIK, Yugoslavia (AP) — Amateurism in sports crops up on the agenda today at a meeting of National Olympic Committees as they prepare to discuss the issue with top officials of the International Olympic Committee.

National Olympic Committees delegates are reliably reported to be divided on the rules governing amateurism but it appears that most of them are willing to make concessions to the individual athletes.

RELUCTANT

The I.O.C. executive board, however, is reluctant to accept proposals concerning amateur rules indicating the subject will be hotly discussed at joint meetings of the I.O.C. executive board and the National Olympic Committees delegates.

Most of the National Olympic Committees delegates were in favor of making the amateur rule more flexible whereby an athlete could be paid by his company during training periods, an Asian delegate said.

However, president of the I.O.C. Avery Brundage, is reportedly still opposed to athletes retaining any fees or any form of commercialism in amateur sports.

PROS IN HOCKEY

A recent decision by the Hockey Federation to permit professionals is also expected to be vetoed by Brundage if it comes up for discussion at the two-day joint meeting starting tomorrow.

On the question of Alpine stars, Brundage has already expressed his disapproval of some ski stars who allegedly had commercial tie-ins with athletic companies at the 1968 Winter Games in Grenoble. He demanded that several of them return their medals.

Despite the fact that the meetings here will not produce any final conclusions, they will set the stage for a full I.O.C. and International Sports Federations meetings in Amsterdam next May, where the major issues are expected to be resolved.

1976 SITES

The I.O.C. also is scheduled to announce the sites for the 1976 winter and summer games.

The I.O.C. executive board met for the first time Thursday night since arriving at this picturesque Adriatic resort city to prepare the agenda for tomorrow's joint meeting.

Discrimination is already on the program and a demand from African National Olympic Committees to ban South Africa from I.O.C sponsored athletic meetings is expected to be aired.

The African delegates met again last night behind closed doors to plan their next move after the National Olympic Committee's general assembly declined to pass a resolution demanding South Africa drop their discriminatory practices by May 1970.

Controversy Cloud Is Over Wyoming

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP) — The University of Wyoming, 16th-ranked among the nation's college football teams, made final preparations for its last home game of the season today under a cloud of controversy after the suspension of 14 black athletes for taking part in a protest demonstration.

With a 5-0 record, the Cowboys are already assured of another non-losing season under Coach Lloyd Eaton, an eight-year veteran at Wyoming who has driven his team into national prominence.

DEMONSTRATION

Eaton suspended the 14 players last week for taking part in a demonstration against Brigham Young University, their Saturday opponent. The players charged BYU with racism because it is operated by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints (Mormon) which the players said banned Negoes from advancement.

Saturday, Wyoming hosts San Jose State in a homecoming game.

San Jose Coach Joe McMullen said yesterday he was confident all his players would be in action against the Cowboys, despite some requests that they boycott the game in sympathy with the black athletes.

"At the time, there had been no mention of picketing," McMullen said after a team meeting. "But I trust there is no difference in the team's attitude then and now."

San Jose State black athletes boycotted a BYU game last fall because of a protest similar to the Wyoming action. McMullen said university officials then worked out a "rights of conscience" authorization for any player to sit out a game without penalty if he first notifies the coach."

McMullen said he believed SJS was the only school in the nation with such an agreement.

Eaton, meanwhile, Thursday said his players will hereafter be permitted to join student demonstrations as long as they don't carry their causes to the playing field.

"We are altering the rule so it applies only to players while directly participating in team activities," Eaton said.

STANDS FIRM

Eaton, meanwhile, yesterday ing by his decision to keep the blacks off his team for the remainder of the season, though. He said they may be reinstated next year.

"At the completion of the current football season, each of the blacks will have the opportunity to meet individually with the football coaches to review the opportunities of his returning to the Wyoming football program," he said.

Eaton said the decision came after re-evaluating his rule on dissent.

Redwood's Second Five Triumphs

Redwood High School's entire cross country team and Novato High School's Ron Elijah just keep rolling along.

Redwood, using its second five runners, still handed Marin Catholic the equivalent of a cross-country shutout, winning 15-48, at Redwood's Phoenix Lake Course. Steve Levintow was the top runner in 16:46. Redwood's top five runners will compete in the Modesto Invitational tomorrow. The victory was Redwood's fifth without a loss in Marin County Athletic League action.

Elijah remained unbeaten, leading Novato to a tight 28-29 win over San Rafael, at San Rafael. Elijah won in 15:15 to set a course record while San Rafael's Steve Elias was second in 15:41.

In other meets, Tamalpais topped Terra Linda, 22-35, at Tamalpais, with Vian Collier and Lowery McFerrin finishing one-two, and San Marin topped Drake, 23-32, at San Marin with Chaka Chappell taking individual honors.

Two Teams Tied In Class C Basketball Race

Redwood High School's Class C basketball team moved into a tie for first place in the Marin County Athletic League standings by nipping Marin Catholic, 26-25, at Redwood yesterday.

In another MCAL Class C game, San Rafael hiked its record to 3-4 with a 32-25 win over Terra Linda at San Rafael.

Marin Catholic's loss completed a black week for the Wildcats, who dropped from first to third, losing to Drake by two points Tuesday.

Redwood is now tied for first with Drake. Both teams have 6-2 records while Marin Catholic is third at 5-3, with four games left to play.

Rick Barry Undergoes Surgery On Hurt Knee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rick Barry, one of the true superstars of professional basketball, says he wonders at times if his problems of the past year would have occurred had he not switched to the American Basketball Association.

Specifically, Barry is concerned about the injuries he's suffered since leaving the National Basketball Association two years ago.

Barry, the 6-foot-7½, 217 pounder was to undergo surgery for the removal of a cartilage in his left knee today, the second such operation he's had this year.

"I seldom think about it," said Barry shortly before he entered the Washington Medical Center. "But if I ever had any second thoughts, it would have been 'If I stayed in the NBA, would I have gotten hurt?' But who's to say. I don't know."

Barry, after getting out of the University of Miami in 1965 as everyone's All-America, joined the San Francisco Warriors. He was named the Rookie of the Year and won the scoring championship.

In his third year in the pros, he jumped the NBA and signed with the ABA's Oakland Oaks but a court fight ensued and Barry was forced to sit out a year.

Joining the Oaks last season, Barry led the ABA with a 34-point scoring average, although was missing half the season when he underwent an operation to have the medial cartilage on his left knee removed.

The Oaks, who won the ABA championship last season, were sold earlier this year to Earl Foreman who moved the team to Washington.

He reinjured the left knee three days after his arrival in the nation's capital, then apparently "popped" the cartilage in the Caps first game last Saturday against the New Orleans Buccaneers.

Dr. Stan Levine, the team physician, taped the knee and told Barry to try it out to see if he could get by. Barry said it worked against Louisville earlier this week "but I couldn't do the things I wanted to do."

Against the Carolina Cougers in Charlotte Wednesday, he said he was running down court and "it just popped when I tried to cut."

Dr. Levine told him, Barry said, he could tape it again and he would be able to play but he could not guarantee that it would not go out on him in another game.

Sonoma State Takes To Road For 'Home' Game

Sonoma State College will be going for win number three tonight when it travels to Sebastopol for a "home" game.

The Cossacks take on the San Francisco State junior varsity at 7:30 at Analy High School's field. The game originally had been scheduled for tomorrow at Petaluma's Durst Field, but had to be changed as some of the S.F. jayvee players have to double up and play for the varsity tomorrow against Cal at Davis. (Stories of other games involving Marin and Sonoma county teams on page 38.)

Sandwiched between two sound whippings, the Cossacks have a pair of victories, 21-7 over Cal State (Hayward) and 21-14 over Cal Aggies (Davis) junior varisty teams. Sonoma lost its opener, 65-0 to Arizona Western, a junior College, and last Saturday fell to Taft (Kern County, another junior college powerhouse, 43-6.

Nateless Warriors Set Down Knicks

Thurmond Tossed From Game

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Knicks just might have been talked into their first defeat of the National Basketball Association season by Nate Thurmond of San Francisco.

Actually, shouting is a better description of what Nate was doing when he lambasted referee Jake O'Donnell midway through the second period of the Warriors' game against the Knicks last night.

O'Donnell, a two-sport man, has heard it all before as an American league umpire and when Nate objected to a call and said the magic word, O'Donnell first called a technical on him and then gave him the old heave ho.

10-POINT LEAD

Thurmond had 13 points and 11 rebounds at the time and the Warriors held a 46-36 lead. But the absence of their 6-foot-10 All Star center didn't seem to faze them as they went on to hand the Knicks their first loss in six games 112-109 at Madison Square Garden.

Jeff Mullins scored 27 points for San Francisco and Joe Ellis came off the bench for 18, including 10 in the final period, two of them free throws for a 110-107 lead with one minute to go.

Thurmond's unexpected exit might have helped.

SAME FEELING

New York coach Red Holzman had the same feeling after seeing his club outrebounded 68-42 by the hustling Warriors as center Willis Reed managed only five rebounds and 22 points, hitting a dismal six of 22 field goal tries, against Thurmond's rookie replacement Dale Schlueter.

"I wasn't happy to see him go," Holzman said of Thurmond's departue. Sometimes that works against you. I'd ratcher take my chances with him in there. The other team compensates for it. They help each other more. We did the same thing last year when some of our guys were hurt.

"We were just flat and they caused a lot of things to happen to us by playing good defense."

But even Holzman indicated he was surprised to see Thurmond waved off after only one technical foul. Normally, it is the custom to hit a player with two technicals, which is automatic ejection.

TECHNICALS

That's what angered Thurmond and Lee, who also picked up a technical while Thurmond was leaving.

"I deserved it for what I said," Lee admitted.

Thurmond, too, admitted "I said something bad."

But both felt that O'Donnell should have walked away from the argument or shouldn't have kicked the 6-foot-10 center out without calling another technical.

SHIRLEY FINDS OUT

It's Man's World On Pro Golf Tour

DALLAS (AP) — Shirley Englehorn isn't one of those pouty type females.

She would dearly love to tee it up with the men professionals in the Los Angeles Open in January. Even had her plans made and heart set on it.

But if Joe Dey, the czar of the Professional Golfers Association, says that's no place for a lady—so be it.

Dey ruled yesterday that the PGA is for males only.

"I'm not a girl jockey," the 29-year-old Miss Englehorn told the Associated Press by telephone from Corpus Christi. "I respect their ruling. I just hope some day it can be changed. Golf is golf. If I could qualify, why not?"

SPONSORS

Miss Englehorn, who has won $115,000 on the Ladies Professional Golfers Association tour since 1959, said she had been offered a chance to qualify in early January by the Los Angeles Open tournament sponsors.

"They weren't giving me an automatic spot in the tournament," she said. "I would have had to tee it up from the men's tees with 30 or 40 players going after two places in the starting field."

"I was curious to see how well I could have done. I realize they hit 7-irons to the green where we have to hit 4-woods, but in golf the real ability is in getting the ball in the cup."

In New York, Dey said his decision was based on "kindness to women."

APPROVAL

Although there's nothing in the PGA rules saying a sponsor can't invite a woman to try and qualify for a tournament, Dey said the PGA has the right to approve all entries if it wants to.

Sponsors exemptions are few and far between anyway.

It takes some doing to qualify for the tour. You either have to graduate from the PGA approved player school, be a Class A club professional, a foreign player in good standing with the PGA, an amateur with a handicap of two or less—or land one of those sponsors' exemptions.

Spurrier To Start For 49ers

REDWOOD CITY (AP)—Steve Spurrier will start at quarterback for the San Francisco 49ers when they meet Baltimore Sunday, 49er coach Dick Nolan said today.

Nolan made up his mind before watching veteran John Brodie pass for the first time after complaining of a sore elbow following last week's 21-7 National Football League loss to Atlanta.

Spurrier, a third-year man from Florida, has not started a regular season game in two years. However, he started several exhibition games and has seen fourth-quarter action in regular games this year.

Two New Seals Ready To Play

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Seals, bolstered by the acquisition of two defensemen, risk their National Hockey League Western Division lead tonight when they face the Boston Bruins at 8 o'clock in the Oakland Coliseum Arena.

The Seals, tied with Minnesota atop the Western Division standings, added Aut Erickson to their defensive crew yesterday, calling the 30-year-old veteran up from Phoenix.

PREP FOOTBALL

Battered Novato Vs. Terra Linda

Terra Linda High School's Trojan football team tries to take another stride toward a Fourth consecutive Marin County Athletic League football crown tomorrow against a battered, depleted but game Novato team at Novato, 2 p.m.

Only a year ago, the two teams played it out under very different circumstances, with a title at stake. Terra Linda won it then, 7-6, but Novato went on to tie for the crown.

This year, the Hornests are way out of the running and have scored only one touchdown in three league losses. And they are hurting.

"It will take a super effort to win," Novato coach Al Scott admitted glumly. "We've made some changes, and we may open up more, but it's going to be tough."

The Hornets lost tackle Steve Stanley for the year with dizzy spells along with three-year starter Wayne Palmer, who has ulcerative colitis.

NOTHING TO LOSE

"Their Novato's offense isn't as bad as it has been," said Terra Linda assistant coach Hank Yamagata, subbing for ailing Don Lucas. "Besides, they've everything to gain, nothing to lose for this one. We've got everything to lose."

"We'll have to figure out a way to handle Dave Perron, their linebacker. He's a good one." Yamagata said. "But I don't think they've faced strong passing like ours in the league."

Trojan quarterback Tom Jackson will take care of that and will hope he'll have as much success as Petaluman Fred Klemenock did in a 28-7 win over Novato. That was the most points scored on Novato all year.

Tarnished Drake Attempts To Stop San Marin Tonight

Slightly tarnished Drake High School and fledgling San Marin, a team with a winning habit acquired early, collide in a key Marin County Athletic League football game at San Rafael High School tonight, 8 o'clock.

Drake, a school with fine MCAL traditions of winning now fallen on lean days, will put its pride and still considerable talent on the line in a bid to stop the upstart Mustangs, who have won four games and lost none in their first varsity season. That includes league wins over Novato and Tamalpais.

Drake is 1-2 in league and hurting with four regulars lost for the season, latest being center Rod Warnhoff and end Jim Dominguez.

"San Marin has a fine ballclub," Drake coach Bob Franceschini said. "They have the winning habit, and that can get to be awfully tough to beat."

GOOD RUNNER

"We've used him primarily on defense," he said. "But he's a good runner."

For San Marin, it's practically a must game since the Mustangs would like to meet top-rated Terra Linda with an unblemished record. But they may have a tough time getting as sky-high as in their emotional 9-0 win over Novato last week.

"We've been a little off in our practice this week," coach Bob Martin said. "But I'm not worried that the kids won't get up for it. They want to win."

Quarterback Ken Gnoss leads an offense-minded team, backed by top runners Steve Lambert and Urbano Bouscieguez. Linebacker Jack Burnam heads a defense that held Novato to just 10 yards total offense last week.

Improved San Rafael, Tam Teams Clash In Mill Valley Tomorrow

Tamalpais and San Rafael high schools, two improved Marin County Athletic League football teams, will battle it out at Tamalpais in Mill Valley tomorrow at 1:30 p.m.

The improvement has had different results for the two teams. San Rafael, after losing to Drake, 17-7, has reeled off two straight shutout victories, while Tamalpais is still looking for its first league win and is seeking to break a losing streak of four games.

The Indians, admittedly have faced the best of the league so far, bowing to Redwood, San Marin and Terra Linda. They looked good in a 28-12 loss to Terra Linda last week, but they may have tough time moving against a growingly stingy San Rafael defense.

FINE DEFENSE

"They have a fine defensive club," Tamalpais coach Mike Davlin said. "They do a good job. They're well balanced and experienced."

The Indians are young and inexperienced but they have a sound running game and improved passing from soph quarterback Pat Locey.

"I think we're getting along quite a bit better," San Rafael coach Bob Muster said. "Our pass defense has really come along. But Tam will be tough. That Washington (Billy) is a tough boy, on defense and offense."

The Bulldogs have snared 12 interceptions so far, with Bob Peterson and Bruce Nave leading the way with three each.

OTHER MARIN TEAMS

Redwood Invades Eureka

Redwood High School will stay in the driver's seat of the Marin County Athletic League football race and leave the driving to the rest of the teams, at least for this weekend.

The Giants draw the bye this week in the seven-team loop, and they'll use it to trek all the way to Eureka for a none-league game at 8 o'clock tonight.

The Giants, 3-0 in league play and 4-1 on the season, will meet a team that has a 3-2 record, one of the better northern teams in the state and a team what whipped Fremont of Oakland 81-7. Which should be fun.

In other games, Tomales (4-1) visits a tough Kelseyville team at 8 tonight, Marin Catholic hosts winless but dangerous St. Mary's of Berkeley at Kentfield at 2 p.m. tomorrow and San Rafael Military, Academy, winless, hosts St. Patrick's of Vallejo at 1 p.m.

TOUGH BACK

Kelseyville was the team which handed SRMA a 68-0 thrashing earlier in the season. It sports a tough back in Roy Woodridge, who is reputed to on the level with Ron Petroni, Tomales' star. But Tomales, which opened league play by blasting a good Middletown team, 62-0, figures to have more balance with the added running of Axel Anderson and the passing of Dennis Rodoni.

St. Mary's of Berkeley is 0-4, and that worries Marin Catholic coach Cliff Vattuone, whose Wildcats are 2-2-1. St. Mary's has lost to St. Francis by one point, to Bellarmine, 6-0, to Vallejo 20-6 and to Riordan, 40-0. All are super-tough teams and St. Mary's should be primed.

SRMA topped St. Patrick's last year, but the Cadets are in the throes of a miserable season and it may be tough to come up for air.

Petaluma's Klemenock Is Ready

It's been a long time since Petaluma High School quarterback Fred Klemenok has made "contact."

The Trojan signal-caller, who suffered a hip injury in guiding Petaluma to a 33-14 homecoming win over Napa last Friday night, has not scrimmaged with the club this week in preparation for tonight's North Bay League game against Hogan High in Vallejo.

Klemenok is expected to start, however, as the Trojans look for their second straight league win.

Klemenok continues to lead the NBL Section I in passing as he has completed 63 of 98 passes (64 per cent) for 969 yards and 14 touchdowns. Petaluma split end Bob Garcia, the league's leading receiver, has caught 34 Klemenok aerials for 696 yards and 11 touchdowns. Garcia also holds the NBL-I scoring lead with 66 points.

In other NBL-I action tonight, Vallejo is at Santa Rosa in a battle of the league's unbeatens and Montgomery of Santa Rosa goes to Napa. Ukiah steps out of the league to battle NBL-II power Sonoma at Ukiah.

Rancho Cotate (Rohnert Park) has the least-wanted task in section II circles as they host Percy Grogans and the Cardinal Newman Cardinals of Santa Rosa at Petaluma's Durst Field.

Grogans has been almost a one-man show in leading the Cards to the top of the league standings in their first year as members. He has scored 86 points and boasts a rushing average of 7.1 yards per carry to top NBL-II players in both categories.

In other NBL-II games, Piner of Santa Rosa is at El Molino (Forestville) and Analy of Sebastapol meets Healdsburg.

The fourth southern Sonma County prep team, St. Vincent of Petaluma, gets back in action tomorrow after a week off, travelling to Eureka to meet powerful St. Bernard's.

Stanford Vs. UCLA In Biggie

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

UCLA's undefeated Bruins and the Indians of Stanford battle tomorrow in a Pacific-8 football meeting which matches two of the nation's top collegiate offenses.

Kickoff for the game, in Stanford Stadium, is scheduled for 1:30 p.m.

Stanford, paced by the passing of quarterback Jim Plunkett, has averaged 511 yards per game and scored 26 touchdowns to rank second nationally among the major college clubs.

UCLA, which complements the passing of Dennis Dummit with the running of Greg Jones and Mickey Cureton, has gained 490.7 per game with 30 touchdowns.

The undefeated Bruins sport a 6-0 record. Stanford is 3-2 after losing by a point to Purdue and by two to the Southern California Trojans.

UCLA, USC and Stanford remain the Big Three in the Rose Bowl race but a loss by the Indians would virtually eliminate them from contention.

20 Flag Football Teams Open Play In San Rafael

San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department opens its elementary and junior high flag football program tomorrow.

This year there are 20 teams representing 12 elementary schools throughout San Rafael, according to A. J. Snyder Jr., director of parks and recreation. There are 10 teams in the sixth grade league, and 10 more in the fourth and fifth grade league. Each league has two divisions.

All elementary school league games will be played on Saturdays at San Rafael High, starting at 9 a.m.

There are four schools in the junior high league, Davidson, Santa Venetia and Vallecito from San Rafael, and one from Mill Valley Park and Recreation Department.

All junior high league games will be played at Vallecito Junior High on Saturdays 9 .m.

Criticism Not Bothering Clay

Elder, a 23-year-old Texan who spent four years in the Navy with two trips to Vietnam, called the hiring of Caly "an affront" because of his refusal to be inducted into the Army.

Dixon Says Knee Is Strong Enough

OAKLAND (AP) — Hewritt Dixon, the Oakland Raiders fullback, thinks his injured knee is strong enough to permit him to play Sunday against the San Diego Chargers.

"I feel real good," he said yesterday. "I'm just waiting for the go ahead. I have confidence in the knee and I'm going out there with a positive attitude."

Dixon injured the knee last season and underwent an operation before this season started. He reinjured it Sept. 20 in a game against Miami.

'Must' Game Might Go The Other Way

OAKLAND—One of the growing cliches in professional football involves the decision in a game "played by two reasonable well-matched clubs." In this sort of titanic struggle victory will go to the team "that has to win."

On the assumption that this theorem isn't a lot of baloney — or at least as believable as most pro grid hokum (fat content will soon be measured)—you deduce the San Diego Chargers will defeat he marvelous, beloved Raiders down South on Sunday.

IF THE CHARGERS lose, their season will have ended at the halfway point of the 1969 American Football League year. Which ain't much fun.

San Diego is already 4-2 to the Raiders' 5-0-1, and stumbling. They appear headed for their fourth consecutive third place finish in the AFL West, rather shoddy showings for a club that was the Western champion in five of the league's first six seasons. Clearly, the Raiders have replaced the Charger dynasty. Tell that to Sid Gillman. Just try.

To begin with, the only coach San Diego has had started the week grimly. His lads somehow managed to defeat the Boston Patriots, pro football's most embarrassing team, last Sunday. They beat them ony 13-10, almost cause for a ticker tape parade among Bostonians. When one considers that the Chargers hace been leading the AFL in most offensive departments (the Patriots lead only in lowest attendance),one figures Gillman's gorillas were looking ahead to Oakland.

"WE CERTAINLY can get the ball down there," said Gillman. "But we can't get it across the goal line."

Funny thing is, up until last Sunday the Raiders were belting a similar libretto, despite an earlier 38-23 crushing of Boston. They ran into—and over—Buffalo here last week, scoring five times in less than 11 minutes, for an NBA-like average of about three points a minute.

A game with the Warriors would have made more sense. All the Raiders now agree that Daryle Lamonica has his his stride, along with his receivers. Sufficient momentum seems to be building.

BUT WILL IT help? Boston coach Clive Rush is not all that certain about Oakland superiority. He went so far as to call the Chargers "damn good football team," using the word "good" for emphasis of course. "I think they've got a good shot at the Western championship," said Rush.

Eliminate those two early season losses, to Kansas City and Cincinnati in the first two games of the year, and brother Rush might be correct. Grant Gillman the excuse of having quarterback John Hadl injured in that pair and he's still in trouble, he still "has to win."

WITH WHAT? San Diego obviously has offensive foreworks in its recovered Hadl, receivers Alworth and Garrison, runners Post and Hubbert. But there are he Raiders with their recovered (psychologically) Lamonica, receivers Wells, Biletnikoff, Cannon, runners Dixon (if he's well), Banaszak, Smith. Left alone, all these lads could play the highest -scoring game in football history, omitting a few 1969 college scores.

Gillman must be concerned mostly with the fact the offenses won't be left alone. The Charger defensive line simply has trouble reaching the passer. They're improving—against the youth of Cincinnati and Boston that is. But the Raiders can handle them, and given the time Lanonica will get Sunday, well. . .

WE'RE GETTING one game closer to the Super Bowl," Daryle said after the Buffalo business. "That's what I've got my eye on."

That vision can see through football cliches any day. Particularly on Sundays; particularly on Sundays in San Diego.

Lady Ump Takes Case To Court

NE W YORK (UPI)—Mrs. Bernice Gera has a diploma from a professional umpires school and she wants to use it. But she says she can't get a job because of her sex.

The five-foot-two housewife took her case to the New York State Division of Human Rights yesterday in an attempt to get the New York-Pennsylvania Baseball League to hire her for the 1970 season. If they won't hire her for the season, then she'll sue for wages she claims the league owes her for August of this year. The hearing was to continue today.

Mrs. Gera contended she can umpire as well as any man and to prove the point, she had an attorney squat like a catcher and she got behind him in umpire fashion.

Attorneys for Mrs. Gera said the league sent her a contract last July for work in August at $200 in wages, $300 in expenses and five cents a mile for travel. But she said the National Association of Baseball Leagues president Philip Pito refused to validate the contract because of her sex.

Quail Hill Contract Awarded

A $2.5 million contract to build the western division headquarters for Commerce Clearing House on Quail Hill, Northgate Shopping Center has been awarded to Aberthaw Construction Co. of South San Francisco.

Present western headquarters of the company is in San Francisco. The new 125,000 square foot building will house all of its subsidiaries in the area, including General Programmed Teaching, Walker's Manual and National Quotation Bureau. The company's total investment in the 82-acre Quail Hill project may run over $6 million, according to western vice president Richard K. Duncan.

As part of the site development program, 55 feet of the top of Quail Hill has been removed and landscaping of the entire hill is expected to begin early in November.

The site is planned for a 10-story office building, five administrative and professional buildings, 110 view townhouses, 34 homes and possibly an advanced business studies center for 200 students.

Architects are Marquis and Stoller of San Francisco. Landscaping is under the direction of Eckbo, Dean, Sustin and Williams of San Francisco. Civil engineer is Carlos E. Gonzalez and soil engineers are Harding-Miller-Lawson and Associates, both of Northgate Industrial Park.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Institutions Making Life Hard For Smaller Buyers

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Evidently I am not the only one with growing concern over the size of institutional investors. I understand there is a study being made on this subject. What have they found?—D.C.

A. Both the New York Stock Exchange and the Securities Exchange Commission (SEC) are researching this question. A preliminary report from the former reveals that institutions accounted for 51 per cent of the volume and 56 per cent of the money value of trading on the Big Board so far this year. In 1960 these figures stood at 31 per cent and 40 per cent.

Included under the rather vague term "institution" are: bank trust departments, mutual and hedge funds, insurance companies, nonbank trusts and pension funds. SEC Chairman Budge testified before the Senate Banking Committee that institutions hold equity investments worth over $250 billion. Block trades—executions of 10,000 or more shares—involved 293 million shares last year, up 500 per cent since 1965. As a result the specialist—an individual charged with maintaining an orderly market in designated stocks— is finding it increasingly difficult to raise the capital required to absorb large blocks.

The effects of institutional trading have been further aggravated by the tendency of performance-conscious fund managers to dump entire stock positions on any adverse news. Although the two studies will undoubtedly substantiate much that was previously theory, unless some remedial action results the small investor will continue to be the "fall guy."

Q. Is Mill Factors still in business? Should I continue holding the common stock?—H.N.

A. Still in business and seriously overburdened by heavy operational losses, the company's shares were dropped from trading by AMEX in January. Recent over-the-counter bids were under $1. I see no other option for you than to hold what you have. In February the company sold $27 million of factoring receivables to a Talcott National subsidiary. Talcott has agreed to act as the company's agent should its commercial finance portfolio be put under new management or forced into liquidation.

Stocks On Rebound In Active Trade

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks moved higher today in active trading.

It was traced to spreading reductions in short term interest rates and hopes that the United States was moving toward further disengagement in Vietnam.

Heavily traded issues included Uniroyal, which traded an early block of 730,000 shares; International Telephone, which is attempting to acquire Hartford Fire Insurance and Grinnell corp. In the face of antitrust action by the Justice Department, Occidental, and Bunker-Ramo.

General Motors moved narrowly, although it reported a 26.4 per cent rise in third quarter profits versus the year ago period. The balance of the automotive group also traded in small ranges.

IBM attracted demand in the electronics, while a number of oilu ranged to more than a point higher.

Steels edged higher in a number of instances. Chemicalu, and airlines were mixed, while aircrafts showed scattered strength.

Prices also moved ahead on the American Stock Exchange in active trading.

HITCHHIKING LITTLE GREEN MEN?

Flying saucer fans in Stockholm, Sweden must have thought their claims had all come true, seeing this object over the city yesterday. But, in unfanciful reality, it's just an ultramodern summer cabin, finished with its stint on display, being helicopter-lifted to a new site south of the Swedish capital. (AP Wisephoto via cable)

Speaker Office 'Fix' Charged

NEW YORK (AP) — Life Magazine charges that a Washington lobbyist received $5,000 in cash to wield influence in a tax evasion case while sitting in House Speaker John W. McCormack's chair in the speaker's private office. McCormack was not present at the time, Life says.

The Life article also describes several other alleged fixes and fix attempts involving both the lobbyist and McCormack's suspended chief aide and claims "the evidence is that McCormack was more than naively involved in whatever took place in his office."

LOBBYIST NAMED

Life, in the article written by William Lambert to appear in the Oct. 31 edition, identifies the lobbyist and alleged fixer as Nathan Voloshen, a 71-year-old "purported lawyer in Maryland who is a close friend of the speaker."

Both Voloshen and Dr. Martin Sweig, whom McCormack suspended last week as his administrative assistant, are currently targets of a Securities and Exchange Commission complaint.

The article said that Dr. Irving Helfert, a Dayton, Ohio, urologist accused of evading more than $300,000 in federal taxes, counted out the $5,000 in cash in McCormack's office and handed it to Voloshen.

DOCTOR JAILED

"Voloshen said he would mail Helfert a receipt, and the doctor would be hearing from him," Lambert wrote. "But he never did. The doctor was convicted, fined $15,000 and given a suspended jail sentence."

McCormack declined to comment on the article this morning but said he would have a statement later in day.

Voloshen was not immediately available for comment.

"Life's inquiries have uncovered literally dozens of fixed cases, near-fixes and plain shakedown emanating from Voloshen's power base in the speaker's office. All have been turned over to the Justice Department and the Internal Revenue Service which in turn have conducted investigations leading to more cases," the article said.

BRIBE TRY CLAIMED

Life said that while Lambert was working on the article, a friend of Voloshen approached an investigator and said $50,000 would be paid Lambert to drop the story—$25,000 down and the remainder in six months if the article did not appear.

The article said Life began its investigation last March. It said that when the SEC mentioned Sweig and Voloshen in a civil

Turned-Off Youth Held Key To Drugs

Linkletter Testifies On His Closeness To Problem

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Television personality Art Linkletter said today kids who've tried the drug scene and "turned off" are the best weapon in curbing the use of hard drugs.

"Teen-agers will listen especially to kids who have tried dangerous drugs and turned off. They are the best authorities — those who tried it and found it was no good," he told the House Select Committee on Crime.

Linkletter, who blamed his daughter's suicide three weeks ago on LSD, called for a compulsory drug education program starting in the fourth or fifth grade.

"It should explain the danger of putting chemicals into the body. It should study the cultures which have been turned on in the past and lost," he said.

Linkletter told the committee he plans to produce a film on drugs for educators with a grant from the University of California Medical School.

"Our educators do not know how to talk to children on this matter. Our children know more than the educators, not only in conning them, but about what drugs do," he said.

"We should also try to reach the parents through news media and the youth through rock groups and disc jockeys."

He said he felt such people as Timothy Leary, an LSD advocate and former Harvard instructor, were responsible for his daughter's death because they were looked up to by youth.

Linkletter's daughter, Diane, leaped to her death from her Hollywood apartment Oct. 4 in what the performer said was "a depressed state from bad LSD trips."

At the committee's first session Thursday, a self-admitted distributor of dangerous drugs told how he could net more than $60,000 a year by working

VIETNAM PROBE NEXT

Sergeants Silent In GI Graft Quiz

SEN. STEPHEN M. YOUNG
'Reality of age'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Phase One of a Senate conspiracy probe that shook the Army from GI to general has ended in a wave of Fifth Amendment responses from witnesses who refused to answer questions about an alleged multimillion-dollar graft operation.

Phase Two, a public airing of large-scale black market and currency manipulation rackets in South Vietnam, is next on the agenda.

The Fifth Amendment was invoked 114 times yesterday, 23 times by William O. Wooldridge, a sad-faced, 47-year old sergeant major who used to be the Army's top-ranking enlisted man.

As television lights reflected from the five rows of decorations on his green uniform, Wooldridge refused repeatedly to defend himself from allegations he profited from funds stolen from noncommissioned officers clubs, took kickbacks and payoffs, and received checks from a secret Swiss bank account bearing the code name "FISHHEAD."

Three other men—all former club custodians—followed his lead and, on the advice of their attorneys, refused to give any information other than their names and addresses.

Meanwhile, the Army struck Wooldridge's name from its list of command sergeants major. Although he will be removed from his current assignment at the White Sands Proving Ground, he will remain at the facility in New Mexico in a different capacity, retaining his rank and pay.

A Pentagon spokesman said it was too early to tell if Wooldridge would be court-martialed.

Military investigators are following a web of allegations against Wooldridge and others in a worldwide probe leading from Augsburg, Germany, to Fort Benning, Ga., to Vietnam to the Pentagon itself.

"These hearings have produced testimony which indicates a serious betrayal of public trust by a small number of men," said Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., acting chairman of the Senate's investigations subcommittee.

He said senior sergeants took

Senate Dean Not Running Again In 70

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, at 80 the oldest member of the Senate, said today he will not be a candidate for a third term in 1970.

"The reality of age I shall not ignore," Young told news conference.

Young was elected to the Senate in 1958 when he upset the Republican incumbent, John W. Bricker. He won reelection in 1964 by defeating the GOP nominee, Robert Taft Jr.

Young said that while he could not ignore his age he noted: "My health is excellent. My vigor, eyesight and hearing have not diminished in the least during recent years."

In his second successful run for the Senate in 1964, Young was pitted against astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., in the Democratic primary. But Glenn was forced to withdraw from the primary because of an ear injury he suffered in a fall.

In defeating Taft—the son of a senator and the grandson of a president—Young went to bed election night thinking he had lost and left town the next morning without checking the returns. He learned of his election while driving to Washington.

Young entered politics in 1912—the year he came out of law school—by winning a seat in the Ohio General Asssembly. He was elected to the House in 1932, 1934, 1940 and 1948.

Battles In Lebanon; Yemen Ousts U.S.

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The always volcanic Middle East continued on the verge of eruption today, with bloodletting in Lebanon. Yemen severing diplomatic ties with the U.S. and Israel and the Soviet Union sounding grave warnings from the sidelines.

Lebanese troops fougr running battles with armed civilians and Arab guerrillas in the northern port of Tripoli today following a clash between demonstrators and security forces in which at least seven people were killed.

In Beirut, Palestinians sealed off the teeming Sabra quarter with sandbag barricades. A police post in guerrilla-populated area was evacuated.

Al Fatah guerrillas were seen openly handing out Russian-made machine guns to their supporters, many of whom have received some military training. Other Palestinians prepared a store of gasoline bombs.

Defying an indefinite curfew clamped on Lebanon's major cities following bloody clashes yesterday between the army Palestinian guerrillas, demonstrators in Tripoli were reported to have battled with troops and police in two areas of town.

South Yemen broke diplomatic relations with the United States today, barred entry by U.S. nationals and served a 24-hour order in Aden to Charge d'Affaires Charles Eagleton and some 37 embassy personnel to leave the country.

The decisions were announced by the South Yemen chairman of the presidential council, 35-year-old Salem Ali Rabyee, in a speech to a massive rally following a demonstration stagtd by the ruling National Liberation Front to support Palestinian guerrillas against recent attacks by the Lebanese army.

Rabyee claimed that campaigns against Palestinians were planned in Washington and aimed at liquidating the resistance movement.

Israeli Deputy Premier Yigal Allon said in Tel Aviv that Israel will not stand idly by if the Lebanese government is overthrown by foreign forces.

Allon did not elaborate, but the Hebrew daily Yed Ot Ahar not said overthrow of the Lebanese government would end existing cease-fire agreements and would force Israel to take "all necessary actions" to ensure its northern frontier.

In Moscow the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda sounded a note for an easing of tensions in Lebanon. It charged that intrigues by what it called Western and Israeli agents in Lebanon had heightened tension between the Lebanese government and the Palestinian guerrillas. But at the same time it voiced approval of moves in Lebanon to avoid steps that might be used as an excuse for "provocations of imperialism" such as U.S. Marines' entry into Lebanon in 1958.

Doubts Arise To Zodiac Voice; Dick Tracy Clue Hunt Dropped

COMBINED AP & UPI

SAN FRANCISCO—That voice on a television talk show may not have been that of Zodiac, the man who boasts of five killings in the San Francisco Bay Area.

Tapes of the Wednesday broadcast were played yesterday to three persons who have heard the man who calls himself Zodiac and they don't think the voice on television matched the one they had heard earlier.

One listener was Bryan Hartnell, 20, a student who was stabbed by the hooded Zodiac Sept. 27 at the time Cecilia Ann Shepard, 22, was killed at Lake Berryessa.

Hartnell told Napa County detectives he did not think it was the same voice. Zodiac had talked with him and Miss Shepard for 30 minutes before stabbing them.

Others who didn't think it was the same voice are Napa policeman David Slaight and Vallejo police clerk Nancy Slover. Zodiac telephoned both to boast of his slayings.

The tapes also were heard by an unnamed Oakland policeman who took a call demanding a chance to talk on a KOG-TV television talk show with attorney Melvin Belli. The officer said the voice on television did not seem to be the one that had made the demand.

Belli said yesterday that Zodiac made repeated attempts to set up a secret meeting with him after their dramatic conversation.

"He called my home twice and told my housekeeper he wanted to meet me there Wednesday night. Later he called my answering service and said he knows where we can meet if it's prearranged. But he hasn't called back. There's no question it's the same man."

The killer has been sending notes and cryptograms to newspapers and police departments bragging of his killings. Most nost notes start "This is Zodiac speaking."

Police believe the same man committed all five crimes because the notes contain information not made public, because all the notes are in the identical handwriting and because a piece of bloody shirt torn from the body of one victim was enclosed in one letter.

Meanwhile today, state crime sleuths folded up their comic pages and gave up hope of finding clues to the Zodiac killer in the Dick Tracy cartoon series.

Agents of the state Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation in Sacramento began checking two months worth of Tracy comics on the theory that they might find some link between the Scorpio, leader of the Zodiac Gang, being hunted down by Tracy.

"We gave the whole thing up," Earl Bauer, senior analyst in the crime laboratory, said today. "We didn't find anything that tied it up at all. We gave it up.

U.N. Marks 24th Date Of Founding

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United Nations marked its 24th birthday today with a show of U.S.-Soviet accord and a warning from Secretary-General U Thant that peace is still an remote goal.

In a U.N. Day message, Thant told delegates of the 126 member nations that "we have not done nearly enough to reach the goals solemnly proclaimed" in San Francisco in 1945.

"The scourge of war is still with us," he said. "The armaments race continues under its own mad momentum. Human rights are being flagrantly violated in southern Africa and in many other parts of the world."

General Assembly President Angie Brooks of Liberia also decried the existence of war, poverty and oppression but noted that "the last 24 years have been survived without a major holocaust."

This U.N. Day was a curtain raiser for the 25th anniversary which next year will be climaxed by the most elaborate ceremonies in the history of the United Nations.

The United States and the Soviet Union joined in supporting a proposal for a world summit meeting at U.N. headquarters to commemorate the quarter-century milestone.

Both super powers told the as-

Span Bond Maneuver To Preserve Reserves

Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors made preparations today to have their cake and eat it, too.

By 6-0 vote, the district board's finance and auditing committee called for plans to create a nonprofit corporation to finance a commuter transit system, thus leaving intact the district reserves.

The vote came after north-of-the-bridge directors beat back a concerted effort by directors from San Francisco to order the corporation created immediately. Such a motion by Stephan C. Leonoudakis was tabled by 3-3 vote.

The winning motion — calling for preparation of plans to be presented at next Friday's meeting of the full board — was labeled typical of the "do nothing" character of the board of Director William C. Blake of San Francisco.

The nonprofit corporation, as described to the committee by attorney Jack K. Dooling, would float revenue bonds to buy equipment to create the short-term transit system.

The committee also authorized Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Leuhring to spend up to $100,000 to hire transit personnel.

Miner's Body Found

FARMINGTON, W. VA. (AP) — The charred body of another coal miner, the second found in 24 hours, was discovered early today deep inside fire-ravaged Consolidation Coal Co. No. 9 where 78 miners were killed last November.

The miner was identified by specially trained State Police identification teams as Charles Hardman, 43, of Shinnston, the second motorman on a 35-car coal train spotted under water and rock yesterday.

He and the others were killed when fires and explosions swept through the sprawling 88-mile-long mine on Nov. 29, 1968.

Hardman's body was found about 900 feet west of the body of Lester Willard, 49, Farmington, which rescue teams spotted deep in water at the other end of the train yesterday.

Agnew Silent About Daughter's Non March

PALM SPRINGS (AP)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, vacationing at this Southern California desert spa, is declining to comment on a report he stopped his daughter from participating in the antiwar Moratorium Day demonstrations last week.

Agnew and his wife arrived last night and secluded themselves. The Secret Service said the vice president would have no comment on the report.

In a copyright interview with the vice president, columnist Nick Thimmesch of Newsday, of Garden City, N.Y., quoted Agnew as saying: "My 14-year-old daughter Kim wanted to show her support for the moratorium by marching and wearing a black arm band. I wouldn't let her.

KIM AGNEW
Barred from M-Day

"She was unhappy for about a day but she got over it. Parental-type power must be exercised. Some parents have just forgotten how," the newspaper columnist quoted the vice president as saying.

"People in the establishment don't want to say 'no' to young people even if they are wrong," the interview went on. "Some self-serving politicians see our huge youth population as a volatile political commodity available for plucking.

He commented in a visit to La Jolla yesterday about a Sunday night speech in New Orleans where he discussed Moratorium Day participants, saying: "A spirit of national masochism prevails, encouraged by an effete corps of impudent snobs who characterized themselves as intellectuals."

Yesterday he said he "was not talking about the young people" when he spoke of "impudent snobs" but "was referring to people who are in the leadership of some of the movements today."

There are "dissidents who have been in trouble in this country since I can remember —the wrong kind of leadership for the wrong purpose," he said.

"I think nearly every responsible person in the country realizes that President Nixon cannot just simply withdraw from Vietnam, give up and leave the sacrifice of 40,000 American lives there to no purpose."

Senate Defies Nixon On GI Bill Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate approved a 46 per cent hike in veterans' educational benefits yesterday—an increase President Richard M. Nixon has called "excessive" and "inflationary."

The bill won a 77-0 victory and was sent to conferees who will attempt to reach a compromise between the Senate version and the 27 per cent hike in benefits approved earlier by the House.

In the meantime speculation is mounting that the President will exercise his veto power for the first time since taking office if the 46 per cent figure isn't lowered. He has said he favors a 15 per cent hike.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., said if conferees don't cut benefits below those in the Senate bill "the President will have no choice but to veto it and I think that veto would be sustained."

Earlier in the week Nixon argued against the House bill in a letter to Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., saying the effect would be "inflationary."

The Senate bill would be retroactive to Sept. 1 and would raise the monthly payment for a single veteran attending college fulltime from $130 to $190. The House version would raise benefits to $165.

Under the Senate version benefits for a veteran with two dependents would go from $175 to $240.

U.S. Viet Aircraft Losses Reach $6 Billion; GI Prisoner Freed

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced today that American aircraft losses in Vietnam have reached 6,000, representing an estimated $6 billion.

Aircraft losses listed 3,114 helicopters of half a dozen types and 2,886 fixed-wing aircraft including fighter-bombers and transports lost in North and South Vietnam since Jan. 1,1961.

Military spokesmen said there are now about 3,500 U.S. helicopters and more than 1,000 fixed-wing planes operating from bases in South Vietnam.

The U.S. Command also announced that the American soldier who returned Monday after being a captive of North Vietnamese troops for four and one-half months was freed by his captors. A spokesman said Pfc. Jesse B. Harris Jr., 20, of Port Chester, N.Y., told officers at the Long Binh hospital he was released and did not escape.

The spokesman said he had no information on why the enemy freed Harris.

The lull in the Vietnam war completed its seventh week today, but the U.S. Command reported slightly increased enemy activity along the Cambodian and Laotian borders.

Senate Panel Votes Lower Oil Depletion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee, after a surprise vote to cut the oil depletion allowance to 23 per cent, moved on today to proposals for a minimum tax on the wealthy.

Committee members agreed on a new depletion allowance figure yesterday after narrowly rejecting efforts to retain the current 27.5 per cent exemption but refused to go as far as the House tax reform bill which would slash it to 20 per cent.

The committee action would raise taxes on the oil industry by an estimated $155 million. The House figure would bring in more than $500 million.

Up for consideration before the Senate committee during today were provisions to make certain that all wealthy people pay at least some federal income tax.

Sens. John J. Williams, R-Del., and Vance Hartke, D-Ind., said they would try to see that oil income excluded under the minimum tax provisions in the House bill will be included in the Senate version.

They referred particularly to intangible drilling costs, the expenses of drilling oil and gas wells, which producers now are permitted to write off on their taxes entirely in the year incurred.

The Senate committee's decision to cut the oil and gas depletion allowance reversed an old policy and came as a shock to members from oil states. A move to retain the current 27½ per cent allowance lost on an 8-8 tie before the 23 per cent was approved.

Although the reduction was not as great as that voted by the House, it was hailed as a big victory by tax reform advocates.

But Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who long has advocated a reduction to as low as 15 per cent, said the fight to achieve the lower figure undoubtedly would be renewed on the Senate floor.

Board Will Eye One-Campus Plan

The problem of combining the Stinson Beach-Bolinas School District into a one-campus operation will be discussed at an 8 p.m. meeting Tuesday of the district's trustees at Bolinas School.

Supt. Clarence B. Larison said the board will discuss a five-point plan which would provide a single campus — closing the Stinson School — at a "fraction of the cost of a new plant."

This would include rehabilitation of the old Bolinas School for classroom use, the transfer of the portables now at Stinson Beach to Bolinas for office space or a teacher workroom, the rearrangement of the Bolinas campus, acquisition of more land at Bolinas and landscaping.

DRUGS

one week out of every five.

Donald Rice, 25, of San Francisco, accompanied by a plainclothes policeman as a safety precaution, testified yesterday about trips to Mexico where he obtained U.S.-made benzedrine for his network of 14 leaders in the Bay Area.

Rice, who has golden, shoulder-length hair, told the congressmen at the first day of a four-day hearing that he took $3,000 to a small Tijuana, Mexico, drug store and purchased 300,000 benzedrine tablets.

A runner hired for $1,000 brought them across the border —75,000 at a time in a specially fitted gas tank which held only three gallons of fuel, he said. Then the load was taken to the Bay Area and sold for $12,000.

"We figured $1,450 in expenses including the runner, plane trips and auto expense. That left almost $9,000," he said. "But we didn't reinvest. We took a week to make the pickup and delivery, then vacationed four or five weeks."

Rice said he had been charged 14 times with drug violations but never convicted.

He told the committee, headed by Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla,, that he bought as many as 40,000 mild stimulant tablets from an employee of the Sharpe Army Depot at Tracy. He said the man later was discharged, arrested and then released. Rice also told of how drugs frequently were sent east because of better prices.

"We used 18-to21-year-old girls wanting to get back east as runners," he said. "We'd provide them their plane ticket and expenses and when they arrived they would deliver the baggage check and never touch the contraband."

In answer to a question, Rice said the best way to combat the dangerous drug problem would be to prevent the pills—manufactured in the United States—from being sent to Mexico.

Three other witnesses were Richard Bennetto of San Francisco and James King of Sacramento, who both admitted involvement in illegal drug activity, and James Allen Timmons, who invoked the Fifth Amendment and refused to testify on grounds of self-incrimination.

Bennetto, 30, told of setting up a laboratory to make methamphetamine speed — after learning about the process from a fellow prisoner while in jail on a charge of receiving stolen property.

He created two nonexistent firms with letterheads to obtain equipment and needed chemicals, he said.

"It cost me about $200 to open shop and produce 16 to 24 ounces of methadrine liquid. That goes for $100 an ounce and would bring $1,600 to $2,400. One run would take about 12 hours and my monthly overhead, employees and rent, ran to about $18,000. Net profit could run to $30,000 a month."

Czech Olympic Gold Medalist Given Boot

PRAGUE (AP) — Emile Zatopek, the former Olympic gold medal runner, has been expelled from the Czechoslovak Communist Party and hardliners today seemed to be preparing the ground for putting him on trial for treason.

Expulsion from the party had been widely expected following frequent attacks on the 47-year-old ex-colonel of the Czechoslovak army who had given vociferous support to last year's liberalization movement under Alexander Dubcek.

Have Nixon, Thieu Made Troop Pact?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Asian diplomatic sources say there are strong indications a private understanding has been reached between President Richard M. Nixon and South Vietnam President Nguyen Van Thieu on a timetable for withdrawing American troops from Vietnam.

These sources say Thieu has given assurances his troops will do their best to replace the bulk of the 500,000-man American force by the end of 1970—with two major sets of circumstances influencing the pace of the program to switching the battle burden to the South Vietnamese.

According to this schedule:

If the enemy maintains the present combat lull and if the Vietnamese forces get quicker training, it may be possible for the United States to withdraw men at the rate of 20,000 a month.

—If the enemy steps up attacks or if there is a slowdown in the training of Vietnamese forces, the withdrawal pace would be slowed.

Given the continued lull and the swift training of South Vietnamese fighting men, Nixon could pull out a total 300,000 Americans by the end of 1970—including the 60,000 already ordered home.

The Asian sources say it would be difficult for South Vietnam to stick to the schedule—but the South Vietnamese are determined to do their best to meet the target.

The sources report the problem is not of figures but one of good will to go along with the replacement policy. Assurances have been given here to the Nixon administration of the good will of the Vietnamese government in the present program.

It is believed North Vietnam is waiting until perhaps the end of November to assess the strength of the antiwar movement in the United States.

Three Bicycles Reported Stolen

Three bicycles were stolen from two San Rafael high schools this week, police reported yesterday.

A three-speed black bicycle valued at $25, owned by Donna M. Peterson of 28 Octavia Street was stolen from the Third Street side of San Rafael High School Friday between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Kate P. Castle of 140 San Marin Drive reported her $25 bicycle missing from the San Rafael High parking area Tuesday between 2 and 4 p.m. Frederick S. Turkheimer of 271 Cobblestone Drive reported his 10-speed, $40 bicycle, taken from the Terra Linda High School parking lot Tuesday between 3 and 5 p.m. advantage of lax supervision and accounting and a tradition that GIs themselves should run their own clubs to conspire to "profit from the pockets of their fellow soldiers."

"They also realized they had a good thing going," Ribicoff said, citing the formation by the sergeants of a corporation through which they sold goods to clubs which they themselves ran.

"The implication is very strong you have been a discredit to the uniform you wear," Wooldridge was told by Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill. "Don't you realize what this investigation has done to the morale of the armed services? Isn't there anything you wish to say in your own defense?"

David L. Thomas, attorney for Wooldridge and two other witnesses, explained that one cannot invoke the Fifth Amendment selectively. Once the decision has been made to rely on the constitutional protection, a witness can answer no questions, even harmless ones, he said.

Alongside Wooldridge at the witness table were M/Sgt. William E. Higdon, and two retired sergeants, Narvaez Hatcher and Seymour Lazar. All refused to answer questions.

At the end of yesterday's long morning session—it was the hearing's 11th day—Ribicoff adjourned the subcommittee until further notice.

Committee investigators are preparing to open the second phase of the probe as soon as time can be found on the cluttered Senate calendar. Staff aides said those hearings will involve a new cast of characters and testimony of lucrative, widespread black market deals by military and civilian personnel in South Vietnam and elsewhere.

Suspect Jailed On Check Count

A San Rafael man, said by police to have a record of 28 arrests was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of possessing three forged checks, totaling $323, which he allegedly passed at two San Rafael taverns earlier this month.

Robert Wayne Kitzmiller, 33, was arrested at his residence at 1501 Fifth Avenue and held in lieu of $6,250 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

San Rafael Police Inspector Gerald Souza said Kilzmiller passed the checks, allegedly stolen from a Lafayette pipe organ installer, at George's and the 881 Club.

Town's Sign Law Debated, Not Changed

The Corte Madera Planning Commission last night hashed over again the town's sign ordinance but postponed any decisions until the Nov. 10 meeting, Elizabeth Long, secretary said.

Included in the discussion was the town's ban on searchlights, banners and flags for grand openings, such as the arrival of new cars at auto agencies.

Mrs. Long said that the commissioners considered the possibility of allowing some kind of extra advertising for such events.

The commissioners also discussed reducing the height of freestanding signs from the 39 feet allowed now under a variance to 30 feet, she said.

The commission had earlier decided to allow higher and bigger signs for freeway-oriented businesses, and last night the commissioners indicated they want the area to be definitely designated on a map where such signs will be allowed.

Jordan might mediate between the guerrilla leaders and the Lebanese authorities. The guerrillas refuse to meet with the Lebanese unless Beirut announces in advance it will let them operate unhindered against Israel.

The guerrilla organization Al Fatah returned the 24 Lebanese frontier guards it kidnaped early yesterday in a demonstration of its strength, and the Lebanese government handed over the body of a slain guerrilla in exchange. The raiders had come from Syria.

Hickel Wants Delay On Alcatraz Future

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel has requested that the disposition of Alcatraz be postponed till Dec. 1, it was reported today by the office of Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District.

Hickel reportedly requested the deferment in order to review the situation, in which San Francisco citizens and officials find themselves embroiled in controversy as to plans for the island's development.

sembly yesterday that they supported a resolution inviting heads of state to a special commemorative session and convening a world youth assembly here.

U.S. Ambassador Charles W. Yost said the 25th anniversary should be a time for candid assessment of how far the world organization has fallen short of its proclaimed goals.

"In setting our goals," he continued, "we must of course be realistic. Yet I believe there is greater danger from the kind of realism that makes for excessive caution and timidity than in a bold approach which offers the only hope of meeting the challenges that face us."

Soviet delegate V. L. Issraelyan said the 25th anniversary would be significant because it marks the emergence of a community of Socialist states and the eclipse of colonialism. He added that the United Nations had been successful in warding off a third world war which could have been disastrous.

Special events today included the ringing of the Japanese peace bell, cast from coins given by children all over the world, and the annual U.N. Day concert, with London's Royal Philharmonic and pianist Rudolf Serkin performing.

SPEAKER

suit this month, "Speaker McCormack responded immediately by suspending Sweig and disclaiming any knowledge of or connection with misdeeds which Sweig or Voloshen might have been involved.

"The fact is that Speaker McCormack knew at least as far back as midsummer that not only Life but two federal grand juries were looking into Voloshen's affairs, and that since then he has held a series of urgent conferences with Sweig and Voloshen. For the evidence is that McCormack was more than naively involved in whatever took place in his office."

PHONE CALL?

"In one instance," Life said, "the speaker himself phoned the New York commissioner of parole on behalf of a convicted corporate larcenist who had paid Voloshen at least $75,000, first to try to keep him out of jail, then to shorten his sentence."

Life said the call was made to Russell G. Oswald, chairman of the New York State Board of Parole, on behalf of Edward M. Gilbert, who pleaded guilty to a $2 million securities theft.

Berkeley War Game Is Planned

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — A new underground organization calling itself the Strategic Anarchy Command (SAC) has announced plans for war game manuevers Halloween night.

The war game, expected to draw from several hundred to a few thousand participants, will be based loosely on the popular camp and Boy Scout game, Capture the Flag, and will carry the theme "Free the Chicago Eight and Jail the Judge."

"A "guerilla theater" group, possible the San Francisco Mime Troupe, is expected to stage a satire of the trial of eight defendants charged with conspiracy in last year's Chicago demonstrations.

"Any engagement with actual members of local paramilitary organizations will be discouraged, however," a SAC communique said, urging noninvolvment with Berkeley police patrols that night.

According to the announcement, there will be two teams assembling in Berkeley that evening: The People's Army, with black armbands, will meet at 7 p.m. at Willard Park, to be renamed by the group as Ho Chi Minh Memorial Park;" and "police force," in homemade costumes or red armbands will mobilize on campus an hour earlier.

Membership on either side will be open to the public, according to SAC.

Alioto Demands Book Tossed At Pie Tossers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—If the young Sausalito filmmakers and their friends wanted to anger the establishment by throwing pies at first-nighters at the San Francisco Film Festival, they succeeded in their goal.

The mayor could get his wish, since felony charges of conspiring to commit a misdemeanor, which could result in state prison sentences, have been brought against the pie-throwers by the district attorney's office. The 13 also are charged with disturbing the peace.

The seven Marinites arrested in the melee are all out on bail ranging from $1,250 to $3,100. They are: Robert S. Schiff, 25, Neal Warner, 22, Thomas Howell, 23, Suzette Hershman, 23, Jacqueline McKee, 32, and Ronald Breaux, 29, all of Sausalito, and Charles Huff, 19, of Mill Valley.

Alioto also demanded a full police investigation, early trial of the culprits, and a possible civil suit for damages to the city.

Meanwhile, the film group Grand Central Station defended its action.

Spokesman Peter Adair said that the group had planned to throw pies only at one another, but conceded that things got a bit out of hand and that a few policemen and formally dressed festival goers got splattered.

They said that there were two goals in their activities — first, to protest the procedures of the festival and secondly, to make a 15-minute film of their own.

Novato Service Alliance Elects

Officers and board members of the newly organized Novato Service Alliance were elected last night, according to chairman Jack Whitcomb.

The alliance was proposed and set up by the Novato Junior Chamber of Commerce which now becomes one of 30 member organizations, Whitcomb said.

Purpose of the alliance is to coordinate activities and prevent duplication of volunteer work. The next meeting will be sometime in January, he said.

Tasty MSG Is Linked To Brain Damage

That's the formula for monosodium glutamate, MSG, a food additive prevalent in baby food and Chinese food. One researcher reported Thursday it causes brain lesions in test animals.

Sometimes called sodium glutamate, MSG is a white, or nearly white powder which is very soluble in water and possesses a meatlike taste. It is widely used to enhance natural food flavor and impart meat flavor to foods.

Just five days after the sugar substitute cyclamate was ordered off shelves by Jan. 1 by the federal government, Dr. John Olney of St. Louis reported the same dosage of MSG used in baby food produced brain damage in a test mouse.

The Washington University researcher, who is studying under a National Institute of Mental Health grant, revealed his findings on NBC's Huntley-Brinkley report.

Dr. Olney said baby food companies would be using "bad judgment" if they continued putting MSG in their products without further research.

"I've treated a number of species of experimental animals in the period of infancy and I've found that every species I have studied is susceptible to brain damage for monosodium glutamate," Olney said.

In Washington Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., has said MSG should be taken off the market until more is known about it, including the "Chinese syndrome."

According to Washington studies people who eat too much Chinese style food where MSK is used liberally as an additive, have been known to develop a sense of pressure in the head, warmth and possible chest pain, and a headache.

Surprise Catch

DURBAN, South Africa (AP) — Angler Cecil Podmore caught a crocodile when he cast his line into the surf from a local beach. The baby croc, about three months old, was apparently washed into the sea by the nearby Umgeni River.

NOV. 4 ELECTION

Four Vie For Marin Water District Posts

GEORGE A. AMAROLI
Second attempt

FRANK V. BACCAGLIO
20-year member

ALAN L. HOPKINS
Teacher

WILLIAM M. JONAS
Ex-chamber president

(Fourth in a series of eight)

Voters in the sprawling North Marin County Water District will go to the polls Nov. 4 to decide a four-man race for the board of directors.

Incumbents William M. Jonas, who has served on the board nine years, and Frank Baccaglio, a 20-year member, are being challenged by George A. Amaroli, making his second bid for a board seat, and Alan L. Hopkins, a 30-year-old teacher at San Rafael High School.

The district, which in recent years has absorbed areas of West Marin and Southern Sonoma to meet growing demands for better water service, now has 9,000 customers.

In 1964, it agreed to conduct a study of bringing additional Russian River water to Marin with the Marin Municipal Water District and the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors. Sonoma County recently approved start of construction of the Warm Springs Dam, a part of the project.

In April, climaxing an active campaign, a proposal by the water district to absorb the Novato Sanitary District was rejected by voters. Proponents of the merger had argued that the water district could easily assume the sanitary district's functions, thus eliminating a taxing agency, but City of Novato officials said they hoped the city could someday absorb the sanitary district.

Also in April, the water district board went on record in favor of the plan at that time for the Dos Rios Dam, opposed by conservationists. Jonas was the lone dissenter in the vote.

In alphabetical order, the candidates are:

GEORGE A. AMAROLI, 36, a utilities engineer for the California Public Utilities Commission. He urged the year-long study which led to the April merger election.

He was born in Santa Rosa and attended Geyserville schools, Santa Rosa Junior College and the University of California at Berkeley, where he majored in electrical engineering.

He and his wife, Marilan, have two children, Thomas, 11, and Elizabeth, 7. The family lives at 11 Rebecca Way, Novato.

FRANK V. BACCAGLIO, 63, of 1526 South Novato Boulevard. He said no further action to absorb the sanitary district would be appropriate as a result of the merger defeat in April.

Born in Novato, Baccaglio graduated from San Rafael High School and the University of California at Davis. He is a rancher.

He and his wife, Josephine, have three daughters, Mrs. George Nunes of Santa Rosa, Mrs. John Andersen of Davis and Marian Baccaglio of Novato, and a son, Martin H. Baccaglio, who plays professional football with the Cincinnati Bengals.

He belongs to the Novato Grove of Druids.

ALAN L. HOPKINS, 30, who teaches social studies and business at San Rafael High School. He said district operation should not be expanded through bonding because of the uncertainty of the market, but rather through a tax rate increase or a hike in water rates.

Hopkins was born in San Francisco and graduated from San Rafael High School, College of Marin and San Francisco State College. He belongs to the San Rafael Teachers Association and the California Teachers Association.

He lives at 994 Simmons Lane, Novato, with his wife, Karen.

WILLIAM M. JONAS, 54, owns Roger Wilco Markets. He said that "citizens of North Marin want a dependable water system, not a growing bureaucracy."

Jonas is a native of Oakland and graduated from the University of California at Berkeley. An Army veteran of World War II, he served in England, North Africa and Italy and was discharged with the rank of major.

He is past president of the Novato Chamber of Commerce and a member of the Rotary Club and Novato Grove of Druids.

Jonas and his wife, Adele, have two daughters, Mrs. Barbara Clement of Lafayette and Beverly Jonas.

Dancing classes and puppetry will also be offered next month at the Sausalito Art Center for southern Marin residents.

Two Autos Looted In City Parking Lot

A thief entered two autos in a municipal parking lot at Third Street and Lootens Place, San Rafael, yesterday, taking a stereophonic system and tapes worth $145 from one and a raincoat valued at $100 from the other.

The stereo equipment was in a car belonging to Terrance M. Merlo of 41 Coleman Drive, San Rafael, while the raincoat was missing from an auto owned by Joseph Brenner of 19 Circle Drive, Tiburon.

Light, Rolling Quake Shakes Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A light, rolling earthquake briefly shook the Los Angeles area at 1:30 a.m. today. No damage was reported.

A San Pedro resident said, "It felt like four very soft little bumps."

Dr. James M. Brune, director of the seismology laboratory at the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena, said that his home instruments showed the tremor could have been "a fairly strong one."

Brune said the quake had a Richter scale magnitude of 5.25 and was not strong enough to do serious damage. He said it was centered in the Pacific Ocean about 90 miles west of Los Angeles.

"I've been in the Hollywood area for 15 years," said one telephone caller, "and this is the first time I've ever seen my floor lamp and television set move—actually move like by gremlins."

The quake was felt as far as Ventura, 60 miles northwest of Los Angeles.

'Permissiveness' Hit In Hair Uproar Probe

"Permissiveness" at Redwood High School emerged last night as a major culprit in the Tamalpais High School District hair controversy during a meeting called to determine the underlying causes of the blowup.

However, few of the 300 persons attending the hearing by the 25-member district discipline study committee, were able to pinpoint exactly what that "permissiveness" included.

One speaker said Supt. Robert D. Torrey's suspension of grooming rules laid down by coaches and athletic departments was "the straw that broke the camel's back," according to Administrative Asst. Edward J. Neumeier.

She said Redwood's elimination of such things as tardy bells and dress rules were examples of the permissiveness and wondered where it would all lead, Neumeier said.

Another speaker commented on "the things that go on in the back parking lot," but did not elaborate.

Neumeier said that despite the rules set up for the meeting, limiting it to the investigation of the underlying problems, many members of the audience still wanted to talk about hair.

He said the audience seemed evenly divided on the subject, contrasting with an Oct. 6 meeting of the district board when a large majority of 700 persons attending were against Torrey's ruling.

Last night, persons who wished to speak had been asked to reserve time and 22 had signed up before the meeting. They were limited to three minutes each and then members of the discipline committee questioned them.

The committee passed out cards and asked members of the audience to write their chief concern about the hair controversy.

Neumeier said about 100 cards were returned and they and the oral presentation last night will be considered at 4 p.m. Tuesday at the Redwood faculty lounge to draw up a report to be presented to the district board Nov. 3.

Augur Accident Hurts Workman

Workmen said Ronald Orr of Santa Rosa, an employee of Petty and Mapes Electrical Contractors of Santa Rosa, was injured about 10 a.m. when his trousers were caught in an auger drill.

Cotati Interviews For An Engineer

A decision is expected at the next regular meeting of the council at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 6 at the Cotati Fire Station.

Two Men Leap To Death Same Day From Gate Bridge

While camera crews from two television stations worked at each end of the Golden Gate Bridge yesterday filming documentaries on bridge suicides, two men leaped to their death from midspan on the bridge and a third was restrained.

The two deaths and the attempt occurred within a three-and-a-half-hour period, the fourth time in the history of the bridge that two suicides were recorded on the same day, according to bridge Capt. Edwin Moore.

Dead were Karl E. Bybee, 48, of Sacramento and George Lawton Hagemann, 68, of San Francisco, both of whom jumped from the same spot on the east sidewalk, midspan, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Bybee was reported to have climbed over the bridge railing at 11:40 a.m. and Hagemann at 1:58 p.m. Both bodies were recovered by the Coast Guard.

At 3:10 p.m. Harold Edwin Hanson, San Jose, was removed from the east sidewalk, again at midspan, after bridge Lt. Roderick O'Malley noticed he had been pacing and peering over the rail for nearly an hour.

Hanson was committed to San Francisco General Hospital for 72 hours observation.

Highway patrol officers said Hanson was removed from the bridge last month as a potential suicide and was released last week from a San Jose hospital following treatment.

According to Moore, double suicide days were recorded in July 1964 and in July and October 1967.

Despite yesterday's day of death, bridge authorities credited its innovative roving patrol with having reduced bridge suicides from an average of 16 a year for the past five years to five in the first six months of this year.

The death of another man, Dennis Donahue of San Francisco, whose body was found at 2:15 a.m. at the base of the 400 foot cliff near Lands End, San Francisco, was not considered a bridge suicide, Moore said.

Ex-Convict Is Held As Suspect In Burglary

A 40-year-old ex-convict was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of burglarizing a San Rafael business last May.

Robert John Fleeks of 109½ Shaver Street, San Rafael, who, police said, has a record of 29 arrests for various offenses, was held in lieu of $3,125 bail to appear today in Municipal Court.

Fleeks was arrested Wednesday night in a San Rafael tavern by officers who recognized him. He was originally booked into jail that evening, but released over an evidence question. He was rearrested yesterday.

Police said Fleeks had stored about $1,700 in cash and loot taken from the Tone-Tex Specialties Co. at 65 Jacoby Street last May 19 in his residence. The stolen items also included business supplies and checks.

Goldwater Hits Scott On Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater has acidly criticized the Vietnam cease-fire proposal of Sen. Hugh Scott, adding the Republican leader does not necessarily speak for his GOP colleagues.

It was the first flicker of conservative Republican restiveness since Scott, a self-described progressive, became GOP leader last month.

Goldwater noted Scott had said he was not in the habit of clearing his ideas in advance with the White House.

"I think it would be helpful if he would also state that he is not in the habit of clearing such statements with all members of his own political party in the Senate," Goldwater said.

In advancing the plan for a unilateral U.S. cease-fire, to remain effective unless the Communists violate it, Scott said he was offering a personal hope.

The Pentagon promptly rejected the idea, and so did Goldwater.

"I for one wish to make it very plain that while I recognize the senator from Pennsylvania has been duly selected minority leader of my party, I do not accept his personal recommendations on any and all subjects," Goldwater told the Senate.

Goldwater said unilateral action will merely convince the Communists we are afraid of them.

Scott, in Sharon, Pa., renewed the cease-fire call last night.

"I hope that a cease-fire will be announced just as soon as it can be safely arranged," he said.

That speech was the latest in a series of almost nightly appearances at Republican fund raising dinners in Pennsylvania where Scott will seek re-election next year.

Scott won reelection in 1964 despite the crushing defeat of Goldwater, who was the Republican presidential nominee. He has a record of attracting Democratic and independent voters.

"In that regard, the minority leader's job is a mixed blessing," said another Pennsylvania GOP politician. "He's trying to accommodate the President, he's trying to accommodate his colleagues in the Senate, and he has to consider his constituency."

A crucial test in all three departments could be the confirmation vote on Clement F. Haynsworth Jr., President Richard M. Nixon's choice for the Supreme Court.

Mrs. Nixon Has A New Staff 'Chief'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The First Lady has a new $30,000 a year press secretary-staff director and as a result the Richard M. Nixons have the first husband-wife team in their official family.

While Constance Cornell Stuart, 31, is guiding Mrs. Nixon's public relations in the East Wing of the White House, her husband Charles, 32, is at work in the West Wing as a staff assistant to presidential counsel, John Ehrlichmann.

Mrs. Nixon announced yesterday that Mrs. Stuart, an attractive redhead, would be her new "chief of staff."

She replaces Gerry Van der Heuvel who after 11 months as Mrs. Nixon's press aide is taking a job as special assistant to U.S. Ambassador Graham Martin at Rome.

CONSTANCE STUART
White House addition

Mrs. Stuart, a native of Wheeling, W. Va., came to the White House from a job as public relations supervisor for the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. where she specialized in TV film projects. The 1960 University of Maryland graduate also has been a New York public relations account executive.

Saying she has always voted Republican, Mrs. Stuart said she first met Mrs. Nixon last year during the presidential election campaign when her husband was working as a Nixon advance man.

Stuart, who has a degree in economics from New York University, was an advance man on Mrs. Nixon's trip to Oregon and California last June and on her round-the-world journey with the President.

Although the announcement wasn't made until yesterday, Mrs. Stuart already has two weeks on the job.

Soviet Spy Team Freed In Britain

LONDON (AP) — Morris and Lola Cohen, the American-born Communist spies who radioed NATO naval secrets to the Russians, were released from prison today and took a British jetliner to Poland.

Champagne and smoked salmon were on the menu for their first meal in freedom.

The couple, who was once members of the Rosenberg spy ring in the United States, had served eight years of a 20-year sentence. They were freed in exchange for three Britons: Gerald Brooke, a teacher who spent four years in a Soviet labor camp for delivering anti-Communist propaganda to Moscow, and two others who tried to smuggle drugs from Afghanistan through the Soviet Union.

Cohen, born in New York, is 59, while his wife, a native of Massachusetts, is 56 and ailing. They claim they claim they are Polish citizens, but American officials say they never formally renounced their U.S. citizenship.

Separate police trucks took Cohen from Brixton jail and his wife from Holloway Women's Prison to Heathrow Airport. They claim they are Polish citizens, but American officials say they never formally renounced their U.S. citizenship.

The couple walked slowly up the steps to the plane, smiling and waving. Eight minutes after taking her first-class seat, Mrs. Cohen came to the door to wave to photographers, and her husband joined her.

At the Cohens' request, newsmen were not allowed to interview them. But as she entered the plane, she said: "It feels fine to be free."

The Cohens worked for Konon Molodny, a Russian who posed as Gordon Lonsdale of Canada. He set up a spy ring at Britain's Portland Naval Base and two British employees there, Henry Houghton and Ethel Gee, fed him the information which the Cohens transmitted to Moscow.

Quentin Sells Off Its Textile Mill

Usable machinery in the cotton textile mill at San Quentin has been sold to an East Coast equipment dealer for $44,000, Associate Warden James W. L. Park reported today.

Other equipment from the mill will be sold for scrap, he said, with all expected to be gone by the end of the year.

The mill was phased out because it had become economically unfeasible, Park said. Changes in the industry such as new high speed equipment and the use of synthetics contributed to the decision to end the operation.

In its place, Park said, officials are investigating installing a large modern laundry to serve San Quentin and nearby state institutions. The prison currently has a smaller laundry for its own needs.

HOOVER WOULD BE PROUD

"A chicken in every pot!" "Two cars in every garage!" But a helicopter on the roof? Well, that's how it is on the garage of the Buckeye Restaurant on Shoreline Highway. Robert E. Hallbeck said he perches the $30,000 machine at the restaurant in Manzanita, because the craft has been vandalized at heliport where it used to stay. It's a temporary arrangement said the operator of the Hallbeck Helicopter Service. (Independent-Journal photo by Bob Hax)

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Hideway Location Not Always Desirable Feature For Dining

A convenient and easily located address is a great asset to any restaurant.

There is a certain novelty and satisfaction in searching out those little establishments in the byways which are reported to be known only to a few people. But it's just as easy to "discover" a good restaurant in a central location. And there are times in the life of almost any diner-out when he relishes not having to play guessing games to find a place to eat. This feeling is probably strongest among those who habitually dine away from home two or more times a week.

Romulus at 1242 Fourth Street in downtown San Rafael is ready made for such occasions. Businessmen patronize it daily for lunch, and since most of them are already in the area they don't have to worry about parking. Families and those in search of a quiet evening are its dinner patrons, and evening parking worries here are minimal.

The fare is varied but leans toward Italian specialities such as the popular veal dishes — scallopini, parmigiana and saltimboca — and pasta and the chicken dishes. The chef here now is Giovanni Sansone who was formerly at the Chateau, and owner Salvatore Iachino often steps into the kitchen to lend a hand or twirl a pizza (although this is no pizzeria).

Sal recognizes that not all Americans go for a steady Italian diet; the menu also offers steaks and seafoods, I heard him say he intends to expand even more in this direction.

If you have passed by Romulus because it was right under your nose, you might stop in and give it a try.

A NEW FRENCH RESTAURANT called Normandie will open at 2114 Fourth Street on the San Rafael Miracle Mile next month — probably about Nov. 7.

It replaces L'Europe Restaurant which is now closed, having been sold by Frits Verburg to Michel Braud of San Mateo and Andre Marquer of Redwood City. They are remodeling the kitchen and have applied for a transfer of the wine and beer license.

Both partners are in their 30s and full of youthful enthusiasm. They have been in restaurant work since their early teens. Andre had his own restaurant in Hong Kong for five years before coming to California.

They plan on a menu essentially French, and they will be open for both lunches and dinners.

ANOTHER NEW RESTAURANT scheduled to open at Northgate about Dec. 1 will be Zanze's a removal from San Francisco.

It is a father-and-son operation of Louis and Samuel Zanze, who have been in business for the past eight years on downtown Grant Avenue in the city. They sold out last August and are now having the former Parsons Optical Labs at 2450 Northgate Fashion Mall remodeled.

Menu will be very much the same as they had in San Francisco they'll stress light continental food: Omelets, casseroles, salads; and ravioli and homemade pastries and cheesecake prepared by the senior Zanze. Pastries will also be sold to take home. A wine and beer license is planned.

Hours will probably be from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays, with possibly one or two evening openings during the week.

THAT ILLUSTRIOUS CHEF Jack Cardini has brought his talents into Marin County and now will be found at Black Point Inn.

For many years he operated Chef Cardini's restaurant at Glenn Ellen in the Valley of the Moon, then retired. Recently he came out of retirement to work at Uncle Lou's in Petaluma (formerly Diamond Lil's).

Art Allison is still featured at the piano bar.

LUNCHES are being scheduled again, starting next month, at Taberna's in San Rafael.

Meanwhile, this nightspot's second anniversary will be celebrated next Sunday evening. Co-owner Bob Czyz, who had to miss last year's celebration due to an automobile accident, vows he's going to make this one a memorable occasion.

There will be an enormous buffet. Entertainment for dancing will be by the Dick Whittington Trio with Tony Masters. Activity will start at 8 p.m.

ENTERTAINMENT at Holiday Inn in Terra Linda is now provided Wednesdays through Saturdays in the Alta Loma cocktail lounge by the Darrell Hutchinson Trio.

HALLOWEEN is only another week away; the first to report any special observance is Senor Alfredo's Mexican Restaurant in San Anselmo. That night a glass of wine will be included in the price of the dinner and free posters of Alfredo's "little man" theme will be handed out to the youngsters.

THAT PLAQUE behind the bar at Rubini's is a "Silver Jigger Award," presented for having poured more than 100,000 shots of Canadian Club whiskey.

THE GRIDDLE at Fourth and Lincoln, San Rafael remains closed — but I understand there is a new transaction in progress. Something on it should come to light in another week or so.

THE FRANCISCAN OF SONOMA now serves dinners starting at 4:30 p.m. until 10 p.m. Sundays through Thursays and to 11 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays. The lounge is open from 4 p.m. to 2 a.m. Closed Mondays. Continental dinners are served.

CAZANOMA LODGE at Cazadero is now in its "in between months," serving only Friday, Saturday and Sunday until the end of November. Then it will close for the season, opening again in March.

Mark West Lodge in Santa Rosa dnh the Golden Bear Lodge in Kenwood also close Dec. 1 for three months of winter.

LOU GAVIATI reports that Orange Julius at the hub intersection in San Anselmo has introduced a new drink called Pineapple Julius, made with Hawaiian pineapple and a Polynesian tang.

RESTAURANT MENU RECALLS PREWAR DAYS

PASADENA (UPI) — Picture a posh restaurant menu featuring soup, seafood cocktail, salad, and a choice of six entrees, including filet mignon, New York cut sirloin and broiled baby lobster for only $1.75.

Norman Goss, owner of a restaurant here celebrated the restaurant's 20th anniversary last night by serving the same menu he served Oct. 23, 1941, at the price he charged in 1941 — $1.75.

Iron Foundry Heir Is Killed

OAKLAND (UPI) — The grandson of the late founder of the Herrick Iron Works of Oakland was killed yesterday when his speeding sports car overturned in the east Oakland hills.

He had apparently failed to fasten the safety belt.

Three-Car Collision Injures One Driver

Antone Basil Jean, 44, of 38 Ash Avenue, Corte Madera, received minor back injuries in a three-car collision yesterday on Highway 101 near the north end of the Richardson Bay Bridge, California Highway Patrol officers reported.

Officers said that at 7:40 p.m., Joel Kenneth Wolfson, 31, of 105 Belvedere Drive, Strawberry, failed to notice traffic slowing as he pulled onto the highway off the Seminary Drive onramp and hit Jean's car which, in turn, hit a car driven by Cyril Tyson Hofmeister Jr., 42, of 50 Bryn Mawr Drive, San Rafael.

Conservers Pressing Coast Access Fight

Sonoma County conservationists have vowed to continue fighting for public access to the coast despite the negative reaction of the board of supervisors to a proposed access ordinance.

Dr. William M. Kortum of Cotati, president of Californians Organized to Acquire Access to State Tideland (COAAST), said he doubted that the board would adopt a stringent ordinance requiring access before the Nov. 6 deadline, thereby exempting the Sea Ranch second-home development from any regulations.

Kortum asked the supervisors this week to approve an access ordinance. "All we have now is a lossely worded policy," Kortum told the board.

The supervisors said that the policy of coastal growth along with some access will be continued. In June, the board adopted a resolution that said instead of public access corridors through Sea Ranch's 10.5 mile ocean frontage, the county would accept a donation of park lands at the mouth of the Gualala River at the north end of the property.

In a letter to the board, the conservation organization charged that three of the supervisors had reached a secret agreement with developers in a clandestine meeting in mid-June at the Black Forest Inn, Calistoga.

The supervisors did not deny the allegation, but all said they could not recall such a meeting with Sea Ranch developers.

"Even if we don't get an ordinance, COAAST will continue to be a watchdog and keep up the pressure," Kortum said. The organization recently opened an office in the Rosenberg building in Santa Rosa staffed three days a week by Executive Director Allan Chambliss.

San Francisco Faces Pollution Slap

SAN MATEO (AP)—The City of San Francisco was warned officially yesterday that new construction in the city could be halted if the city doesn't comply with antipollution orders.

The San Francisco Bay Water Quality Control Board gave the warning in two cease and desist orders against the city for bay pollution.

The orders gave San Francisco until the board's next monthly meeting to firm up plans for the proposed new North Point and Southeast treatment plants.

Included in the orders was a paragraph noting that the Porter-Cologne Water Quality Control Improvement Act passed by the 1969 state Legislature gives the water board authority to seek injunctions to prevent any new connection to inadequate sewage systems.

The act also allows fines up to $6,000 per violation of the water quality act with each day of operation a new offense.

The board also ordered its staff to prepare cease and desist orders against San Francisco "as soon as possible" for discharging raw sewage during and following heavy rains.

The water quality board has previously asserted that San Francisco's combined sewage and storm drain system causes overloads during storms which allow raw sewage to be discharged at 40 points around the city.

San Francisco Supervisor Robert Mendelson said the city is prepared to commit itself to completion of the pilot Baker Street demonstration project, opposed by Marina residents, prior to the winter of 1971-72.

The situation at Ghilardi's Resort in Sonoma County, where the county health department reports no improvements have been made, was referred by the board to the Sonoma County district attorney's office for possible issue of citation.

Is McCarthy Eyeing Post?

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., says he may establish residence in New York State and run for senator in 1970.

"I'm not saying I wouldn't run," McCarthy said on a television program Wednesday. "I've said that several times before, it's just that I don't have anyone promoting me here."

List In Drawn For Vacancies

A list of 15 possible persons for four vacancies on the Marin County Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission was drawn up Wednesday at a meeting of the commission.

A special meeting to talk with them and anyone else interested in serving on the commission was set for 5 p.m. Nov. 5 at the Civic Center, according to Gary T. Giacommini. A list of names will then go to the board of supervisors to let them know who is interested.

The commission also changed its regular meeting time from the fourth Wednesday of each month to the third Wednesday at 4 p.m. at the Civic Center.

Gem Goes For $1.05 Million; Will It Be Jackie's Or Liz's?

NEW YORK (AP)—A 69.42-carat diamond ring with a sparkle that stretches from knuckle to knuckle has been sold to a buyer with a bank account that stretches to at least $1.05 million.

The official purchaser of the gem, sold at auction yesterday at Parke-Bernet Galleries, was Robert Kenmore, chairman of the board of the Kenmore Corp., owner of Cartier's, a New York jewelry firm.

No one would say however where the ring, a flawless, pear-shaped diamond surrounded by two half-moon diamonds totaling another 2.92 carats, would wind up. Parke-Bernet wouldn't even say who was selling the gem.

Kenmore said he was not a free agent—indicating he had a customer. But he refused to say whom. "The diamond is the Cartier diamond now for the moment," he said, referring to the fact it was one of the few large stones without a name.

FLAWLESS DIAMOND
Knuckle to knuckle

Both Mrs. Richard Burton—actress Elizabeth Taylor—and Mrs. Aristotle Onassis—widow of President John F. Kennedy—were among the women reputed to be interested.

There was a rumor that the stone was flown to Switzerland last month so Miss Taylor could inspect it.

She already owns the 33-carat Krupp diamond, bought for her last year by Burton for $305,000.

And Al Yugler, the man who bought the Krupp stone on behalf of Burton, was on hand as the bidding before a packed house of 800 began at $200,000 and jumped in $50,000 steps.

But Yugler stopped at $1 million and when Kenmore bid again, he calmly walked out.

Was Yugler bidding for the Burtons? "It would be reasonable to assume so," said a Parke-Bernet spokesman.

There was no specific indication that Onassis had an agent at the auction. The Greek shipping magnate reportedly gave his bride $1.2 million worth of jewelry when they were married last year and added a 40-carat diamond to the collection this year.

The 69.42-carat stone was the third largest ever sold at auction. A Parke-Bernet spokesman said it brought the highest price ever for a piece of jewelry at an auction.

Presley Booked To Play The Astrodome

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Entertainer Elvis Presley has been booked into the Astrodome in Houston for a run of appearances from Feb. 27-March 1, a Memphis newspaper reported in today's edition.

The Memphis Commercial Appeal, in an article by reporter Jim Kingsley, said Presley will make the Texas appearance after a return engagement of four weeks at a Las Vegas hotel. Kingsley, a friend of Presley, said the entertainer will be paid $750,000 for the Las Vegas run that starts Jan. 26.

They Are Not 'Pigs' When You Need Them

A few years ago, it was popular for youngsters to refer to police as "the fuzz."

Now, aping college-age agitators who pretend to knowledge, the small fry are likely to call officers "pigs."

But this week, to school children throughout Marin, the police were what they have been all along in fact — protectors.

As fear spread throughout the Bay Area that a maniac killer who calls himself Zodiac would make good his threat to "wipe out" a bus load of school children, police began providing police car escort for school buses, and in other ways patrolling against any sniper who might try to carry out Zodiac's threat to "shoot out the front tire and then pick off the kiddies as they come bouncing out."

ZODIAC IS SUSPECTED of killings in the Bay Area, in all of which there have been bizarre notes to newspapers like that in which he made his threat to "wipe out a school bus some morning." There was an eerie sequence Wednesday when a man who said he was Zodiac telephoned a San Francisco television "talk show" and tried to arrange a meeting with attorney Melvin Belli to save himself from the gas chamber — then never showed up for the appointment.

With a killer like that at large, the importance of the police becomes well recognized. They are not "pigs" when you need them.

SOONER OR LATER, the police will get Zodiac (we hope it is sooner). They will caution him of his right not to incriminate himself, advise him of his right to an attorney, and lock him up.

The children then can feel safer as they ride the bus to school — for awhile, anyway.

The public prosecutor and the court will take over then.

The prosecutor may find that the police failed to give Zodiac the proper warnings, or that they somehow violated his civil rights in making the arrest. He may refuse to prosecute. And Zodiac may go free again, to plan new atrocities.

More likely, Zodiac will be charged and put to trial. Defense attorneys will argue that his rights have somehow been violated. They will insist that he is mentally deranged — which no doutb he is — and therefore should not be punished for his crimes.

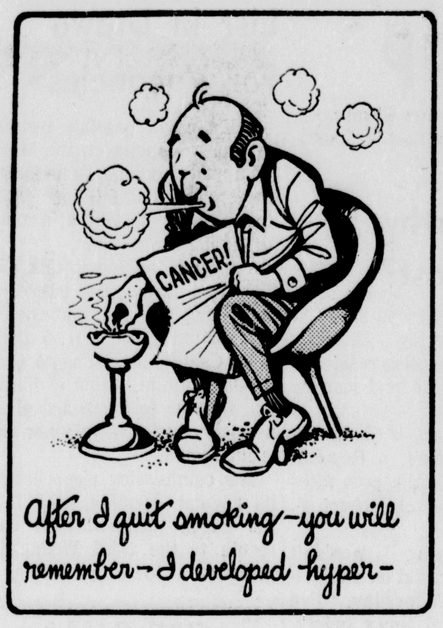
THE COURT LIKELY will appoint one or more psychiatrists to probe Zodiac's mind and give their learned opinions as to whether he is sane enough to stand trial. The defense probably will come up with psychiatrists of its own, who will undoubtedly claim Zodiac is not sane enough for trial. The psychiatrists' opinions will be weighed by the judge, who will make no mention of the fact that prosecution psychiatrists generally find the victim legally sane while defense psychiatrists invariably say he is legally insane.

Probably, Zodiac will wind up in a mental institution.

THROUGHOUT THE PROCESS from his arrest until the eventual disposition of the case, the resources of the state will be directed to protecting him against an unfair trial.

As the Zodiac scare melts away, some of the children — who have short memories — may be calling the police "pigs" again.

But the police will be doing what they regularly do — protecting the public. They will go on doing it even though they know that the courts, by over-emphasizing the rights of the accused, may be weakening that protection.



WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Rebuttal From A Butcher's Wife

CURRENTLY read a JUICY article in your paper (Sept. 25) about a Mrs. DiLorenzo, wife of an ELECTRICIAN, and am still STEWING because of it.

She led a boycott to bring the price of MEAT down. Why PICK ON OUR BONES? Why not lay it on the LAMB and blame everyone not just the BUTCHER. Isn't everyone living HIGH ON THE HOG nowadays? Why even cigarettes are $6.40 a lb. Why not STEAK out the salary of an ELECTRICIAN? How would she like her husband's LIGHTS PUT OUT. CIRCUIT it out! and have a HEART. You get SKINNED even buying clothing.

HOT DOG, those HOT LINES in that article made me SIZZLE — what TRIPE. She is certainly giving the BUTCHER a BUM STEER.

HOLY COW, my husband works six days a week to bring home the BACON. What's her BEEF anyway? Why, if she couldn't serve her husband a nice steak at dinner I'm sure he'd BLOW HIS FUSE.

I hope you deLIVER my message to her home GROUND as I am really FRIED. The BUTCHER should not SHOULDER all the blame and be after his CARCASS.

any future as the world stands currently. But — the Chinese in fleeing the Japanese invasion of their mainland during World War II literally dismantled their factories and transported them hundreds of miles, much of it by hand, and set them in production again.

The world's ability fo formulate capital is impaired by its past ability to wage war. But — again but — we could undertake dismantling our total capital along with any other industralized nation and crate and ship it to the underdeveloped world, using our combined merchant marine and leaving us with the experience of past success to rebuild our countries and our self-esteem.

Student Speaks In Defense Of Hair

Apparel doesn't make the man. Or in this case, length of hair doesn't make the athlete.

I have a great deal of respect for Coach (Robert J.) Troppmann, but I strongly disagree with his stand on "the issue." In his letter which made hair Satan in disguise, the coach repeatedly referred to the right of a coach to make team policy. This is a clear cut contradiction, and one which should not be bypassed. A man cannot say that and in the next breath say he, the athletic director wants to make the policy.

Forcing an athlete to cut his hair a certain way is risking having those who like longer hair take a negative attitude towards athletics. Don't forget that some of the "long hairs" are very fine athletes. They're not competing against our school, but for it.

Let us not forget that in the ancient Greek society, freedom of the individual was stressed. Yet, so also was athletics. The two did not clash then; there is no reason why they should now.

I say it is a sad day if "hippie" had become what "nigger" was.

Deep Compassion For Gen. Hershey

My heart bleeds for Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey who has been working for peanuts all these years. At last, this arm chair military man, thanks to Rep. Mendell Rivers and you know who, will come into his own and retire as a full general.

At 76, he must really be tired from exerting teriffic effort during the past 59 years of arm chair work.

Now, after all this time General Hershey can afford three squares a day, as I understand full generals' compensation is fairly conducive to good living.

One wonders how he existed on such a miserly stipend for over half a century.

India, Southeast Asia, Africa, as well as South America are vastly underdeveloped areas. They are undernourished, overpopulated and underdeveloped as Aldous Huxley pointed out in his novel, "Island," and in his posthumously published collection of essays, "Tomorrow, Tomorrow and Tomorrow."

These facts have been a topic of concern to the western world for 20 years to my knowledge.

Doctors, Lawyers Don't Know Strategy

Regarding the 110 or so doctors and lawyers wiring the President urging him to announce withdrawal from Vietname, I'm sure the President is going to take heed to these learned men when he reads, "further engagement is strategically unsound."

TRY AND STOP ME

Mr. Gruber, to whom this song was too, too familiar, never even looked up from his newspaper. He just chuckled diabolically, and retorted, "Not if he stayed for dinner!"

THE DRUMMONDS

Nixon Won't Pull Out; Here Are Reasons Why

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

The real question is whether President Nixon can succeed, whether his course will bring serious negotiations, whether serious negotiations will bring peace, and whether the present rate of U.S. disengagement will enable South Vietnam to defend itself.

These are the questions which need to be examined more soberly and more realistically.

PERHAPS the "Nixon plan" will work. He believes it will. He says it will. But there is a very considerable possibility that it won't, and we must be aware of what may be in the making. We believe that these conclusions are supported by what has been happening:

1 — There is little prospect that there will be any serious peace negotiations in Paris. It is evident by now that nothing will come of them. It is evident that Hanoi never intended them as anything but a forum for nonnegotiation. This view has already been reached by those closest to the talks in Paris and is now being reluctantly accepted in Washington.

2 — It is at least an even chance — perhaps better than even — that nothing the President does or can do will bring any serious negotiations at all. He says that congressional and public pressure to pull out too fast keeps Hanoi from negotiating. That is true only to a very limited extent. The controlling fact which persuades Hanoi not to negotiate is the certainty of U.S. combat withdrawal, and Mr. Nixon has left no doubt about the certainty of U.S. combat withdrawal.

3 — The chance of any decent peace — the chance of any peace which would preserve the right of the people of South Vietnam to choose their own government — will depend on the ability of South Vietnamese forces to defend themselves against the attacks which must be expected after U.S. combat withdrawal is complete.

There will be no knowing whether Mr. Nixon is failing or succeeding in getting the United States out under decent circumstances until this point is reached. This is the gamble the President is taking. It may pay off in success. It may pay off in calamity.

CAN THE NORTH Vietnamese be brought to meaningful negotiations in Paris? The talks have been in motion — at least words have been in motion — for nearly a year, and there hasn't been a split second of serious negotiation. When he ended the bombing of North Vietnam, President Johnson was given to understand by Hanoi that there would be "prompt, productive and serious negotiations." There have been none. It must now be realistically seen that Hanoi wanted the Paris forum as a means of ending the bombing, not as a means of negotiating anything.

Will Hanoi and the Viet Cong respond to any inducement the President can offer to get them to negotiate seriously any time, anywhere. You can't say no for sure, but the only prudent answer is, why should they? Mr. Nixon proposed mutual withdrawal. Hanoi refused. Mr. Nixon has begun unilateral U.S. withdrawal. Hanoi can wait until U.S. combat withdrawal is complete and then decide whether it needs to negotiate or whether then would be a good time to resume major fighting. Is there any reason to expect otherwise?

AFTER THE PRESIDENT has removed U.S combat troops on a rapid timetable — he expects we'll exceed that proposed by former Secretary of Defense Clark Clifford — can South Vietnam bear the nearly total brunt of the fighting? That is the real imponderable, that is the soft underbelly of the "Nixon plan" for disengagement.

Mr. Nixon hopes the South Vietnamese can do it. He expects they can. But his success or failure depends upon a large unknown quantity.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Nixon Gambling U.S. Pull-Out May Lead To Vietnam Peace

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — President Nixon has carefully explored the consequences of a rapid and complete withdrawal of U.S. forces from Vietnam and finds them quite unacceptable on a number of counts.

Recent White House visitors report that it is not the plight of the abandoned South Vietnamese, or even the international implication of a "bug out" which is of most concern to the President. He makes it clear that he is most concerned about the effects of such a withdrawal within the United States.

MR. NIXON is said to believe that a total and precipitate pull-back of all U.S. troops from Vietnam would produce only a short hiatus in the domestic unrest which has had its roots in the Vietnam commitment.

Very quickly, the President tells his associates, there would be a renewal of bitter and destructive criticism but of a different sort. Critics would assert, he is convinced, that the United States had dishonored a commitment and deserted an ally.

The President is said to have stated, acidly, on at least one recent occasion, that some of the critics who would be in the forefront of such a drive would be the same individuals who have been loudly demanding a disengagement in South Vietnam.

WHILE THE DOMESTIC repercussions of such a hasty withdrawal are reported to weigh most heavily on the President, he has assured his friends that he has explored the whole spectrum of results the United States were to follow such a course.

He is said to believe that one result of a hasty withdrawal of all U.S. forces would be a bloodbath — with Viet Cong and North Vietnamese liquidating all the leaders and the officials, however minor, who have worked with the United States or with the government of President Thieu.

That was the implication of the short Communist occupation of the city of Hue during the 1968 Tet offensive. It is estimated that some 2,000 residents of Hue were murdered before the city was retaken.

THIS CONCERN about the consequences of a hasty pull-out within South Vietnam is not unrelated to the conern for domestic reverberations. It would, in Mr. Nixon's view, be charged not only that the United States had abandoned its allies but that it had left them to be slaughtered by the Communists.

The President has also indicated that he is concerned about the effects of an abrupt and total withdrawal from Vietnam on the credibility of the word of the United States elsewhere in the world.

The willingness of the United States to carry out its mutual defense commitments would not be the only question. Also involved would be the other overseas interests of the United States, including commercial interests.

Such an erosion in world respect for the U.S. would become, in the President's view, a part of the emotional criticism in the United States. It could, in turn, be a prelude for events leading to another confrontation with the Communist world with further loss of American lives.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Parents Of Drug Users Offered 'Half-Way House' By New Law

By JAMES K. WOODWORTH

SACRAMENTO — (CNS) — One new law which will go into effect on Nov. 10 is AB-1339, authored by Assemblymen Harvey Johnson, D-El Monte, and Gordon Duffy, R-Hanford, to permit parents to seek involuntary commitment of their children for treatment if they find they are drug users or addicts.

While the law is primarily aimed at providing parents with an alternative to possible arrest and imprisonment for their delinquent children, it poses problems which demand recognition.

THE LAW ASSUMES many parents know their children are drug and marijuana users or addicts, but have failed in their parental responsibilities in keeping the youngsters on the straight and narrow path.

It also assumes that these parents, having failed before, now will decide it is time to accept their responsibilities by seeking a commitment order from the superior court so that child can be observed for three days under the Short-Doyle community mental health program, and if found still to be a danger to themselves or others, can be retained in the program for an additional 14 days.

IT WOULD BE difficult for any parent to make such a decision, but according to recent reports on drug addiction in California, many parents shortly will be faced with deciding whether to let their youngsters destroy themselves, mentally and physically, through the use of drugs, or accept the possible widening of the generation gap by seeking help for their children.

Assemblyman Duffy, in explaining to the press how the law will work, cited one family in his district who knew that their youngsters were using drugs but had no place to turn for help. While on a "trip," one of the children jumped into a river and drowned. Within a month, the second boy stopped his car on the freeway, also while on a "trip," and walked in front of a truck.

Neither of these deaths, he said, will be recorded as drug abuse fatalities, but both were results of the use of drugs.

PARENTS WHO wish to make use of the new law can feel secure in the fact that application to the superior court will not open their lives, or the lives of their children to public scrutiny, and will not result in harassment by police, since the program contains the doctor-patient relationship, making all interviews and resulting determinations secret.

The law offers a sort of "half-way house" for the parents.

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Planner Finally Has A Dialogue And Few Things Come To Light

Fusselman

In the I-J, Monday before last, "County Planning Director Paul C. Zucker and most of his staff met the county planning commissioners en masse this morning for the first time since 1966."

This time lag can be laid at Zucker's door stop. He has brazenly and rudely told off the commissioners and the board of supervisors on numerous occasions. He has asserted that the county didn't need a commission, indicating that with him there all the bases were covered.

There has been a noticeable quietness since he was saved by Bill Gnoss' change of position. No though, "Here we are folks, just let me explain."

THE ARTICLE quoted him as saying the budget this year ($477,531) included such things as the overall transportation study. (this while Seymour Kashin, manager of the phantom transit district, was insisting that his crew and they only must be the ones to do this type of study. You pay for them both. Ask Bruce about this overlapping.)

Zucker explained to the commissioners that his outfit was making a study on enviromental quality (?) and tourism potential. The frosting on this was, "An attempt is being made to move away from the subjective and toward the objective by studies on ecology." Oh you hoo-malli-malli man, you, don't do that to us!

THIS TUESDAY he appeared before the board of supervisors in a workshop meeting. Many who have attended these meetings claim "jawshop" would be more precise.

He graciously told them, "Obviously we have to have a dialogue" — an admission that has taken him four budgets to admit. The remarks of two supervisors were right on the button.

Bud Barr: "If you make plans too precise in the western areas you're going to have people forming their own cities and they'll throw out your plans anyway." I told that same thing to a planning director some years ago and it happened — Novato and Tiburon.

Michael Wornum: declared that "general plans . . . should not be tied down to too many specifics . . . The whole point of a general plan is to set a general guideline for the future. We need room to maneuver . . . in the end it is a political decision for elected officials to decide." Bully boy!

He further told Zucker that the planning staff should not get involved with local plans, but should stick to county planning.

NOW READ THIS and see if you think you have had your money's worth. This guy has (including this current year) budgeted and spent $1,648,672. The transit duplication accounts for $124,628 of this.

This brings up a cockeyed situation involved in this planning deal, that I have wanted to comment on for some time. Believe it or not, the taxpayers in the cities of the county pay two-thirds of the tax levied to support this department, but the commission, Zucker and his staff have no authority whatever in the city areas.

The joker is that if the Zucker types should be legally authorized to work in such municipalities of the county, they would want even larger staffs and bigger budgets. And who would pay for this? That's right. You guessed it.

You've had it, my friends, you've had it.

Humane Society's Unhappy Problems

By ALAN JONES

Half the dogs and puppies turned in to the Marin County animal shelter have to be destroyed because they simply cannot be placed with families.

"We are the dumping ground," said Mel L. Morse, executive director of the county humane society. "We have to take everything, regardless of disease or age or anything."

With an inflow of 100 dogs a month, fewer than half can be placed with homes. The rest must be destroyed.

That, Morse said, is why a puppy brought to the shelter Wednesday by Mrs. Paula Potts of San Rafael was killed even before she left the building. Mrs. Potts changed her mind and tried to get the dog back, but her plea was too late even though "we weren't there 10 minutes," she said.

When dogs are brought in, Morse said, someone has to make "the monumental decision" which ones are to live. Some animals present little choice, he said — puppies too young to survive, with their eyes not yet open, disease or malformed dogs, dogs with behavior problems or dogs that simply don't look appealing to potential masters.

Mrs. Potts' puppy, kennel superintendent Jack Faulkner said, was not housebroken, and was being turned in as unsuitable for their child. It added up to too many black marks.

"We know nearly everyone here is here with an emotional animal situation," Morse said. "Utopia would be to place everything into a nice lovely warm home.

". . . How do you get a county to take a solid look at the fact it is creating a problem within itself . . . a surplus of dogs and cats?"

When a family gets tired of its new litter of puppies or kittens, he said, they end up at the shelter. Adults, he said, will bring a litter in to be destroyed, then go home and tell the children all the puppies got good homes.

"The people who want us to find homes . . . are the same people who bring them in in buckets and in sacks.

What answer is there besides destruction? Education is one, Morse said. The new shelter was built with education as a focus, and some 5,000 children have been through it, he said, learning what overpopulation means for the animals.

The answer could be spaying and neutering, but that has drawbacks as well. The cost of spaying is too high for some families to pay, and "a lot of people just don't give a damn," Morse said.

A mass spaying clinic would help but has never been tried, although some city officials in Marin have been exploring the animal problem.

The shelter might give out only spayed animals for adoption, but that isn't feasible now. "That's my dream," Morse said. "That we have the facilities only to place back into the community altered and spayed animals."

"There has to be a better way" than killing, he said, "Because every community from coast to coast has the same problem."

In addition to the steady flow of dogs, there is a fallout of some 100 cats a week during the cat season each spring. The season ran a month longer than usual this year, Faulkner said.

The new shelter has four main areas for dogs. Dogs for adoption, separated into male and female areas, are in a row of indoor runs to one side the building while strays are kept separate. All but a few of the runs were full yesterday, some with two and three dogs.

Owners usually claim dogs wearing license tags within a day after the shelter calls them, Faulkner said. Untagged strays are kept a week, then either placed with the adoptive dogs or destroyed.

Marin veterinarians make daily visits to the shelter on a rotating schedule to give shots, examine new arrivals and diagnose diseases.

But until something is done to stem the flow of unwanted dogs and cats, scenes like Wednesday's will inevitably be repeated.

Conclave Housing Set At Dominican

Civic leaders, public officials and private citizens will meet in an all-day workshop at Dominican College tomorrow to explore Marin's growing housing problems.

The session, entitled "People in Wonderland," will be held from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., with speakers and a slide and audio-visual presentation in the morning at Angelico Hall and seminars in the afternoon at Guzman and Bertrand halls.

The speakers will be Edward P. Eichler, author of "The Community Builders;" planning consultant Lawrence Livingston Jr.; community catalyst Emma McFarlin; Robert B. Pitts, western regional administrator of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, and Marin County Planning Director Paul C. Zucker.

Organizers of the conference said it will examine increasing property taxes and cost of homes, whether a community increasingly geared to the wealthy is desirable and the housing hardships of low income persons and the elderly.

Workshop planners are the City-County Planning Council, Leagues of Women Voters of Southern and Central Marin, Marin Council for Civic Affairs, Ecumenical Association for Housing and the Marin County Housing Authority. All Marin cities except Ross have made donations to the program.

Red Cross Calls For Volunteers

The Marin County Red Cross needs volunteers to work with in training, recruitment, public relations and to staff community programs, it was announced today.

Drivers are also needed to transport patients to doctor's appointments and to take visitors to Napa or Sonoma State hospitals. Volunteers are needed to work with local shut-ins and to assist in office work,

Information may be obtained at the office of the Marin County chapter, 712 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael.

Hearing Slated In Grand Theft Case

A preliminary hearing has been set for Nov. 17 in Marin Municipal Court for Carl Joel Teissler, 29, of San Rafael, who is accused of grand theft.

Teissler was arrested Nov. 8 after police found him in a truck containing neon light fixtures, apparently stolen from the construction site of the new Pacific Telephone Co. building on Las Gallinas Avenue in San Rafael.

Hub Changes Garbage Rules For Bonfire Ban

Faced with the rapidly approaching backyard burning ban, San Anselmo city councilmen last night made their city the first in Marin County to approve unlimited garbage collection.

Just what this expanded service is going to cost San Anselmo residents remains to be seen, however.

The council voted 3-1, with Mayor Woodrow V. Capurro dissenting, to require San Anselmo Garbage Disposal Co. to pick up all containerized garbage effective Jan. 1, when the burning ban goes into effect.

The council acted despite assertion by attorney Wallace S. Myers, who represents the garbage compnay, that the firm cannot make unlimited pickup without greatly increasing rates.

Myers and the council, sparred briefly about specific rates, were unable to reach agreement but did set Nov. 20 at 8 p.m. as the date of a special meeting to determine rates.

Myers said he felt the garbage company would be swamped once residents were able to get rid of as much garbage as they wished, but councilman Kenneth L. Anderson disagreed, pointing out that only 16 per cent of San Anselmo residents now have a burning permit.

"We now know that the workload isn't going to double, it can be handled," Anderson said in supporting the unlimited pickup.

Councilman James F. Reed said he didn't believe ". . . people will generate garbage just because it's now a bargain."

The council agreed that the unlimited pickup be set for a one year trial with a thorough examination to be held after that period.

Councilman Duane C. Ragan, who joined Reed and Anderson in supporting the unlimited pickup, told Myers that he forsaw the city's creeks and canyons being filled with trash and the possibility of serious house-fires caused by people burning in fireplaces if the unlimited service wasn't offered.

The council told Myers to return to the Nov. 20 meeting with a suggested rate for the unlimited service. San Anselmo residents now pay $2.30 a month for one can on flat ground and $2.60 for a can on a hill. Cost for two cans is double.

Reed last night also suggested that rather than using the flatland and hill criteria the city should adopt separate rates for garbage picked up at the curb and garbage picked up in yards more than 15 feet from the curb.

Reed, who drafted the proposal along with Anderson, suggested that the city's garbage be picked up free by the franchise holder. He said that this was the case in many other cities in the area. He also proposed a 10 per cent discount for anyone paying a year in advance.

"That would cost us about $13,000," Myers protested. Myers said that the company, owned by Victor Vallerga, already had a $6,000 deficit, mainly due to skyrocketing labor costs.

Anderson questioned why Fairfax's garbage rate is lower than San Anselmo's even though it had less users. Myers countered by saying that the collectors are not union members in Fairfax and they are in San Anselmo.

Myers said that the council was asking his client to accept a "pig in a poke" by authorizing unlimited pickup without a substantial increase in rates.

"You are asking us to gamble," he said. He said he was sure the additional load was going to force the company to buy more equipment and make many more trips to the dump, which is 20 miles away.

He agreed to appear at the Nov. 20 meeting with some rate proposals however.

The city council also: purchased a loader-backhoe from the Empire Tractor Co. of Santa Rosa for $13,445.25. The council had budgeted $14,000 for the equipment.

The council awarded a contract for the demolition of a home and garage at 210 Red Hill Avenue owned by Harry Heifetz to the Maggiora and Ghilotti Construction Co. for $1,636.

Closed Session

The Marin Junior College board will meet in closed session at 7 p.m. Monday in the Marin County Schools office in Corte Madera to discuss the three candidates it has interviewed for the position of superintendent-president.

Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina set the record for the longest filibuster Aug. 28-29, 1957. It lasted 24 hours and 18 minutes.

Jury Verdict Is Guilty In Hashish Case

Clayton Blackmore, 37-year-old Corte Madera carpenter, yesterday was convicted by a jury in Marin Superior Court of selling a small quantity of hashish to a narcotics agent in February 1968.

It took the jury of 10 women and two men about two hours to find Blackmore guilty after two days of testimony.

Blackmore had maintained during the trial that he sold the hashish from his personal supply to a friend — who was accompanied by the agent — after being pursuaded to do so by the friend.

He said he became, suspicious when the agent paid for the hashish.

The agent testified that when he met Blackmore in the yellow camper belonging to Steven Elvin, now serving a jail term for narcotics violations, near Sausalito, that Blackmore offered to sell him the hashish.

Deputy Dist. Atty. J. Michael Anthony prosecuted the case, and Blackmore was defended by Carl B. Shapiro.

Judge E. Warren McGuire set sentencing for Nov. 10.

Petaluma Children's Care Center Set For Opening

The Petaluma Children's Care Center is expected to open next week in a portable classroom on the McDowell School grounds, South McDowell Boulevard.

Directed by Mrs. Dortha Perelli-Minetti, the center will open with three paid staff members and possibly 20 children. It later will expand to seven paid staff members and nearly 70 children.

Designed for single parents who work or are taking work training, the center is financed by the state Department of Education and by fees paid by parents. The school will be open from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. to provide care before and after school hours as well as daylong care for preschool-age youngsters.

Children between the ages of 3 and 12 are eligible to attend the center, which stresses educational as well as custodial services. The cost per family is determined by the gross average income and verification of income is required as well as a complete physical examination for each child.

Cut-Outs Contribute To See-Through Look In New California Swim Suits

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—New York couture designer Jacques Tiffeau presented his first collection of swimwear with a showing Wednesday of six of 16 outfits he created especially for Catalina.

The presentation was made during the California fashion creators 19th annual Press Week showing at the Century Plaza in Los Angeles.

In the Tiffeau collection print bikinis were demurely covered up by matching maxi coats which Catalina prefers to call dusters.

Of two one-piece suits shown a purple and white maillot was made braless. The other California swimwear manufacturers preferred some type of control at the bosom. Although there was very little under wearings and bone stays, designers were making some attempts at controlling the bosom with a softer more natural bra.

NECKLINES PLUNGE, round off, square up and sometimes have collars. Maillots in clinging fabric are still in the picture and cutouts, crochet knits and cotton laces along with sheer organza jackets contribute to a see-through look. Metal rings linked top and bottom and sides. All colors imaginable are visible in either bright or tone down views.

In addition to Catalina, other manufacturers presenting swimwear collections were Alexa, Cole of California, Deweese designs, Sand Castle, Sirena, Elisabeth Stewart and Sea Fashions.

Swimsuit makers have long designed little coverups known as beach coats to wear over suits. Now the beach jacket department includes maxi coats, hip length tunics with pants and mini length dresses.

Fringe, the latest rage, became practical on a Deweese terry triangle scarf that could double as a beach towel.

Elisabeth Stewart doesn't like a cling bikini, she likes the look of wrapped effect often working a scarf motif or draping the fabric.

Marin Women

Contraceptives Urged For Sexually Active Teen-Agers

NEW YORK (UPI)—Even in the absence of parental consent doctors should prescribe contraceptives for sexually involved teen-agers who consult them, according to four faculty members of the University of Washington Medical School in Seattle.

They urged this course on the profession in the new issue of the influential journal, "Postgraduate Medicine," which was reaching its subscribers today.

"WHEN A YOUNG patient has need for a contraceptive, the physician should not refuse this service simply because the patient is young or does not have parental consent," they said.

"Although the teen-ager should be encouraged to seek parental consent, the physician should try to manage the situation so that the patient's suffering are minimal.

"We feel that unwanted pregnancy is a disease—a disease with consequences that affect every level of society."

The urgers were Dr. Nathaniel N. Wagner, associate professor of psychology and psychiatry; Dr. Ronald J. Pion, director of family planning and education in the school's department of obstetrics and gynecology; and Pion's research assistants, Nina Perthou and Byron Fujita.

THERE ARE NO grounds for fearing law suits by parents who have not consented to their teen-agers getting contraceptives, in their view.

"If such a case is brought to court, a logical argument can be made for a legal finding that a teen-ager old enough to be sexually involved and to seek medical assistance is old enough to be considered responsible."

They were alarmed by statistics showing that one of evey 12 children "is born out of wedlock, one of every six women gives birth within eight months after her first marriage and an estimated 50 to 75 per cent of teen-age brides are pregnant at the time of marriage."

More than 40 per cent of mothers of illegitimate babies are teen-agers, they said, and all indications show adults can no longer prevent sexual activity among teen-agers by instilling fear, by close supervision or by other means.

"WE HAVE BEEN impressed by the frequency with which teen-involvement or, sometimes, abstained from it after they have received contraceptives and some supportive counseling.

"It seems that as long as adult society says, 'you can't,' they feel that they must. But when the teen-ager is asked, 'is that what you want?' the responsibility for his behavior is returned to him, which is as it should be."

Fred Grahams Are Married 50 Years

Celebrating 50 years of marriage are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Graham of Terra Linda.

The Grahams who were married Oct. 20, 1919, in Pawnee City, Neb., have lived with their son, Lt. Col. (ret) Roland Graham and his family since coming to Marin County two years ago.

A carpenter, Mr. Graham, is building a two room addition over the garage and he received much help from Mrs. Graham who sat on the roof and handed shingles to him.

They came to Marin from Pueblo, Colo, where they lived for 40 years, operating and owning an apartment house there for 26 years. Mr. Graham was born 71 years ago in Boone, Colo. and met Mrs. Graham near Burn, Kansas where she was born 74 years ago.

Gardening is Mrs. Graham's favorite hobby and she is enjoying the wide variety of California flowers and plants. The Graham's also enjoy their granddaughter, Tayna, 12, and Junko Takeuchi an 18 year old student from Japan who is living at the Graham house while attending Brandon Language School in San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Graham who have traveled from coast-to-coast visiting their son when he was in the service, have 5 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren. A second son, Kenneth, is decreased.

Mr. Graham's advice to young couples is to get an education because "they are more able to see what the world's all about." Without one, he says, "First they have money troubles, then they fight."

The secret of 50 years of marriage is "share and share alike," according to Mrs. Graham.

At a cocktail-dinner party honoring the Grahams Saturday were Mrs. Graham's sister, Mrs. Roy Linsea, of Ely, Nev., and two of her nieces.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Can Husband Who Spanks Wife Trust Her To Raise The Kids?

DEAR HELEN:

Eight of us young suburban housewives have formed a club, to help our neighborhood and work in civic affairs. Last night we had a purely social meeting, with relaxed talk.

One of the girls who had received a traffic ticket remarked "That will cost my husband $15 and me a spanking!"

That started a discussion on whether husbands have the right, duty, or privilege of spanking wives who deserve it.

Three of the group said they had never had a hand laid on them and never would. (I don't consider these the happiest marriages in the club.)

Five of us had been paddled by our husbands — varying from once or twice a year to several times a month. Most of the spankings were administered at the end of an argument for such reasons as excessive nagging, spending money foolishly, being consistently late with dinner or temper tantrums.

In my own case, I tend to get cantankerous if allowed to have my way all the time. My husband is firm but not cruel in applying open palm to appropriate place. I'd rather have him clear the air with a spanking then to pout and quit talking.

I've heard that in some countries the father of the bride delivers a paddle, a slipper or some other symbol of authority to the prospective husband as soon as the engagement is announced. Perhaps we Americans would have more lasting marriages if this custom were started over here. — MRS. C.L.

DEAR MRS. L:

Who am I to condemn what seems to work for you? But I doubt this father-child relationship would catch on with most American marriages, despite the five-to-three majority in your club.

If a wife isn't considered an equal half of an adult team, how could she be trusted to raise the children? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

We've been married over a year. But even yet — if we don't visit my parents every Saturday and Sunday, we receive a call from them on Monday, asking us why, and then we are accused of being shut-ins. The implication is of course, that we're trying to shut them out.

Would you please say something in your column about how often a married couple should be expected to visit family? — A BIT MUCH?

DEAR A.B.M.

When visits become obligations, they're overdone! Spending every weekend with parents or in-laws is definitely "a bit much" and if they don't agree, then they're too dependent on their married children.

How about substituting friendly telephone calls for several of these duty visits. Informal get-togethers are often better than demanded weekends. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I agree with your answer to "Should We Or Shouldn't We Change" whose neighbors looked askance at her family's shenanigans. We could all use a little of the good natured exhuberant fun. You wouldn't believe the number of depressed, under-achieving boys and girls whose every move is made into a chore at home. Three cheers for parents who enjoy their kids. I'm sure you and your husband do too, Helen. — L.K.

DEAT L:

We do, we do! — H.

Longtime Marin Pair Celebrate

The Walter J. Meyers, who will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary tomorrow at an open house at their home in Tamalpais Valley, are among the real oldtimers in Marin County.

Born in Oakland, Evelyn Meyer was brought as a child to Marin, where she lived with her family in the first house in Tamalpais Valley. She has continued to live in the valley for 60 years, though not in the same house.

"Our house, which father remodeled, was the original ranch house on the Coyote Ranch of the Throckmorton Estate," she says. "It is still in Tamalpais Valley but looks much different now.

"We were so far from the only school in Mill Valley that my mother taught me at home. Later I used to drive to Mill Valley in a surrey with the fringe on top and watered my horse at the trough that used to be where the Ralston White Memorial Grove is now located."

Born in Port Washington, Wis., Walter Meyer came to San Francisco in 1907 and to Marin in 1919. On Oct. 25 of that year he and Evelyn were married in Judge Frank T. Deasy's chambers at the San Francisco City Hall.

Mr. Meyer, who retired as foreman of a paper box factory 10 years ago, built the house they have lived in since 1920. It is near Mrs. Meyer's old family home.

The Meyers have four children: Mrs. James Rideout of Nanaimo, Canada; Mrs. William Gosser of San Rafael, who is sheriff's matron in San Rafael; Walter J. Meyer Jr., a retired lieutenant colonel of the Air Force, who lives in Highland; and William Meyer of San Francisco. They have 15 grandchildren and seven great grandchildren.

Evelyn Meyer is active in many lodges. More than 30 years ago she was co-founder with Mrs. Norman G. Boyd of San Anselmo of the Mill Valley Unit 284 of the American Legion Auxiliary and has served as president three times. She is the current president — her second term in this office — of the Mill Valley Tamelpa Parlor 281, Native Daughters of the Golden West. She is also a past noble grand of Blythedale Rebekah Lodge 305 and a past conductress of the Tamalpais Circle 188 of the United Ancient Order of Druids.

Her hobbies are collecting salt and pepper shakers from all over the world — she has more than 260 — earrings for pierced ears, cup and saucer sets and perfume bottles.

Her husband's only organization is the Mill Valley Post 284 of the American Legion. Since his retirement he says he keeps busy raising vegetables in their garden.

As for how to get along without too much friction for 50 years, Mrs. Meyer says, "These people who say they have never had a fight either have had a very dull life or they are liars, but most of the time we just talked things over instead of arguing. One of the most important things was not allowing the children to get us to contradict each other."

Mr. Meyers added, "We were happy because we always did everything together as a family."

MR. AND MRS. Walter J. Meyer display their wedding picture taken when they were married on Oct. 25, 1919, in San Francisco. They will receive congratulations from 34 relatives and more than 100 friends at an open house to be held tomorrow at their home in Tamalpais Valley. (Independent-Journal photo)

Aga Khan Says His Marriage Will Last

PARIS (UPI)—Three generations of the Aga Khan's family have found love and divorce in the fashion world—but the present Aga, Prince Karim, is determined that his marriage to ex-mannequin Sarah Crichton-Stuart Monday will be the one that lasts.

The 49th Imam of the Ismaili sect of Mohammedanism—followed by some 15 to 20 million people in Africa and eastward as far as the borders of China married in a civil ceremony in Paris.

"I DON'T WANT to make a mistake in the choice of my wife," Prince Karim has told friends in the past. "There have been too many divorces in my family."

His grandfather, Mohammed Aly, who was once weighed in diamonds by his followers, was married to a former "Miss France" — fashion designer Yvonne Labrousse—at the time of his death in 1957.

Prince Aly Khan, once the husband of Rita Hayworth and father of the present Aga Khan, was accompanied everywhere by famed model Bettina before he died in a car crash near Paris in the spring of 1961.

Prince Karim was the son of Aly Khan and his first wife, Prince Joan Aly Khan. Born on Dec. 13, 1936, he was educated in Switzerland and was also graduated with honors as a bachelor of arts from Harvard University.

His wife is the daughter of a Bengal Lancer, Lt. Col. Arthur E. Croker Poole, and was born in India before her father retired from army service. She spent her first six years there.

Sarah, a tall five-foot-eight blonde once listed among the world's 10 best-dressed women by Harper's Bazaar magazine, was married previously to Lord James Charles Crichton-Stuart, a brother of the sixth Marquess of Bute, a member of one of Britain's oldest and richest families with large estates in Scotland.

THE EIGHT-YEAR-old childless marriage was dissolved in 1967. She is 29.

The 32-year-old Aga Khan, known as the "Living God" to the followers of the Ismaili sect, was one of the world's most sought after bachelors when he first met Lady Sarah at St. Moritz on a skiing vacation in Switzerland last December.

Knits In News

Knit leisurewear, according to the October issue of Gentlemen's Quarterly, is more in the fashion news than ever before. Knit shirts, many belted, with contrasting stripes, zig-zags and saddle-stiching are featured. The classic argyle sweater also has been revived—for the females, as well. The same for sleeveless sweaters with V and scoop necks. For men and women they are paired with colorful and contrasting shirts.

Prince Karim says he is not, as often stated, among the world's 100 richest men, but his business interests are extensive and profitable.

He maintains homes in London's fashionable Eaton Square and a magnificent $2 million mansion on the Ile St. Louis in Paris, a few blocks from President Georges Pompidou's private residence.

But his travels around the world mean he is seldom in one place for very long. He has been known to attend Ismaili religious ceremonies in the East one week, turn up the next to catch the latest shows in New York and then pop up at a resort sunning himself or skiing in the company of the prettiest girls on the scene.

FOR THE LAST 10 months, however, there has been only one companion, Sarah.

The always smiling Prince—balding slightly now but strikingly like his handsome father — said his wife had taken it upon herself to convert to her fiance's religion. She studied the Koran alone and then attended ceremonies at a Mosque in Paris.

At his mother's residence at Versoix, Switzerland, at his own resort development in Sardinia —everywhere the Prince has gone he has been accompanied by the attractive ex-model.

In June, model agency chief Peter Lumley was informed that Lady Sarah wished to give up the modeling world, which had paid her around $12,000 a year. She privately took back all her photos and newspaper and magazine clippings.

"Lady Sarah told me that her bookings interfered with her private life," Lumley said. He regretted her departure because he considered her one of the most professional models on his books.

"I HAD HEARD of her being escorted by the Aga Khan, but I had no idea of the real reason behind her not wanting to work any more," Lumley said.

The wedding was held in France explained the Prince "because what would my followers in Syria have said if I had married in Pakistan, or vice-versa?"

The Islamic world was informed only 24 hours in advance of the recent public announcement of the pending marriage. The Prince's spokesman said the news was accompanied by "demonstrations of joy" in many areas. Religious ceremonies were held in Tanzania to allow the 40,000 Ismailis there to celebrate the occasion.

The Prince takes his religious duties seriously and every year presides at Ismaili ceremonies wearing the "Nehru-style" tunic, embroidered coat, astrakhan hat, necklace and ring that signify his rank. The Ismailis are the richest sect within the Moslem religion. They are descendants of the fierce Hashashin Tribe which is, by legend, credited with bequething to the Western world the knowledge of Hashish smoking and the word "assassin."

THEY ARE SPREAD all over the world and usually form the merchant section of the local Moslem population.

Prince Karim himself is of dual Iranian-British nationality and has represented both countries in skiing competitions, with varying degrees of success. He represented Iran in the Innsbruck Winter Olympic Games in 1964.

Lady Sarah's name began cropping up in connection with Prince Karim some months ago. Although hindsight shows there were reasons why she should not have been considered just another girl friend, not even society observers guessed the secret—which the Aga Khan says he confided only to other Ismailis knowing his confidence would be respected.

Sarah learned Urdu, one of the major Indian tongues, as a child and has always been interested in Indian clothing and food. This was an immediate bond of interest when they were introduced. Sarah said she will apply herself to charitable work and to raising a family — and for recreation she might enter horse racing as an owner.

Girl Scout Blitz Against Prejudice On Troop Basis

SEATTLE (AP) — A Girl Scout blitz campaign to blot out racial prejudice will depend on "personal commitment" and be strictly voluntary, the new president of Girl Scouts of the USA says.

But if some Scout troops decide they don't want to go along with the "Action 70" campaign, "that's their decision," Mrs. Douglas H. MacNeil said Wednesday. "We believe there'll be very few of those."

The dispute developed after an all-white Girl Scout choir performed at Sunday's opening ceremonies. The women said in a prepared statement later they were "appalled, shocked and extremely embarrassed" at what they saw as lack of minority group representation in that and other aspects of the convention.

Grand Theft Swine Style

Later in the day, after the men were booked, the district attorney refused to file a criminal complaint on the advice of the sheriff's department and the youths were released.

A spokesman for the fraternity said the youths were supposed to live with the pig for three days and then have their pictures taken with the animal in various public places.

Youth's Case To Juvenile Division

The case of Gregory Alan Pack, 18, of Santa Venetia, has been referred to juvenile probation officers for possible transferral to Marin Juvenile Court.

Pack, who is accused of burglarizing a Novato residence Oct. 15, was told to return to municipal court Nov. 6 to see if his case will be accepted by juvenile authorities.

FAMILY

"My side of the Mountain"—The adventures and experiences of a 13 year-old boy who tries to prove he can live alone in the wilderness of Quebec. Excellent script, artistically and sensitively directed.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Bandolero"—Well-made and well-cast, very violent western has a fitting background of fine desert scenery.

"Barefoot in the Park"—Spicy; well directed situation comedy about a pair of newlyweds. Dialogue is clever and cast delightful.

"Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid"—True story of two bank and train robbers in the late 1900's that were popularized by the news media is treated as comedy. Robbers move to Bolivia to continue their trade with mixed results. Delightful scenery, imaginative camera work, clever score and memorable performances from cast.

"Popi"—A Puerto Rican widower dreams up a fantastic scheme to take his two little sons out of the New York ghetto in this unusual tragi-comedy. Ghetto scenes frightening realism very authentic.

BORDERLINE

(Most sources says Adults Only)

"Bonnie and Clyde"—Young man teams with pretty waitress on a grand crime spree. Treating armed robbery and cold-blooded murder as comedy will offend wome viewers. Sadistic violence and explicit sex shown.

"Place for Lovers"—A time-worn tale (of an intimate affair between a dying woman and an Italian engineer) in a glamorous new wrapping. Film is made modern by including a wild party and pornographic film slides.

ADULTS ONLY

"Barbarella"—Mediocre production goes so far beyond mere vulgarity in sex, nudity and perverted brutality that it is close to pornography.

"Castle Keep"—The eve of Battle of the Bulge eight walking wounded American occupy an ancient treasure-filled Belgian castle directly in the path of the offensive. War satire fraught with symbolism, dark humor and graphically bawdy talk.

"I Am Curious Yello"—Complex movie within a movie structure is somewhat confusing and laborious. A Swedish social expose which received undue publicity when seized by customs because of explicit treatment of sex, depicting intercourse and oral-genital contact full view-full length and minus stratigic shadows or cut-aways. (Parents Magazine).

"Justine"—Decadent, wealthy Egyptians scheme to buy and ship arms to Palestine during 1918 when Jewish underground was fighting the British. Debauchery, adultery, homosexuality, incest are casually present as acceptable.

"Last Summer"—A thought-provoking drama about growing up, stuns as it moves from youthful activity to depravity with a frightening combination of innocence, thwarted sex drives and destructive impulses in the skillful interplay of these groping growing personalities.

"Midnight Cowboy"—An off beat film peopled with the dregs of society is somber and hard hitting. A crippled small time chiseler first exploits and then befriends a vain Texan who comes to New York to be a male prostitute. Sordid story told in an uncompromising way and tempered by directors technical skill gives meaning to the term "adult movie". (Parents Magazine).

"Valley of the Dolls"—Word "dolls" in the title refers not to girls but to the pills to which they are addicted. A corny soap opera.

Slight Error

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Thirty-five years after they were married, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ross asked the courts to declare their marriage valid. It seems that somebody forgot to record their marriage when the ceremony was performed in 1934.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1969 21

Larkspur Schools Set Transfer Tab

A county plan to charge costs of educating transfer students to the students' home districts was ratified last night by the Larkspur School District board.

Under the proposal from the Marin County Board of Education, the costs to be billed will be those above what the Larkspur School District receives from the state for the child, according to Supt. Milton Cohen.

"If it costs us $700 to educate a child from another district and the state pays us $400, we will bill the district the youngster came from for $300," Cohen explained.

According to the plan, the county board has the final say in approval or denial of transfers, according to the superintendent.

The Larkspur Schools District Board Also:

APPOINTMENT — Noted the appointment of Superintendent Cohen to the executive board of the North Bay PACE Center, a federally-funded agency for the improvment of classroom instruction.

MEETING — Agreed to attend the Marin County School Boards Association meeting Oct. 30 at the Holiday Inn, Terra Linda.

COURSE OF STUDY — Adopted the Marin County basic course of study, requirements for instruction approved by the county board of education.

NEGOTIATORS — Received letters from the Larkspur Teachers Association naming the association's negotiating panel for future salary negotiations.

CONFERENCE — Authorized Cohen to attend the Governor's Statehouse Conference on Education in Sacramento Nov. 10 and 11.

REPORTS — Heard reports from Jan Ferris, district speech and hearing consultant and Wilmuth Fitch, curriculum director. Mrs. Ferris discussed the speech and hearing program and Mrs. Fitch spoke on testing.

Youth To Answer Pair Of Charges

James Robert Chrisler, 20, of Mill Valley, yesterday was bound over to Marin Superior Court on charges of possessing marijuana Sept. 10 and stealing a motorcycle in 1965.

He is to appear in court Nov. 3 for arraignment.

Chrisler was stopped by Mill Valley police for fraudulent registration of his motorcycle, and a check showed that the cycle's number matched that of a machine stolen in 1965. Officers also reported that Chrisler had a bag of marijuana with him.

WANTED: HOME SANS PSYCHIATRIST

The Spotty Saga Of A Now-Fat Cat

By ANNE BARDWELL

WANTED: Home for fat cat, once three-pound weakling. Needs tender loving care. Desperate.

What do you do when you need to find a home for a cat? Why, you advertise or place notices in local stores. And failing success, you write a letter to the editor.

That's what good samaritan Virginia Howard of 36 Thomas Drive, Mill Valley, did last week after vainly seeking to find a home for a black and orange year-old female cat she saved from starvation on the streets of Mill Valley three months ago.

It's not that Miss Howard doesn't like Noname. It's just that "my own animals are very unhappy and I can't afford the care and feeding of an extra pet. And I just quit my job to boot," Miss Howard wrote the Independent-Journal last week.

It all started three months ago when Miss Howard was walking her dog near Fern Street and Sycamore Avenue in Mill Valley.

"Out of the bushes approached a crying cat," Miss Howard explained. "I thought it rather odd that it ignored the dog and bent down to stroke it. Well! I was utterly shocked! I was petting a skeleton. The cat was a wobbly full-grown female about an inch wide. I did not have the heart to leave her so brought her home. She weighed three pounds.

"She couldn't eat — so I called the emergency vet number. He advised I call the humane society and have her put to sleep. I demurred, saying she had come to me for help — not annihilation," Miss Howard continued.

"As my two cats and dog were furious and as Noname still was too delicate, I loaned her to a friend who was housesitting four days. He put her outdoors for fresh air but the wind blew her over.

"Noname then spent the next month locked in my bedroom while I advertised . . . . . there were serious ads, happy ads, sad ones and soul-bearing ones. Once a girl phoned that she was interested but was going camping that weekend. Monday she changed her mind.

"Another time a woman took her on trial. Three days later she returned Noname saying her psychiatrist said she wasn't ready for a cat.

"I thought of returning her to Sycamore and Fern but she needs her teeth cleaned every six months or year — otherwise she'll have a problem. She has a loose tooth now and a lump on her leg from a battle.

Agency Backs Annexing Land

Dillon's Beach subdivision and Oceana Marin Unit One, totaling some 35 acres, should be annexed to the North Marin County Water District, the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission decided unanimously last night at the Civic Center.

Developer Benjamin P. Bonelli asked for annexation so that existing homes, totaling 165, can get sewer service. Bonelli proposed the annexation of 43 acres, but commissioners deleted the area to the south and west of Cypress Avenue, as recommended by executive officer John F. Barrows.

The commissioners also asked Barrows to draft a proposal for legislative changes to lower some of the hurdles in the present city annexation laws.

Teen To Higher Court On Drugs

Paul Martin Washburn, 19, of Gate 6, near Sausalito, and Dennis Joseph George Ross, 26, of no known address, were bound over to Marin Superior Court yesterday on narcotics charges.

They are to appear in court Monday for arraignment.

The men were arrested Sept. 19 in Sausalito by a drug agent who said one of them threw evidence into Bay waters, forcing him to dive in after it.

Washburn is accused of possessing marijuana and possessing the weed for sale, and Ross is charged with possession of LSD and possession of the same drug for sale.

Delaplane Gets Press Club Gavel

Delaplane, a San Francisco Chronicle columnist, won a Pulitzer Prize in 1942 and the National Headliners Award in 1946 and 1959. He has been a member of the 82-year-old club for 30 years.

He succeeds Gale Cook of Greenbrae, city editor of the San Francisco Examiner.

Try To Find The Right Key When The Door Tightly Shut

During World War II, I spent some of my time opening safes and locked doors, a nefarious practice that came naturally to me because of my bridge background. An experienced bridge player gets quite a bit of practice unlocking doors to get to the dummy, as today's hand indicates.

SCOWLS AT WEST

South won the first trick with the ace of spades and scowled at West for the fiendish opening lead. With any other lead it would have been a cinch to get to dummy by ruffing a heart.

South could surely win six trumps, two hearts and the ace of diamonds. His game would be safe if he could get to dummy in order to cash the ace of clubs. But how could he unlock the door to dummy?

Declarer made an attempt by leading a low heart to dummy's jack. This would land him in the dummy if West had the king of hearts.

WRONG KEY

The attempt was better than nothing, but not much better. East won with the king of hearts and returned a trump to take the last spade out of dummy. Now South had to lead everything out of his own hand and wound up losing two diamonds and one more heart. Down one.

Give the defenders credit for suspecting the club situation, but don't give South any credit as a locksmith. At the second trick South should lead the queen of hearts to open the door to dummy.

COULD BE ENTRY

If East wins the trick, dummy's jack of hearts is an entry. If East declines the trick, South cashes the ace of hearts and ruffs a heart. Either way, declarer is sure of the game and rubber.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ 3 2
♡ J 4
◇ 7 4 3 2
♣ A 7 6 5 2.

ANSWER: Pass.

Do not respond with only five points in high cards, particularly when one of those points is a doubleton jack in an unbid suit. You might be tempted to respond to one heart btcause then the jack of hearts would have some value; but there should be little temptation to respond to one spadt. If partner opened with one club or one diamond, you would raise, since then your doubletons would give you some ruffing value.

Youth Movement

ALMANAC

Today is Friday, Oct. 24, the 297th day of 1969 with 68 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Jupiter and Saturn. The evening star is Mars.

On this day in history:

In 1861, the first telegram was sent across the United States from California Chief Justice Stephen Field to President Lincoln.

In 1939, women's hosiery made of nylon went on sale for the first time in Wilmington, Del.

In 1945, Secretary of State James Byrnes announced the United Nations Charter was in force following Russian ratification.

In 1952, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican nominee for President, said if elected he would go to Korea and seek to end the war there.

A thought for the day: Greek poet Minnermus said, "We are all clever at envying a famous man while he is yet alive, and at praising him when he is dead."

More Wealth Not Children

JAIPUR, India (AP) — Rajasthan state Chief Minister M. L. Sukhadia has appealed to Indian women to adopt the Gandhian technique of nonviolent noncooperation — against their husbands to prevent overpopulation.

"Tell your husbands to produce more wealth and NOT more children," he told a conference of tribal women.

Key Club To Be Feted By Sponsors

Members of the Key Club at San Rafael High School will be guests of its sponsoring organization, the San Rafael Kiwanis Club, on Thursday in observance of "Key Club Week."

The club's 15 members will be feted by the Kiwanians at their weekly luncheon at Fleur de France in downtown San Rafael.

"Key Club Week" has been proclaimed locally by Mayor C. Paul Bettini and statewide by Gov. Ronald Reagan to honor the Kiwanis-sponsored organization of high school youth, which began in 1925 at Sacramento High School and now includes 3,500 clubs.

The Key Clubs promote high standards in scholarship, sportsmanship and social service. The San Rafael High School club has included many student leaders, and the present student body president, Lee Harris, is a lieutenant governor of Key Club.

Cars Recalled By Chevrolet

DETROIT (UPI)—Chevrolet has recalled 500 early production 1969 Blazers to correct outside mirrors, fuel line seals and a possible misleading decal on the gear shift that would indicate the car was in neutral when it was actually in gear.

Chevrolet said the vehicles involved will have rectangular outside mirrors substituted for incorrect round outside rear view mirros. Seals between the fuel filler neck and the body panel may have been omitted during production, the company said, which could admit dust, water and exhaust fumes, into the body.

The company said a few of the Blazers may have the incorrect decal which will be replaced "to preclude the possibility of unexpected movement when the clutch is released or the automatic transmission is engaged."

Three Drinking Drivers Fined

Three persons have been sentenced in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

Thomas Keith Flynn, 36, of the Wilkins Hotel, San Rafael, was placed on three years probation and given a six-months suspended jail sentence. He was also ordered to spend five days in jail. Flynn was arrested July 6 on Highway 101.

William Francis Garrow, 41, of 246 Beach Road, Belvedere, who was arrested Oct. 4 on Highway 101, was placed on six months probation and fined $150.

Howard Miller, 34, of 116 Wimbledon Way, San Rafael, who was arrested last Saturday on Highway 101, was placed on six months probation and fined $400.

Cash Theft Reported

Lowell P. Vincent, proprietor of a service station at 108 Bellam Boulevard, San Rafael, told police yesterday that an envelope containing $158 was stolen Wednesday from a drawer in the station office.

Slayer Of Tot May Have Been A Pack Of Dogs

SAN JOSE (UPI) — A 2-year-old Los Gatos girl, who was believed to have died at the hands of a knife-wielding slayer five days ago, apparently was killed by a pack of wild dogs.

Santa Clara County Coroner John Hauser said yesterday reexamination of the body of Shelly Holmboe, and comparison with pictures of other dog attack victims, clearly indicated the child was killed by animals.

Shelley's body, which contained nearly 200 pounds, was found less than three miles from a spot where two San Jose teen-age girls were killed last Aug. 4. They were stabbed a total of 350 times.

Santa Clara County Sheriff Charles Prelsnik said the dog theory was "as good as any we have, probably better."

Golfers Bringing Harding Course To Its Knees

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — George Archer said his elbow hurts. Jack Montgomery said he was still weak from a recent appendectomy and Dick Mayer said he just came along "to see who all these names belong to."

But the three ambled and scrambled through the cold and damp, with an occasional side trip to the woods, in to the top three places in the $100,000 San Francisco Open Golf Tournament yesterday.

Archer, the 6-foot-6 Masters champion who has been sidelined with tendonitis in the left elbow for six weeks, had 10 birdies en route to an eight-under-par 63. Non-winner Montgomery and the veteran Mayer, each had 64s in the first round.

And Arnold Palmer, who said "the course could not be playing easier," had to settle for a 70, far back in the 144 man field.

The tight, 6,677-yard Lakeside layout took a terrible beating. In all, 59 players broke par and another matched par 71, with the prospect that it may take a subpar total to make the cut when the field is trimmed to the low 70 shooters and ties for the final two rounds tomorrow and Sunday.

Jerry Heard, a 22-year-old who has just completed his first year on the tour, and big Bob Lunn trailed Mayer and Montgomery with 65s. Lee Elder and Mike Hill each had a 66.

Seven more, including Dave Hill, Bob Goalby and Dale Douglass, had 67s. Billy Casper, who won the event a year ago when it was called the Lucky International, had a 70 and PGA champ Ray Floyd took a 71.

Archer, who withdrew from last week's Sahara Invitational and was a questionable starter until the last minute said "It was just my day. It is like shooting dice. Everything I shot came up a seven. Everything I got close to the hole went in."

Big George said the pain in his elbow has reduced "from being like a knife in you to a dull throbbing, something you can stand."

He had a scrambling round, despite his 10 birdies. Three shots went into the woods or caromed off trees. On two of them he got birds. One was on a par five, where he hooked his second shot back to the fairway, put his third six inches from the pin and tapped in. Another bounced off a tree and back to the fairway, he reached in regulation and ran in a 35 foot putt.

Mayer, a 46-year-old who won the U.S. Open in 1957, scored his last tour victory in 1965. He said he doesn't know half the players on the tour since he has been off for about a year.

Can't Tell What Might Pop Up In 'Personals'

The following classified ad appeared in Wednesday's I-J under Personals:

"JIM TODT, please come home. Brodie's arm has been sore 13 years. Love, Judy."

No, James S. Todt of San Rafael didn't really run away from home, nor was the ad placed by his loving wife, Judy. It was just a friend's way of needling Todt about the latest episode in the trials and tribulations of John Riley Brodie who has p i t c h e d too many curves, screwballs and drops for the 49ers and developed a case of Little League elbow.

Todt, you see, is founder, president and one-third the membership of the John Brodie Fan Club. The other two-thirds of the club is composed of his wife and aunt (Todt's, not Brodie's).

Don't Be Misled, Friends

You can't find a more loyal fan than Todt, so don't be misled by that classified ad. He didn't run away from home in grief over Brodie's ailment. He just went to Lourdes to put in a good word for his idol. Watch for Brodie — and Todt — to make the comeback of the year.

WHEN THE NINERS battle the Colts on the tube in Baltimore Sunday, pay particular attention to the individual battle between 49er offensive tackle Cas Banasek and Colt defensive end Bubba Smith — it should be a doozy.

When asked about his opposite number in Baltimore, Cas quipped, "Bubba Who?" But, he quickly retracted that by saying: "It's not a good idea to get him mad or insult him because he can get awfully mean. In fact, to his face I call him Charles."

GOOD NEWS from Hanover, N.H., where Mill Valleyan Barry Brink, probably the largest pre-med student (6-3, 235) at Dartmouth, is one of the key reasons the Indians football team is undefeated in five games and favored to win the Ivy League championship.

Doing Fine Job At Dartmouth

The Tam High grad has won a starting defensive tackle job with a consistently fine showing, including No. 1 defensive grading in Dartmouth's recent rout of Penn. Dartmouth ranks among the national collegiate leaders in total defense.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Brink, recently visited the east and saw Dartmouth add Penn and Holy Cross to its list of conquests. A junior pre-med student, Barry will transfer to the warmer climes at U.C. Berkeley just for the winter quarter so he can sharpen up his tennis skills, returning to Dartmouth for his senior year.

ROSS VALLEY Kiwanis Club has presented a plaque to Charles Monte of San Anselmo for his chairmanship of the club's annual North-South Marin High School football game.

CENTER FORREST BLUE and middle linebacker Frank Nunley will be guests of the Marin 49er Boosters Club at its noon luncheon Monday at Dominic's Restaurant, San Rafael. Also on the guest list are Terra Linda High quarterback Tom Jackson and San Marin linebacker John Burnam, the I-J's preps of the week.

Amateurism In Sports On Agenda

DUBROVNIK, Yugoslavia (AP) — Amateurism in sports crops up on the agenda today at a meeting of National Olympic Committees as they prepare to discuss the issue with top officials of the International Olympic Committee.

National Olympic Committees delegates are reliably reported to be divided on the rules governing amateurism but it appears that most of them are willing to make concessions to the individual athletes.

RELUCTANT

The I.O.C. executive board, however, is reluctant to accept proposals concerning amateur rules indicating the subject will be hotly discussed at joint meetings of the I.O.C. executive board and the National Olympic Committees delegates.

Most of the National Olympic Committees delegates were in favor of making the amateur rule more flexible whereby an athlete could be paid by his company during training periods, an Asian delegate said.

However, president of the I.O.C. Avery Brundage, is reportedly still opposed to athletes retaining any fees or any form of commercialism in amateur sports.

PROS IN HOCKEY

A recent decision by the Hockey Federation to permit professionals is also expected to be vetoed by Brundage if it comes up for discussion at the two-day joint meeting starting tomorrow.

On the question of Alpine stars, Brundage has already expressed his disapproval of some ski stars who allegedly had commercial tie-ins with athletic companies at the 1968 Winter Games in Grenoble. He demanded that several of them return their medals.

Despite the fact that the meetings here will not produce any final conclusions, they will set the stage for a full I.O.C. and International Sports Federations meetings in Amsterdam next May, where the major issues are expected to be resolved.

1976 SITES

The I.O.C. also is scheduled to announce the sites for the 1976 winter and summer games.

The I.O.C. executive board met for the first time Thursday night since arriving at this picturesque Adriatic resort city to prepare the agenda for tomorrow's joint meeting.

Discrimination is already on the program and a demand from African National Olympic Committees to ban South Africa from I.O.C sponsored athletic meetings is expected to be aired.

The African delegates met again last n i g h t behind closed doors to plan their next move after the National Olympic Committee's general assembly declined to pass a resolution demanding South Africa drop their discriminatory practices by May 1970.

Controversy Cloud Is Over Wyoming

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP) — The University of Wyoming, 16th-ranked among the nation's college football teams, made final preparations for its last home game of the season today under a cloud of controversy after the suspension of 14 black athletes for taking part in a protest demonstration.

With a 5-0 record, the Cowboys are already assured of another non-losing season under Coach Lloyd Eaton, an eight-year veteran at Wyoming who has driven his team into national prominence.

DEMONSTRATION

Eaton suspended the 14 players last week for taking part in a demonstration against Brigham Young University, their Saturday opponent. The players charged BYU with racism because it is operated by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints (Mormon) which the players said banned Negoes from advancement.

Saturday, Wyoming hosts San Jose State in a homecoming game.

San Jose Coach Joe McMullen said yesterday he was confident all his players would be in action against the Cowboys, despite some requests that they boycott the game in sympathy with the black athletes.

"At the time, there had been no mention of picketing," McMullen said after a team meeting. "But I trust there is no difference in the team's attitude then and now."

San Jose State black athletes boycotted a BYU game last fall because of a protest similar to the Wyoming action. McMullen said university officials then worked out a "rights of conscience" authorization for any player to sit out a game without penalty if he first notifies the coach."

McMullen said he believed SJS was the only school in the nation with such an agreement.

Eaton, meanwhile, Thursday said his players will hereafter be permitted to join student demonstrations as long as they don't carry their causes to the playing field.

"We are altering the rule so it applies only to players while directly participating in team activities," Eaton said.

STANDS FIRM

Eaton, meanwhile, yesterday ing by his decision to keep the blacks off his team for the remainder of the season, though. He said they may be reinstated next year.

"At the completion of the current football season, each of the blacks will have the opportunity to meet individually with the football coaches to review the opportunities of his returning to the Wyoming football program," he said.

Eaton said the decision came after re-evaluating his rule on dissent.

Nateless Warriors Set Down Knicks

Thurmond Tossed From Game

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Knicks just might have been talked into their first defeat of the National Basketball Association season by Nate Thurmond of San Francisco.

Actually, shouting is a better description of what Nate was doing when he lambasted referee Jake O'Donnell midway through the second period of the Warriors' game against the Knicks last night.

O'Donnell, a two-sport man, has heard it all before as an American league umpire and when Nate objected to a call and said the magic word, O'Donnell first called a technical on him and then gave him the old heave ho.

10-POINT LEAD

Thurmond had 13 points and 11 rebounds at the time and the Warriors held a 46-36 lead. But the absence of their 6-foot-10 All Star center didn't seem to faze them as they went on to hand the Knicks their first loss in six games 112-109 at Madison Square Garden.

Jeff Mullins scored 27 points for San Francisco and Joe Ellis came off the bench for 18, including 10 in the final period, two of them free throws for a 110-107 lead with one minute to go.

Thurmond's unexpected exit might have helped.

SAME FEELING

New York coach Red Holzman had the same feeling after seeing his club outrebounded 68-42 by the hustling Warriors as center Willis Reed managed only five rebounds and 22 points, hitting a dismal six of 22 field goal tries, against Thurmond's rookie replacement Dale Schlueter.

"I wasn't happy to see him go," Holzman said of Thurmond's departue. Sometimes that works against you. I'd ratcher take my chances with him in there. The other team compensates for it. They help each other more. We did the same thing last year when some of our guys were hurt.

"We were just flat and they caused a lot of things to happen to us by playing good defense."

But even Holzman indicated he was surprised to see Thurmond waved off after only one technical foul. Normally, it is the custom to hit a player with two technicals, which is automatic ejection.

TECHNICALS

That's what angered Thurmond and Lee, who also picked up a technical while Thurmond was leaving.

"I deserved it for what I said," Lee admitted.

Thurmond, too, admitted "I said something bad."

But both felt that O'Donnell should have walked away from the argument or shouldn't have kicked the 6-foot-10 center out without calling another technical.

SHIRLEY FINDS OUT

It's Man's World On Pro Golf Tour

DALLAS (AP) — Shirley Englehorn isn't one of those pouty type females.

She would dearly love to tee it up with the men professionals in the Los Angeles Open in January. Even had her plans made and heart set on it.

But if Joe Dey, the czar of the Professional Golfers Association, says that's no place for a lady—so be it.

Dey ruled yesterday that the PGA is for males only.

"I'm not a girl jockey," the 29-year-old Miss Englehorn told the Associated Press by telephone from Corpus Christi. "I respect their ruling. I just hope some day it can be changed. Golf is golf. If I could qualify, why not?"

SPONSORS

Miss Englehorn, who has won $115,000 on the Ladies Professional Golfers Association tour since 1959, said she had been offered a chance to qualify in early January by the Los Angeles Open tournament sponsors.

"They weren't giving me an automatic spot in the tournament," she said. "I would have had to tee it up from the men's tees with 30 or 40 players going after two places in the starting field."

"I was curious to see how well I could have done. I realize they hit 7-irons to the green where we have to hit 4-woods, but in golf the real ability is in getting the ball in the cup."

In New York, Dey said his decision was based on "kindness to women."

APPROVAL

Although there's nothing in the PGA rules saying a sponsor can't invite a woman to try and qualify for a tournament, Dey said the PGA has the right to approve all entries if it wants to.

It takes some doing to qualify for the tour. You either have to graduate from the PGA approved player school, be a Class A club professional, a foreign player in good standing with the PGA, an amateur with a handicap of two or less—or land one of those sponsors' exemptions.

Spurrier To Start For 49ers

REDWOOD CITY (AP)—Steve Spurrier will start at quarterback for the San Francisco 49ers when they meet Baltimore Sunday, 49er coach Dick Nolan said today.

Nolan made up his mind before watching veteran John Brodie pass for the first time after complaining of a sore elbow following last week's 21-7 National Football League loss to Atlanta.

Spurrier, a third-year man from Florida, has not started a regular season game in two years. However, he started several exhibition games and has seen fourth-quarter action in regular games this year.

Two New Seals Ready To Play

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Seals, bolstered by the acquisition of two defensemen, risk their N a t i o n a l Hockey League Western Division lead tonight when they face the Boston Bruins at 8 o'clock in the Oakland Coliseum Arena.

The Seals, tied with Minnesota atop the Western Division standings, added Aut Erickson to their defensive crew yesterday, calling the 30-year-old veteran up from Phoenix.

Redwood's Second Five Triumphs

Redwood High School's entire cross country team and Novato High School's Ron Elijah just keep rolling along.

Redwood, using its second five runners, still handed Marin Catholic the equivalent of a cross-country shutout, winning 15-48, at Redwood's Phoenix Lake Course. Steve Levintow was the top runner in 16:46. Redwood's top five runners will compete in the Modesto Invitational tomorrow. The victory was Redwood's fifth without a loss in Marin County Athletic League action.

E l i j a h remained unbeaten, leading Novato to a tight 28-29 win over San Rafael, at San Rafael. Elijah won in 15:15 to set a course record while San Rafael's Steve Elias was second in 15:41.

In other meets, Tamalpais topped Terra Linda, 22-35, at Tamalpais, with Vian Collier and Lowery McFerrin finishing one-two, and San Marin topped Drake, 23-32, at San Marin with Chaka Chappell taking individual honors.

Two Teams Tied In Class C Basketball Race

Redwood High School's Class C basketball team moved into a tie for first place in the Marin County Athletic League standings by nipping Marin Catholic, 26-25, at Redwood yesterday.

In another MCAL Class C game, San Rafael hiked its record to 3-4 with a 32-25 win over Terra Linda at San Rafael.

Marin Catholic's loss completed a black week for the Wildcats, who dropped from first to third, losing to Drake by two points Tuesday.

Redwood is now tied for first with Drake. Both teams have 6-2 records while Marin Catholic is third at 5-3, with four games left to play.

Rick Barry Undergoes Surgery On Hurt Knee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rick Barry, one of the true superstars of professional basketball, says he wonders at times if his problems of the past year would have occurred had he not switched to the American Basketball Association.

Specifically, Barry is concerned about the injuries he's suffered since leaving the National Basketball Association two years ago.

Barry, the 6-foot-7½, 217 pounder was to undergo surgery for the removal of a cartilage in his left knee today, the second such operation he's had this year.

"I seldom think about it," said Barry shortly before he entered the Washington Medical Center. "But if I ever had any second thoughts, it would have been 'If I stayed in the NBA, would I have gotten hurt?' But who's to say. I don't know."

Barry, after getting out of the University of Miami in 1965 as everyone's All-America, joined the San Francisco Warriors. He was named the Rookie of the Year and won the scoring championship.

In his third year in the pros, he jumped the NBA and signed with the ABA's Oakland Oaks but a court fight ensued and Barry was forced to sit out a year.

Joining the Oaks last season, Barry led the ABA with a 34-point scoring average, although was missing half the season when he underwent an operation to have the medial cartilage on his left knee removed.

The Oaks, who won the ABA championship last season, were sold earlier this year to Earl Foreman who moved the team to Washington.

He reinjured the left knee three days after his arrival in the nation's capital, then apparently "popped" the cartilage in the Caps first game last Saturday against the New Orleans Buccaneers.

Dr. Stan Levine, the team physician, taped the knee and told Barry to try it out to see if he could get by. Barry said it worked against Louisville earlier this week "but I couldn't do the things I wanted to do."

Against the Carolina Cougers in Charlotte Wednesday, he said he was running down court and "it just popped when I tried to cut."

Dr. Levine told him, Barry said, he could tape it again and he would be able to play but he could not guarantee that it would not go out on him in another game.

Sonoma State Takes To Road For 'Home' Game

Sonoma State College will be going for win number three tonight when it travels to Sebastopol for a "home" game.

The Cossacks take on the San Francisco State junior varsity at 7:30 at Analy High School's field. The game originally had been scheduled for tomorrow at Petaluma's Durst Field, but had to be changed as some of the S.F. jayvee players have to double up and play for the varsity tomorrow against Cal at Davis. (Stories of other games involving Marin and Sonoma county teams on page 38.)

Sandwiched b e t w e e n two sound whippings, the Cossacks have a pair of victories, 21-7 over Cal State (Hayward) and 21-14 over Cal Aggies (Davis) junior varisty teams. Sonoma lost its opener, 65-0 to Arizona Western, a junior College, and last Saturday fell to Taft (Kern County, another junior college powerhouse, 43-6.

Battered Novato Vs. Terra Linda

Terra Linda High School's Trojan football team tries to take another stride toward a Fourth consecutive Marin County Athletic League football crown tomorrow against a battered, depleted but game Novato team at Novato, 2 p.m.

Only a year ago, the two teams played it out under very different circumstances, with a title at stake. Terra Linda won it then, 7-6, but Novato went on to tie for the crown.

This year, the Hornests are way out of the running and have scored only one touchdown in three league losses. And they are hurting.

"It will take a super effort to win," Novato coach Al Scott admitted glumly. "We've made some changes, and we may open up more, but it's going to be tough."

The Hornets lost tackle Steve Stanley for the year with dizzy spells along with three-year starter Wayne Palmer, who has ulcerative colitis.

NOTHING TO LOSE

"Their Novato's offense isn't as bad as it has been," said Terra Linda assistant coach Hank Yamagata, subbing for ailing Don Lucas. "Besides, they've everything to gain, nothing to lose for this one. We've got everything to lose."

The Trojans' main concern is to score against an admittedly tough Novato defense.

"We'll have to figure out a way to handle Dave Perron, their linebacker. He's a good one." Yamagata said. "But I don't think they've faced strong passing like ours in the league."

Trojan quarterback Tom Jackson will take care of that and will hope he'll have as much success as Petaluman Fred Klemenock did in a 28-7 win over Novato. That was the most points scored on Novato all year.

Stanford Vs. UCLA In Biggie

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

UCLA's undefeated Bruins and the Indians of Stanford battle tomorrow in a Pacific-8 football meeting which matches two of the nation's top collegiate offenses.

Kickoff for the game, in Stanford Stadium, is scheduled for 1:30 p.m.

Stanford, paced by the passing of quarterback Jim Plunkett, has averaged 511 yards per game and scored 26 touchdowns to rank second nationally among the major college clubs.

UCLA, which complements the passing of Dennis Dummit with the running of Greg Jones and Mickey Cureton, has gained 490.7 per game with 30 touchdowns.

The undefeated Bruins sport a 6-0 record. Stanford is 3-2 after losing by a point to Purdue and by two to the Southern California Trojans.

UCLA, USC and Stanford remain the Big Three in the Rose Bowl race but a loss by the Indians would virtually eliminate them from contention.

Criticism Not Bothering Clay

LAS VEGAS — Deposed heavyweight champion Cassius Clay isn't disturbed by criticism of his selection as a ringside television commentator at tomorrow's amateur boxing matches between the United States and Russia.

Clay said U.S. heavyweight Jim Elder was "well within his rights to say what he thinks. "This is a free country and he is entitled to voice his personal opinion."

Elder, a 23-year-old Texan who spent four years in the Navy with two trips to Vietnam, called the hiring of Caly "an affront" because of his refusal to be inducted into the Army.

Tarnished Drake Attempts To Stop San Marin Tonight

Slightly tarnished Drake High School and fledgling San Marin, a team with a winning habit acquired early, collide in a key Marin County Athletic League football game at San Rafael High School tonight, 8 o'clock.

Drake, a school with fine MCAL traditions of winning now fallen on lean days, will put its pride and still considerable talent on the line in a bid to stop the upstart Mustangs, who have won four games and lost none in their first varsity season. That includes league wins over Novato and Tamalpais.

Drake is 1-2 in league and hurting with four regulars lost for the season, latest being center Rod Warnhoff and end Jim Dominguez.

"San Marin has a fine ballclub," Drake coach Bob Franceschini said. "They have the winning habit, and that can get to be awfully tough to beat."

GOOD RUNNER

"We've used him primarily on defense," he said. "But he's a good runner."

For San Marin, it's practically a must game since the Mustangs would like to meet top-rated Terra Linda with an unblemished record. But they may have a tough time getting as sky-high as in their emotional 9-0 win over Novato last week.

"We've been a little off in our practice this week," coach Bob Martin said. "But I'm not worried that the kids won't get up for it. They want to win."

Quarterback Ken Gnoss leads an offense-minded team, backed by top runners Steve Lambert and Urbano Bouscieguez. Linebacker Jack Burnam heads a defense that held Novato to just 10 yards total offense last week.

Petaluma's Klemenock Is Ready

It's been a long time since Petaluma High School quarterback Fred Klemenok has made "contact."

The Trojan signal-caller, who suffered a hip injury in guiding Petaluma to a 33-14 homecoming win over Napa last Friday night, has not scrimmaged with the club this week in preparation for tonight's North Bay League game against Hogan High in Vallejo.

Klemenok is expected to start, however, as the Trojans look for their second straight league win.

Klemenok continues to lead the NBL Section I in passing as he has completed 63 of 98 passes (64 per cent) for 969 yards and 14 touchdowns. Petaluma split end Bob Garcia, the league's leading receiver, has caught 34 Klemenok aerials for 696 yards and 11 touchdowns. Garcia also holds the NBL-I scoring lead with 66 points.

In other NBL-I action tonight, Vallejo is at Santa Rosa in a battle of the league's unbeatens and Montgomery of Santa Rosa goes to Napa. Ukiah steps out of the league to battle NBL-II power Sonoma at Ukiah.

Rancho Cotate (Rohnert Park) has the least-wanted task in section II circles as they host Percy Grogans and the Cardinal Newman Cardinals of Santa Rosa at Petaluma's Durst Field.

Grogans has been almost a one-man show in leading the Cards to the top of the league standings in their first year as members. He has scored 86 points and boasts a rushing average of 7.1 yards per carry to top NBL-II players in both categories.

In other NBL-II games, Piner of Santa Rosa is at El Molino (Forestville) and Analy of Sebastapol meets Healdsburg.

The fourth southern Sonma County prep team, St. Vincent of Petaluma, gets back in action tomorrow after a week off, travelling to Eureka to meet powerful St. Bernard's.

20 Flag Football Teams Open Play In San Rafael

San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department opens its elementary and junior high flag football program tomorrow.

This year there are 20 teams representing 12 elementary schools throughout San Rafael, according to A. J. Snyder Jr., director of parks and recreation. There are 10 teams in the sixth grade league, and 10 more in the fourth and fifth grade league. Each league has two divisions.

All elementary school league games will be played on Saturdays at San Rafael High, starting at 9 a.m.

There are four schools in the junior high league, Davidson, Santa Venetia and Vallecito from San Rafael, and one from Mill Valley Park and Recreation Department.

All junior high league games will be played at Vallecito Junior High on Saturdays 9 .m.

Dixon Says Knee Is Strong Enough

OAKLAND (AP) — Hewritt Dixon, the Oakland Raiders fullback, thinks his injured knee is strong enough to permit him to play Sunday against the San Diego Chargers.

"I feel real good," he said yesterday. "I'm just waiting for the go ahead. I have confidence in the knee and I'm going out there with a positive attitude."

Dixon injured the knee last season and underwent an operation before this season started. He reinjured it Sept. 20 in a game against Miami.

Improved San Rafael, Tam Teams Clash In Mill Valley Tomorrow

Tamalpais and San Rafael high schools, two improved Marin County Athletic League football teams, will battle it out at Tamalpais in Mill Valley tomorrow at 1:30 p.m.

The improvement has had different results for the two teams. San Rafael, after losing to Drake, 17-7, has reeled off two straight shutout victories, while Tamalpais is still looking for its first league win and is seeking to break a losing streak of four games.

The Indians, admittedly have faced the best of the league so far, bowing to Redwood, San Marin and Terra Linda. They looked good in a 28-12 loss to Terra Linda last week, but they may have tough time moving against a growingly stingy San Rafael defense.

FINE DEFENSE

"They have a fine defensive club," Tamalpais coach Mike Davlin said. "They do a good job. They're well balanced and experienced."

The Indians are young and inexperienced but they have a sound running game and improved passing from soph quarterback Pat Locey.

"I think we're getting along quite a bit better," San Rafael coach Bob Muster said. "Our pass defense has really come along. But Tam will be tough. That Washington (Billy) is a tough boy, on defense and offense."

The Bulldogs have snared 12 interceptions so far, with Bob Peterson and Bruce Nave leading the way with three each.

OTHER MARIN TEAMS

Redwood Invades Eureka

Redwood High School will stay in the driver's seat of the Marin County Athletic League football race and leave the driving to the rest of the teams, at least for this weekend.

The Giants draw the bye this week in the seven-team loop, and they'll use it to trek all the way to Eureka for a none-league game at 8 o'clock tonight.

The Giants, 3-0 in league play and 4-1 on the season, will meet a team that has a 3-2 record, one of the better northern teams in the state and a team what whipped Fremont of Oakland 81-7. Which should be fun.

In other games, Tomales (4-1) visits a tough Kelseyville team at 8 tonight, Marin Catholic hosts winless but dangerous St. Mary's of Berkeley at Kentfield at 2 p.m. tomorrow and San Rafael Military, Academy, winless, hosts St. Patrick's of Vallejo at 1 p.m.

TOUGH BACK

Kelseyville was the team which handed SRMA a 68-0 thrashing earlier in the season. It sports a tough back in Roy Woodridge, who is reputed to on the level with Ron Petroni, Tomales' star. But Tomales, which opened league play by blasting a good Middletown team, 62-0, figures to have more balance with the added running of Axel Anderson and the passing of Dennis Rodoni.

St. Mary's of Berkeley is 0-4, and that worries Marin Catholic coach Cliff Vattuone, whose Wildcats are 2-2-1. St. Mary's has lost to St. Francis by one point, to Bellarmine, 6-0, to Vallejo 20-6 and to Riordan, 40-0. All are super-tough teams and St. Mary's should be primed.

SRMA topped St. Patrick's last year, but the Cadets are in the throes of a miserable season and it may be tough to come up for air.

'Must' Game Might Go The Other Way

OAKLAND—One of the growing cliches in professional football involves the decision in a game "played by two reasonable well-matched clubs." In this sort of titanic struggle victory will go to the team "that has to win."

On the assumption that this theorem isn't a lot of baloney — or at least as believable as most pro grid hokum (fat content will soon be measured)—you deduce the San Diego Chargers will defeat he marvelous, beloved Raiders down South on Sunday.

IF THE CHARGERS lose, their season will have ended at the halfway point of the 1969 American Football League year. Which ain't much fun.

San Diego is already 4-2 to the Raiders' 5-0-1, and stumbling. They appear headed for their fourth consecutive third place finish in the AFL West, rather shoddy showings for a club that was the Western champion in five of the league's first six seasons. Clearly, the Raiders have replaced the Charger dynasty. Tell that to Sid Gillman. Just try.

To begin with, the only coach San Diego has had started the week grimly. His lads somehow managed to defeat the Boston Patriots, pro football's most embarrassing team, last Sunday. They beat them ony 13-10, almost cause for a ticker tape parade among Bostonians. When one considers that the Chargers hace been leading the AFL in most offensive departments (the Patriots lead only in lowest attendance),one figures Gillman's gorillas were looking ahead to Oakland.

"WE CERTAINLY can get the ball down there," said Gillman. "But we can't get it across the goal line."

Funny thing is, up until last Sunday the Raiders were belting a similar libretto, despite an earlier 38-23 crushing of Boston. They ran into—and over—Buffalo here last week, scoring five times in less than 11 minutes, for an NBA-like average of about three points a minute.

A game with the Warriors would have made more sense. All the Raiders now agree that Daryle Lamonica has his his stride, along with his receivers. Sufficient momentum seems to be building.

BUT WILL IT help? Boston coach Clive Rush is not all that certain about Oakland superiority. He went so far as to call the Chargers "damn good football team," using the word "good" for emphasis of course. "I think they've got a good shot at the Western championship," said Rush.

Eliminate those two early season losses, to Kansas City and Cincinnati in the first two games of the year, and brother Rush might be correct. Grant Gillman the excuse of having quarterback John Hadl injured in that pair and he's still in trouble, he still "has to win."

WITH WHAT? San Diego obviously has offensive foreworks in its recovered Hadl, receivers Alworth and Garrison, runners Post and Hubbert. But there are he Raiders with their recovered (psychologically) Lamonica, receivers Wells, Biletnikoff, Cannon, runners Dixon (if he's well), Banaszak, Smith. Left alone, all these lads could play the highest -scoring game in football history, omitting a few 1969 college scores.

Gillman must be concerned mostly with the fact the offenses won't be left alone. The Charger defensive line simply has trouble reaching the passer. They're improving—against the youth of Cincinnati and Boston that is. But the Raiders can handle them, and given the time Lanonica will get Sunday, well. . .

WE'RE GETTING one game closer to the Super Bowl," Daryle said after the Buffalo business. "That's what I've got my eye on."

That vision can see through football cliches any day. Particularly on Sundays; particularly on Sundays in San Diego.

Lady Ump Takes Case To Court

NE W YORK (UPI)—Mrs. Bernice Gera has a diploma from a professional umpires school and she wants to use it. But she says she can't get a job because of her sex.

The five-foot-two housewife took her case to the New York State Division of Human Rights yesterday in an attempt to get the New York-Pennsylvania Baseball League to hire her for the 1970 season. If they won't hire her for the season, then she'll sue for wages she claims the league owes her for August of this year. The hearing was to continue today.

Mrs. Gera contended she can umpire as well as any man and to prove the point, she had an attorney squat like a catcher and she got behind him in umpire fashion.

Attorneys for Mrs. Gera said the league sent her a contract last July for work in August at $200 in wages, $300 in expenses and five cents a mile for travel. But she said the National Association of Baseball Leagues president Philip Pito refused to validate the contract because of her sex.

Quail Hill Contract Awarded

A $2.5 million contract to build the western division headquarters for Commerce Clearing House on Quail Hill, Northgate Shopping Center has been awarded to Aberthaw Construction Co. of South San Francisco.

Present western headquarters of the company is in San Francisco. The new 125,000 square foot building will house all of its subsidiaries in the area, including General Programmed Teaching, Walker's Manual and National Quotation Bureau. The company's total investment in the 82-acre Quail Hill project may run over $6 million, according to western vice president Richard K. Duncan.

As part of the site development program, 55 feet of the top of Quail Hill has been removed and landscaping of the entire hill is expected to begin early in November.

The site is planned for a 10-story office building, five administrative and professional buildings, 110 view townhouses, 34 homes and possibly an advanced business studies center for 200 students.

Architects are Marquis and Stoller of San Francisco. Landscaping is under the direction of Eckbo, Dean, Sustin and Williams of San Francisco. Civil engineer is Carlos E. Gonzalez and soil engineers are Harding-Miller-Lawson and Associates, both of Northgate Industrial Park.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Evidently I am not the only one with growing convern over the size of institutional investors. I understand there is a study being made on this subject. What have they found?—D.C.

A. Both the New York Stock Exchange and the Securities Exchange Commission (SEC) are researching this question. A preliminary report from the former reveals that institutions accounted for 51 per cent of the volume and 56 per cent of the money value of trading on the Big Board so far this year. In 1960 these figures stood at 31 per cent and 40 per cent.

Included under the rather vague term "institution" are: bank trust departments, mutual and hedge funds, insurance companies, nonbank trusts and pension funds. SEC Chairman Budge testified before the Senate Banking Committee that institutions hold equity investments worth over $250 billion. Block trades—executions of 10,000 or more shares—involved 293 million shares last year, up 500 per cent since 1965. As a result the specialist—an individual charged with maintaining an orderly market in designated stocks— is finding it increasingly difficult to raise the capital required to absorb large blocks.

The effects of institutional trading have been further aggravated by the tendency of performance-conscious fund managers to dump entire stock positions on any adverse news. Although the two studies will undoubtedly substantiate much that was previously theory, unless some remedial action results the small investor will continue to be the "fall guy."

Q. Is Mill Factors still in business? Should I continue holding the common stock?—H.N.

A. Still in business and seriously overburdened by heavy operational losses, the company's shares were dropped from trading by AMEX in January. Recent over-the-counter bids were under $1. I see no other option for you than to hold what you have. In February the company sold $27 million of factoring receivables to a Talcott National subsidiary. Talcott has agreed to act as the company's agent should its commercial finance portfolio be put under new management or forced into liquidation.
